

Palmer Hoyt Advocates Unshackled World News For Peace Treaty Base

EUGENE, May 8 (AP)—The cornerstone of an adequate peace treaty must be world wide news freedom, Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of the Denver Post, asserted here last night in the 16th annual Don Mellett Memorial lecture at the University of Oregon.

"Only an informed world can be free, and only a free world can endure," Hoyt told the assembly of journalism department students and faculty members and Oregon newspapermen. The former publisher of the Oregonian suggested President Truman "could make himself immortal by enunciation of a doctrine calling for the elimination of political censorship, world wide dissemination of information and equal rights for correspondents in all nations."

The lecture was sponsored by the Don Mellett Memorial foundation, commemorating the editor and publisher of the Canton, O., Daily News who was assassinated July 16, 1926, during a crusade against vice and crime.

Hoyt declared "civilization would be endowed forever" if Russia and America could reach an accord on the "open mind" which would open all blacked out areas where newspapermen are unable to obtain and report factual news.

He said he was also opposed to any government agency having power to accredit correspondents under a code of self discipline.

Korea Talks Deadlocked

SEOUL, May 8 (AP)—A deadlocked American-Soviet commission has adjourned after the Russians balked at a U. S. plan to abolish the line of demarcation splitting Korea into two isolated zones of occupation, it was announced officially tonight.

The impasse developed, the release said, when the "Soviet delegation made it clear it was not prepared to consult" with Korean political parties which had "actively opposed the Moscow decision" under which a five-year U. S.-Soviet trusteeship for Korea was projected.

It was reported without confirmation that the Russians were miffed at a reported recommendation by Herbert Hoover that food be imported from the Russian zone of northern Korea to the American occupation zone in the south.

Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, American commander in southern Korea, told a press conference later that the American delegation was ready to resume work "any time the Soviet delegation desires — tomorrow if they wish."

Hodge said the Russians "gave no indication they would resume the meetings," adding "I don't know what their intentions are."

He said the Russians signified their intention of returning to the northern zone on a special train Thursday morning.

Scappoose Pastures Turned to Rangeland

SCAPPOOSE, May 8 (AP)—Farm pastures in this far area looked like rangelands today with arrival of 1100 head of cattle for fattening before marketing here.

Ed Wist, who is feeding the cattle, said the herds arrived by rail from California and the 25 carloads represented one of the largest shipments received in the Portland district for feeding.
