

KUHS Staff Breaks Up For Summer

With the school year at an end and summer vacation beginning once more, the teachers of Klamath Union high school, as well as many of the students, are looking for summer occupations. Many of the KUHS faculty are planning to be out-of-town for the vacation months.

Among those teachers to be away this summer are Lucile Tweed, Borghild Mehlum, KUHS librarian, and Mrs. Bernadine Noggle. Wendell Smith, according to his plans at present, expects to travel to Boston, and C. G. Woodhouse, English instructor, will go down south on some radio research.

A few are planning to attend school this summer. Huston Robison, U. S. history teacher, will be back in Chicago at summer school at the University of Chicago, earning a doctor's degree. Genevieve Oppen of the KUHS commercial department, left a few days before the end of school to start at Columbia university, and Margaret Ireland is planning to attend a short term at Oregon State college, and later travel to Seattle and Victoria.

Ed Ryan, head football coach for next year, will go to the University of Oregon to receive his masters degree in science some time in June.

Some faculty members plan to visit with their parents this summer. Mrs. Loretta Druecker is planning to travel to Oakland for a visit with her parents, while Mrs. Margaret Strode, school nurse, will be in Yakima, Wash., visiting her mother, and

Trains Back On Schedule

Rail movements throughout the Klamath basin returned to normal this weekend and with the strike over all Southern Pacific employes returned Monday morning to positions which had been abolished over the weekend.

Lloyd S. Stitt, district freight and passenger agent, said this afternoon that the yards were "pretty well cleaned out," all freight was moving and the passenger trains were on a normal schedule.

The Cascade, slated to leave Portland at 4:50 p. m., Saturday, failed to travel south when no passengers showed up to board her, Stitt said. The first passenger train which came through Klamath Falls at the end of the strike period, was the Portland and Astoria, which arrived Sunday at 6:05 p. m. Six passengers got off here as they reached their destination — Klamath Falls.

Although the strike-folded ticket offices here prepared for a heavy passenger run, the demand for tickets was possibly a little less than normal, officials said. They gave as reasons for the light purchase, unsettled conditions throughout the country, the coal strike, lack of tourist facilities and general conditions elsewhere. Apparently travelers decided to stay at home until the nation gave an all-clear on vacation travel.

Special arrangements to move mail and essentials were cancelled here as well as other points throughout the nation as trains assumed usual loads. R. L. Griffith, assistant postmaster here, said an unusually heavy shipment of first class mail came in Sunday morning but this was all cleaned up yesterday afternoon. As this was first class mail, all mail was delivered Monday in good order. Griffith said his office was anticipating a heavy influx of parcel post, second, third and fourth class mail, Tuesday and this would put a crimp in handling this type of mail for a day or two.

Grocery store clerks and managers were mopping their brows by Saturday afternoon due to the heavy demand of perishables as well as canned food. Housewives stocked shelves in the eventuality that the strike would continue indefinitely. One chain store manager told The Herald and News:

"This was worse than the rationing runs!"
