VANCOUVER, B. C., May 28 (AP)—The striking loggers of British Columbia brought their power to bear on the newsprint industry today by hanging the "hot" label on logs at the Powell River company pulp mill, which produces the paper used in many United States newspapers.

At the start of the loggers' strike two weeks ago the pulp mills were believed to have enough logs to carry them for three weeks. The Longshoremen's, Seamen's and Inland Boatmen's unions had agreed not to handle any logs labeled as "hot" by the CIO-International Woodworkers of America, but

Bread Slash To Hit State

SALEM, May 28 (AP)—The federal order reducing the weight of bread 10 per cent next Saturday will apply to Oregon, State Agriculture Director E. L. Peterson said today.

Peterson, who just returned from Washington, D. C., where he attempted to get wheat to solve the northwest's feed shortage, said he has not seen the order, but that the order takes precedent over state laws which regulate the size of bread loaves.

Peterson said he and the Oregon congressional delegation are hopeful that commodity credit corporation wheat can be shipped to Oregon immediately, but that the situation still doesn't look too good.

"I saw President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson. I told them the situation is acute, that the government created it, and that the government must do something about it," Peterson said.

"I found the president sympathetic, and Anderson directed his field men to try to find us some wheat.

"Now we are trying to get President Truman to issue a directive ordering the wheat sent out here. I have heard reports that there are 750,000 bushels of wheat in the midwest that we might get."

Sen. Wayne L. Morse telegraphed Salem newspapers today that the only commitment Anderson has made to relieve the shortage is "see what could be done." Morse said Sen. Guy Gordon sent the president Truman an additional letter giving more facts, but that no reply has yet been received.

Willamette Group Elects Brooks Man

SALEM, May 28 (AP)—Ronald Jones, Brooks, state president of the Farmers union and former state senator, was elected chairman of the Willamette river basin commission yesterday.

Elmer Moxley, Springfield, was named vice chairman. Wade Newberg, Portland, is the third member.

The three were appointed last week by Governor Earl Snell, the preceding commission having resigned.

no such action had been taken up to the present.

Officials of the company declared they had no "hot" logs on any operations, that all logs on hand were produced before the strike started and any moved since that time have been taken from the booming grounds to the mill by union boatmen. Most were en route, they added, before the strike started.

As this new threat developed Chief Justice Gordon Sloan, federal mediator, was holding hearings at which both the union and the employers were to review the case. The union seeks wage increases of 18 cents an hour—a drop from the original 25-cent demand—and a 40-hour week. The operators have offered a $1 per day boost.

Justice Sloan said his findings would be submitted to both parties for their opinions and then forwarded to the federal labor department.

At the same time the IWA called, or a march of loggers on Victoria, the capital. One union official said he believed 3000 men might take part in this massive "lobby."

Ex-Sweetheart Freed On Bail

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 28 (AP)—Mrs. Lucy Malcolmson, 35, was free today under $10,000 bail in grand theft charges brought by Lt. Col. Gregory (Pappy) Boyington, the marine hero who loved her, she said, in January but accused her of crime in May.

Last week Boyington, top-ranking fighter pilot before his capture by the Japanese, filed the complaint charging Mrs. Malcolmson with the theft of more than $9000, which was entrusted to her, Boyington said, for the care of his three children.

Sheriff's deputies began a search for Mrs. Malcolmson. Yesterday she appeared here with Attorney Richard Cantillon of Los Angeles, was booked at the county jail and was released on surety bond approved by Municipal Judge A. F. Molina. Her preliminary hearing was set for June 26.

"I am innocent and I will prove it at the proper time," she said. She described Boyington's filing of charges as a mystery to her.

"The last time I saw him," she said, "was January 3 in Reno. He was due back the next Wednesday. I was waiting at the airport for him when I heard he had been married."

Now we are trying to get President Truman to issue a directive ordering the wheat sent out here. I have heard reports that there are 750,000 bushels of wheat in the midwest that we might get."

Salem Appeals Court Bar On Park Meters

SALEM, May 28 (AP)—The city of Salem filed a supreme court appeal today from an injunction which prohibits the city from entering into a contract for parking meters. The injunction, issued by Circuit Judge George Duncan, was sought by a group of merchants, who held up awarding the contract by circulating petitions against the meters.

Caley Purchases Klamath Business

V. M. Caley, for the past eight years operator-printer at the Mt. Shasta Herald in Mt. Shasta, Calif., has purchased the Klamath Printing company, 320 Lowell, from F. W. Riggs, pioneer Klamath printer.

Caley said today he had taken over the plant and his wife and two young daughters will arrive this week to join him. He has purchased a home at 301 Lowell from P. H. Meroney.

Riggs, who has lived in Klamath Falls for more than 40 years, is retiring from active business and is anticipating a long vacation and much fishing. He has operated the job printing plant here for a long period.

Fishermen Use Converted LCT

HONOLULU, May 28 (AP)—Seven men, three women and six children were en route to Alaska today in a 119-foot converted LCT (landing craft, tank).

They plan to fish commercially in the waters off Prince William sound, from their converted war vessel, the Mahina Hou (Hawaiian for new moon).

Allen H. Elston, descendant of Hawaiian chiefs, is skipper of the ship, purchased as surplus property for $4500. Its bridge was smashed and starboard plates buckled in a collision with another navy ship.

Elston put the LCT into drydock, repairs were made, a refrigeration unit was installed, and the ship was redesigned for its civilian role.

The Mahina Hou has aboard enough food for six months and fuel for 7000 miles of cruising. It is equipped with two-way radio of 500-mile range for emergency use. Its three engines drive the ship at six-knot speed.

First port of call en route north is Everett, Wash. If the Mahina Hou pulls in there under its own power, it will set a non-refueling distance record for LCT's, Elston says.

In Alaska, the group will incorporate with a capitalization of $40,000 under the name Alaskan Allied Industries.

Nominations for officers for the next year, beginning July 1, were in order.

The child care and training committee with Mrs. Elizabeth Clendenen as chairman presented a chapter night program. Attendance at the charter member dinner, May 18, was small, with places marked for only 30 guests.
