New businesses are popping up in Klamath Falls like mushrooms after a spring rain, with the return of veterans, civilians from shipyard areas and an influx of new residents.

Latest addition to the business realm is the electrical appliance shop in the Esquire building, officially opening for business June 1, under the name Tucker-Stenkamp Appliances. H. Stenkamp and Paul M. Tucker, both of Portland are the operators. Wade Albin of Cordell, Okla., will also be associated with the firm.

Another event of interest in downtown Klamath Falls is the move of Charlie Schuss' tavern from 822 Main to a new location at 117 S. 7th. Schuss' will be open for business at the new address June 1. Schuss returned from the army in 1945 after three years of service. The new tavern will be all modern, Schuss said, with a glass brick front. The building was purchased by Schuss in February, 1946, from Dr. R. W. Stearns.

Truman Plan To Preclude Ship Tie-Up

WASHINGTON, May 31 (AP)—President Truman said today he will use every means in his power to keep the ships running in the event of a nationwide maritime strike.

The president told his news conference he would use the navy, the war shipping administration, the coast guard—and the army as well—if necessary. At the same time Mr. Truman said the labor controversy in the maritime field looks very dark. The administration, he added, is making all necessary preparations to keep the ships going and nothing will be left undone. In dealing with the situation, the president said at another point, he will go just as far as present laws allow. He added that the emergency legislation he has asked of congress would go very far in facilitating operations of the ships.
