

Stock Sale To Finance Steam Deal

considered satisfactory enough to present to the customers. G. C. Lorenz, a member of the committee, said that he sold the Klamath Heating company plant in 1928 for $150,000, and that the plant's income has doubled since that time.

Copco Official Advises
John Boyle, vice president of the California Oregon Power company who gave the committee technical assistance, said that the heating plant has a depreciated value of $150,000 for heating purposes on the books of the public utilities commissioner. He said that its salvage value is estimated at $50,000, or a little less than Hood's offer to the customers.

Lorenz, who built the plant, said that by investing about $100,000 above the purchase price in putting it into shape, adding an oil-burning stand-by boiler, and making other improvements, he is sure users can get heat in this manner as cheap or cheaper than any other way. It was pointed out that without a central plant, individual heating plants would have to be installed throughout the business district.

An adequate rate structure will be necessary to insure proper operation of the plant and eventual remuneration to stockholders, it was stated.

Shutdown Averted
E. B. Hall, a member of the investigating committee, said that the issue is of vital importance, "for if it hadn't been for the work of this committee, the heating plant would be shut down tonight."

He added that "it has boiled down to a question whether we want heat or not."
L. Orth Sismore, another member of the committee, said that the deal is to acquire the physical plant only, clear of all taxes or encumbrances. This, he said, would eliminate any question of liability for any obligation of the Klamath Heating company.

It was brought out that the heating company has been collecting for only 30 per cent of the steam generated, due to steam losses in the pipes and elsewhere. Lorenz said that plant corrections and good management should result in substantial savings.

Transformer Mishap Shuts Down Factory

ALTURAS, June 1.—A burned out transformer caused a shutdown of the Ralph L. Smith box factory in this city. Inability to secure a new one or have repairs made, is expected to keep the factory idle for a week. Operations are expected to resume Monday.

Anguished Warbride Mothers

Tears flow unrestrained for these two warbride mothers, left to right, Mrs. Hilda Smith, 26, of France, and Mrs. Berthe Herter of Belgium, whose babies became ill on a transport bringing them to the U. S. and then were hospitalized at Pittsburgh, Pa. Mrs. Smith's baby died. At least five other babies died. —AP wirephoto.

Busy Baking Days Ahead As Bread Shelves Empty

of dough and place, seam side down, in a semi-circle on greased cookie sheet. With scissors, cut dough almost through at one-inch intervals, then pull these petal shaped sections to lie a little to one side all around. Cover with towel and let rise in warm place until double in bulk. About 45 minutes. If you want to get glossy, glaze the top and sides with slightly beaten egg white mixed with 1 tablespoon of cold water. This is the professional touch! Bake in moderate hot oven, about 400 for 15 minutes. Cool slightly then frost with 3 tablespoons of powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon warm water and 1/4 cup halved pecans. You can't go wrong!

Flour Short
As for the filling—the stuff you put in before you roll up the rectangle—that is made by combining 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1/4 cup brown sugar, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/4 cup seedless raisins.

Bread Rolls
One package of dry yeast, 1/2 cup lukewarm water, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1/2 cup warm milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, well beaten. (This is the trick), 3 tablespoons shortening. About 3 cups sifted flour.

Pour lukewarm water over the yeast, add 1/2 teaspoon sugar, stir and let stand 10 minutes. Meanwhile scald the milk, pour it into a mixing bowl and dissolve in it the salt and remaining sugar. Let cool. When milk is lukewarm add the dissolved yeast and 2 cups sifted flour. Beat until smooth. Next add beaten egg and the shortening, melted but not hot. (Quick trick: oil). Beat until smooth. Add enough more sifted flour to make a dough which can just be beaten with a mixing spoon. Beat well. Let dough rise until doubled.

Then turn it onto a floured board and roll lightly until about 1/2 inch thick. Cut with small biscuit cutter, or pinch off in small pieces and round into balls. Let rest 14 minutes, covered to prevent crusting. Place in greased baking tins. Brush tops with butter and let rise until light but less than doubled in size. Bake until golden brown, about 15 minutes, in a fairly hot oven, 400 to 425. To speed this up, keep them warm while rising. Once we were rushed and we started the oven and put the rolls on top of the stove. Works nicely.

Now that's the simple roll recipe. For bread making get one of those books that call Fleischmann or Moca put out and you can't go wrong. They do at each step like Ned in the First Reader.

Pastries are off the baker's list and if you have a family that goes for coffee cake in the morning you can't go wrong on this. Also good for a late snack warm and crunchy—with coffee in the afternoon. It's a Dessert Ring:

Dessert Ring
1/2 cup scalded milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, beaten, 1/2 cake yeast, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour. Pour scalded milk over sugar, shortening, salt, in a bowl and stir until dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Stir egg and crumbled yeast into mixture until the yeast is dissolved. Stir in 1 cup of flour, beat smooth with egg beater. Stir in remaining cup flour and beat until smooth. Brush top of dough with little salad oil, or butter, cover with towel and let rise in a warm place. When double in bulk, punch down, then roll out on a floured board into a rectangle about 13 by 7. Brush rectangle with melted butter, sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Roll up from the long side, crosswise. Pinch edges to side of existence. The committee, which is affiliated with the American Legion, has between $11,000 and $12,000 which it has saved as reserves against a "rainy day."

Basin Rodeo Group Favored

Past Experience Discussed
There was considerable discussion of the experience of the past few years in which the rodeo has been sponsored by the committee, and issues leading up to the committee's charge of non-cooperation by the fair board, city council and county court.

Marshall Cornett, a member of the committee, said that he felt the Buckaroo Days program had moved away from its original purpose, inasmuch as it has become the project of a single organization.

Cornett said that as a community enterprise, the rodeo had received generous support and gratis assistance in many departments, but that in recent years the attitude toward it has become more cold-blooded.

The Buckaroo Days show was started a decade or so ago after merchants raised about $8000 as a financial basis for a Fourth of July celebration here.

Similar to Pendleton Roundup
It was the consensus of opinion at the meeting that it would be best to have a separate rodeo association, not affiliated with any presently-established organization, fashioned along the lines of the Pendleton Roundup association, Lakeview's roundup body and similar groups.

Fercy Murray, a member of the fair board, said that at one time the fair board offered to match any amount appropriated by the Buckaroo Days committee to put up additional grandstand facilities so that the show income could be substantially increased. The committee voted to accept the proposal, but did not carry through.

Murray said that a large part of the $500 rental which the board has been charging the committee has gone to insurance and other expenses. The fair board's decision to raise the rental to 10 per cent of gross was one of the complaints of the committee when it called off its annual effort.

Murray remarked that under the present set-up, with the proceeds of the rodeo accruing to one group, the fair board has no choice but to consider it as a profit-making enterprise rather than a public benefit effort.

Present at the meeting were Bob McGeheey and Cornett of the Buckaroo Days committee, representatives of the merchants association, chamber of commerce, American Legion and other interested groups and individuals. John Houston, president of the chamber, presided.

Woman Driver Pays $10 Fine

Arrested on a warrant charging refusal to give her name and address at the scene of an accident, Muriel Pratt, 32, of 334 N. 4th, pleaded guilty in justice court yesterday and was fined $10.

She was involved in an accident on highway 97 early Thursday morning with a car operated by Victor Wolfe, who signed the complaint against her. Wolfe said that Miss Pratt refused to divulge her name and address at the scene of the accident and drove away.

She was traced through her car license number and arrested at the Dinette cafe on Main where she is employed as a cook.

'Typical American Girl' Arrives For Date

Divorce Pleas Outnumber Weddings In Month Of May

During the month of May a total of 25 marriage licenses were issued by the county clerk here, and in an adjoining office the circuit clerk received petitions for 37 divorces and one annulment. Also passing through the local divorce mill were 33 final decrees, evidence that matrimony is fast becoming less popular than single bliss in Klamath county.

The marriage permits went to 22 civilian couples, two marines and one soldier, a complete reversal of the situation which prevailed here half a year ago.

Of the 37 petitions for divorce, 27 were filed by wives and 10 by husbands, and the one annulment was filed by a wife on the grounds that a prior divorce for the husband was not final.

Four husbands and one wife listed desertion as the cause for divorce action, and all the rest charged cruel and inhuman treatment, the legal catch-all which might imply almost anything.

Nine of the families being broken up were married in the last two and a half years, seven of them in 1944, and children had been born to 19 of the marriages.

As for the final decrees, 25 went to wives and eight to husbands.

Mystery Cloaks Fate Of Cossack

FRANKFURT, June 1 (AP)—US army intelligence officers said today that Lt. Gen. Andrei A. Vlasov, termed Russia's No. 1 native-born war criminal, was secretly handed over to the red army a year ago and that his fate is a mystery to the western allies.

Releasing hitherto confidential information, the Americans said the once-honored former Soviet army commander was reported to have been turned over to the Russians by Czechoslovak authorities after he was taken prisoner in Prague May 5, 1945.

Since Vlasov's capture, thousands of his saber-wielding cossacks, whom he led against the red army he once served, have been sent back to their homeland to face Soviet justice.

Pravda Denounces Catholic Activity

LONDON, June 1 (AP)—The communist party newspaper Pravda accused Roman Catholic clergymen today of threatening spiritual damnation to church members who voted for left-wing parties in Italian elections Sunday, according to the Moscow radio.

A Tass dispatch broadcast by Moscow radio said that, upon Vatican orders, "the huge army of Catholic preachers consisting of 52 archbishops, 229 bishops, tens of thousands of priests and over 500,000 monks and nuns were mobilized . . . to conduct election propaganda in an effort to 'catch' votes for the reactionary royalist forces united in a single anti-democratic camp."

Bombay Declares Emergency State

BOMBAY, June 1 (AP)—The Bombay government declared a "state of emergency" in the center of the city today as the death toll rose to six in a three-day series of clashes between untouchables and caste Hindus. Sixty-three persons had been injured, mostly in stabbings.

Job's Daughters—Members of Job's Daughters are to meet in a body Sunday morning at 10:30 at the Episcopal church to attend services at 11.

The first woman senator was Mrs. Rebecca Felton of Georgia, who served one day in 1922.

Wild Drivers Go To Court

Two youths, William F. Peace, 19, of 2128 Darrow, and John W. Mathis, 23, of route 2, are slated to appear in municipal court today on charges of reckless driving in Mills addition last night. They were arrested by city police at 8th and Walnut and released until court time.

Roy David Norvlin, 30, of route 1, arrested at 9th and Lincoln early last night for reckless driving, posted $25 bail. Robert Gene Double, 2433 S. 6th, posted $10 bail for violation of the basic rule on S. 6th, and Leslie L. Shaw, 1012 Eldorado, posted $5 for running a red light at S. 6th and E. Main.

Cecil Drew, 1124 California, and John C. Argetsinger, Pacific Supply cooperative, each paid $5 for violation of city ordinance 3371, allowing dogs to run at large.

Canadian Japs Sail For Home

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 1 (CP)—Six hundred and seventy Japanese men, women and children, displaying little emotion at the thought of leaving Canada, are en route to their homeland today aboard the SS Marine Angel, in the first phase of the dominion government's deportation policy.

The group, which sailed last night, was made up of families from Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia, and is the first of 10,400 Canadian Japanese who during the war expressed their wish to return to Japan.

All were voluntary repatriates, but some were a bit uncertain about their future in the Far East. With the younger element it was largely a matter of staying with their families, and a few expressed hope that they may sometime return to Canada if only for a visit.

Each person took about 675 pounds of luggage, including 175 pounds of personal belongings. Many sewing machines were included.

Rare Chinese Books Uncovered In Japan

TOKYO, June 1 (AP)—Ten cases of rare Chinese books, some dating to the Sung dynasty, have been recovered from the Japanese, allied headquarters announced today.

Property of the national central library of Nanking, the books will be transported by plane to China Monday. About 35,000 other valuable Chinese editions will be shipped later.

The volumes were seized by the Japanese at Hong Kong in 1942 and were still in the original cases in which the Chinese had packed them for shipment to the United States for safe keeping.

Small Business Aid Talked At Portland

PORTLAND, June 1 (AP)—Some 500,000 small firms were forced to suspend business because of the war, United Commercial Travelers of America were told at their 48th annual grand council business session here yesterday.

The group discussed ways to aid these small businesses. Some 350 delegates from Oregon, Washington and British Columbia attended the Edward Rowehottom, British Columbia minister of trade and finance, spoke.

Philadelphian Takes Trolley For Joyride

PHILADELPHIA, June 1 (AP)—An unidentified man entered Philadelphia Transportation company car barns early today, drove a trolley car out and made two records of breaking round-trip runs over a West Philadelphia route, picking up a few passengers and giving them the ride of their lives.

On the second trip, the amateur motorman braked the trolley to a squealing, spark-showing stop in front of the barn, leaped out and escaped pursuit by policemen and PTC supervisors who were catching up with the car after a wild chase.
