Impressive funeral rites were held here last Monday afternoon at the Baptist church for Mrs. Anna Schroeder, aged canyon recluse, who died at the Alturas hospital early last Saturday morning, May 25. Death followed a partial paralytic stroke which happened in her home sometime prior to Wednesday evening, May 22, where she was found lying in a semi-conscious condition at the foot of her basement stairs.

Friends and acquaintances were shocked at the sudden demise of A. C. England who dropped dead with heart failure up rugged Cottonwood canyon May 25. England was an elderly prospector who made his last trip up the mountains, accompanied at the time by his son-in-law from Klamath Falls. When the coroner, Sheriff Sharp, found the body it was well up toward the summit on the old military trail over the mountains.

He was accompanied and aided in bringing the body out by Lee Perry, Bill Allen and Buster Cudriff. Funeral services were held in Davis Creek last Wednesday afternoon.

A large crowd attended the last day graduation exercises of the eighth grade at the Kelly Creek school last Wednesday night. Only three graduates, May Benefiel, Violet Lightie and Richard Robnett were in the eighth grade this year, all of whom graduated. Richard Robnett was home with the measles and unable to attend the program, but Derry Hammerley read his class prophesy for him. A huge potluck supper featured the opening festivities for the evening. There was everything good to eat on the tables and ice-cream and cake for refreshments.

The program put on by the school and the PTA was amusing, especially the skit, "Dr. A. M. Putate," put on by Pat Hallinan, Mrs. Homer McLean, and Raymond Fisher. A cute rendition of "Sioux City Sue" was put on by the school pupils.

Anne Sprague, county school superintendent, gave the graduates a fine constructive talk on what the future holds for them if they will but properly equip themselves with sufficient learning to meet their responsibilities.

A violin duet was played by Mrs. Ruby Partin and Irvin L. Paris, accompanied by Mrs. Erma Sanders on the piano. The Benefiel sisters, May and Dorothy, played a guitar duet.
