By MALCOLM EPLEY

COPIES of the civil aeronautics board's decision in the west coast cases show that the board paid too little attention to travel potentialities between Klamath Falls, Lakeview, and Alturas in making its decision against the proposed feeder line services connecting those points.

Missed The Picture

READING the report, one who is familiar with this country quickly realizes that the CAB missed the picture on this proposed feeder line service.

For one thing, it doesn't realize the air travel potentialities of such towns as Lakeview and Alturas. In population statistics they look pretty small. A mossbackish eastern town the size of either Lakeview or Alturas wouldn't produce much in the way of air passengers, airmail or air express.

But Lakeview and Alturas are towns with progressive livestock and timber industries that would produce a lot of air business. They are populated by folks who have big ideas and would make a lot of use of airline service if they had it. Proportionately, Klamath Falls is a similar potential producer of air business, as will soon be proved when United starts its service.

Klamath Falls, Lakeview and Alturas have a lot of community interest that has been overlooked by CAB. The same goes for Klamath Falls and Medford.

It's well worth trying again. We know by experience the CAB is slow to recognize the need for air service in this part of the country.

Crater Lake

CRATER LAKE NATIONAL PARK will be open to travel again in a week or so, and it occurs to us that this is a good time to call the attention of Klamath people to the priceless possession they have in this famed natural feature in the northwest corner of our county.

Oregon's only national park lies in Klamath county. It is easily reached by highway from all parts of this area. It makes a beautiful sight from the air. Its proximity adds to the interest of living here, not to speak of its economic value as a major tourist attraction.

In the coming period of heavy tourist travel (all authorities think it will be terrific on the Pacific coast as soon as autos and tires get into major production) Crater lake will attract unprecedented numbers of visitors. Travel into the park will be extremely heavy in the coming summer, whatever happens to production of transportation items.

Through advantages in both the rail and highway departments, Klamath county points are in a position to share heavily in the values of this tourist travel. Klamath Falls is the rail head for rail-bus travel into the park. The shortest highway routes from California's heavily-populated areas into Crater lake are by way of this city. The Willamette and The Dalles-California highways afford ideal routes into Crater lake from Willamette valley and eastern Oregon points.

If this community does its job in developing tourist service facilities and in offering a hospitable atmosphere for tourists, Crater lake will help bring them here in unprecedented numbers in the next few years. The highway and rail facilities are all in, though they need to be more widely publicized.

The World Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst
WE appear to be close to one of the historic moments of our day—an agreement by India's Moslems and Hindus to bury their age-old strife and sit down together for the first time to figure out ways and means of implementing the British government's offer of independence for that great sub-continent.

The Moslem league under the presidency of Mahomed Ali Jinnah—representing 90,000,000 Mohammedans—has finally agreed to negotiate with the viceroy, Lord Wavell, regarding participation in a provisional federal government. Mahatma Gandhi, guiding light of the other great political party—the All India congress, which is comprised largely of Hindus who outnumber the Moslems three to one—has expressed hearty approval of the British plan which will be voted on Sunday by the congress working committee, and the Indian princes have signified willingness to join the federation.

Success Not Sure

ONE swallow doesn't make a summer, and certainly this armistice doesn't ensure success, for it may prove to be a fleeting thing. However, the big point is that these warring politico-religious factions have decided tacitly to try to work together and that India seems to stand on the threshold of freedom after long centuries of subjugation to various conquerors.

The British plan calls for a constituent assembly which will frame a federal constitution. This assembly would comprise delegates—both Hindus and Moslems, according to proportional representation—from the provinces of British India, and delegates from the major Indian states.

"Couldn't you tell them at the office that we'll take our vacation as soon as we get our new car? Or is that a little bit indefinite?"

Man Reports Guns Stolen

F. C. McFetridge, 710 Main, has reported to the city police that four guns were stolen from his place in the Greer apartments probably some time Thursday night.

The loot included a 9mm Luger pistol, a 22-cal. Woodsman pistol, a 300 Savage model 99 rifle and a 22-cal. model 241 automatic rifle.

Edwin Scott, 3543 Summers lane, posted $5 bail with city police last night for having no operator's license. Lawson R. Willie, Stockton, Calif., put up $5 for running a stop sign; Lonel L. Chapman, Portland, paid $10 for running a red light and having no operator's license, and Andrew M. Christenson, 325 Hillside, posted $5 for running a red light.

Nine drunks, two Indians charged with possession of liquor and one man charged with disorderly conduct appeared in municipal court this morning. Five drunks and one drunk and disorderly posted bail.

Molatore's Open After Remodeling

Molatore's restaurant, after being closed three weeks for remodeling, reopened today, it was announced by Harry Molatore.

Molatore's, at 1112 Main street, will be open all day, instead of following the 4:30 p. m. opening schedule of the past, he said. A new kitchen was added in the course of remodeling.

On Leave—Alfred David McNair Jr. is home on recruit leave from the navy, visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred David McNair Sr. of Sprague River. McNair enlisted in the navy at Klamath Falls on March 25. When he reports for duty he will participate in the atomic bomb test at Bikini atoll.

WCTU Meeting—Klamath chapter of WCTU will meet at the home of Mrs. L. Benson, 1135 Pine, Tuesday, June 11, at 2 p. m. Members and friends are cordially invited to attend.

Returns Home—Mrs. W. R. Graney returned home from Klamath Valley hospital yesterday with her infant son, Michael, born Jun 4.

smash-up was the first that has happened in this vicinity for a long time, and maybe goes to show that trainmen are pretty careful in handling anything like that. It usually gives a person at least a small shudder to pass a train load or truckload of logs, just because of that; a small, in comparison, chain looks awfully insecure alongside eight or ten big logs. But they very seldom break. As long as this one chain was destined to bust it seems a shame it couldn't have done it a few hundred yards earlier than it did and saved the bridge.

Train wrecks seem to be quite the order of the day this week. Every time you pick up a newspaper you read that another train has piled up, or plowed into another train or something. Maybe they run like flat tire on a car. Get one and you usually get three.

It is said that girls were called "flappers" early in the 18th century.

Homes Visited By Bookmobile

The Klamath county library announces that it is again conducting a summer bookmobile trips around the county.

On last Tuesday's trip in the Altamont and Shasta districts, the bookmobile unit ran out of books, an unprecedented occurrence in the years that the bookmobile trips have been conducted. Some 75 new borrowers were found in those areas. The trips to those districts will be made each Tuesday during the summer. Seven stops are made.

Twice a month on Thursdays the bookmobile will go to Fairhaven and Keno. On Saturdays, trips will be made to Algoma, Modoc Point, and Fort Klamath, probably twice a month.

Large numbers of new book borrowers have been found on each trip made this week.

STATIC

Laurence Olivier, the great English actor, will shatter another tradition of the entertainment world when he takes the lead in tomorrow's lead-off program of US Steel's new series.

The hour long mystery show, which will replace the guild for the summer, will feature other famous stars on succeeding Sunday's. Olivier will take the lead in Eric Ambler's "Journey into Fear" for Sunday's show. Other shows to be presented during the summer will include "The Bigger They Come," by A. A. Fair; "The Black Angel," by Cornell Woolrich; "Above Suspicion" by Helen McInnes; "The Glass Key" by Dashiell Hammett; "The Burning Court," by John Dickson Carr; and "The Singapore Exile Murders" by Van Wyck Mason.

Looks like Don Neal and Hale Scarborough, the sports experts of The Herald and News-KFLW, will have a weekend at home for a change. The weekly battle on the baseball diamond will take place here instead of out of town. Weed and Klamath will battle it out on Recreation Field tomorrow, with, of course, full coverage by KFLW and The Herald.

Chamber Discusses Sites For Industry

Meeting for the first time since the members were appointed, the industrial development committee of the chamber of commerce yesterday discussed the development of possible industrial sites in Klamath county and possible utilization of this area's lodgepole pine.

A subcommittee composed of Loren Palmerton, Lloyd Stitt, Harry Wayne, Frank Howard and Frank Weaver was named to study possible industrial sites.

LAND OF THE WEST
By F. Elsworth Pellett
There is a beautiful home in the far away west
A home where I'd so love to be
A secluded nook where the big tall trees grow
Way out near the great rest- less sea.
It is bordered by hills covered over with green
Where the deer play in sunshine and shade
And the brook laughs its secret to all who thirst
As it wanders away through the glade.
In that dell over there where the wild flowers grow
And the wood folk play careless and free
And the big trees reach upward their arms to the sky
Their Creator the better to see.
Let me live in that home by the side of the rill
Where the mocking bird sings all the day
Where the pines tell their secrets

to those who would hear
And the voices of nature are gay.
There is beauty for all who would open nature's door
And step forth on its carpet of green
And make friends with the whispering voices that's heard
And the beautiful things that are seen.
In that land of the west there is pleasure for all
If they'd pause in their haste to pass by—
There's secrets and treasures for those who would bide
'neath the blue of the great western sky.
ON STRIKE LEGISLATION
KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (To the Editor)—Mine is a house divided, so to speak. Newspapers and radio are doing us no good as a result. Really I place no blame on those facts though. You see, it's like this: I belong to no union. But I am 100 per cent pro-union. A "variation" of Dewey's remark at Manila, I say "Damn the legislation, full speed ahead to labor." For after all, what does this legislation mean except a "protection" racket for big business?
If a thug goes to hold me up and I get a chance to hit him, I'll hit him hard—just as hard as I can. In such a case, would you pull your punches? I doubt it.
Now, I think everyone will agree the railroad crews have done very well on a big and tough job. When war raged on you heard not one word from them. Big shots of railroading pocketed the biggest incomes in all railroad history. Who made those profits for them? Not the white collared "never sways," it was the soiled, grimy "hoggers," tallow pots, etc. Now we've raised the price of milk, cheese, butter. Every column of a newspaper announces a new price hike. But labor is doubly damned every time it asks for a wage increase in its efforts to keep abreast.
Now we've all heard and read the poor abused railroad executive's tale of woe. How about presenting the other side for a change? Remember that there has to be another side. Congress seems to have found it because congress is on a limb because of it. Now the war is over and we can lay down our guns. Let's quit the super-super flag waving as well. It only confuses the issues for after all, what is "government operation"? Plain simple confiscation, that's all. Labor draft? What is labor? Labor is the one thing a working man has that is salable. He can't sell his commodity at a profit because of a law, why then no law to enforce the same dictates on the capitalists? Until we get
