

New County-City Jail Construction Still In Future Despite Much Work

With the site acquired and architect's drawings completed, the proposed county-city jail building for which $150,000 has been earmarked is still a thing of the future.

A lengthy contract just signed by officials of Klamath county and the city of Klamath Falls sets forth the policy for construction and operation of the combined lockup and office building, placing the responsibility in the hands of a five-man committee.

Members of the committee are the sheriff, police chief, one man appointed by the county court and one by the mayor, and one man appointed by the other four.

Original members, who will serve on the commission for two years, are Sheriff Lloyd Low, Police Chief Orville Hamilton, Dick Henzel, appointed by the county court; Vern Moore, appointed by the mayor, and Nelson Reed, chosen by the other members.

The site of the jail already acquired is all of block 73, Klamath addition, the block between Klamath, Walnut, 2nd and 3rd. Sheldon Brumbaugh is the architect who has planned a low, one-story building suitable for the needs and expansion of the city and county jails, sheriff's office, police department and other attendant offices.

City To Pay Third
Two-thirds of the cost of the structure, estimated at $150,000 originally, will be covered by the county and one-third by the city, but each will have a one-half interest in the building when completed.

Guards and employees will be paid jointly by the county and city, but any special employees will be paid by the agency hiring them. Meals for prisoners will be paid by the law enforcement agency responsible for having the individual prisoners in custody.

The building will be under the sole management of the five-man committee. The commission will hire the contractor, on a sealed bid system, and select all fixtures and installations for the jail after the building is completed.

The county will handle all the money for payment of the construction costs, and be reimbursed by the city on the two-to-one pro rata basis. When ready for occupancy, the various offices will be furnished by the party occupying them, with the commission approving the purchases, and money for

Former USO Space Rebuilt

The Commercial Maintenance company is now permanently established at its new headquarters, 11th and Walnut, and the remodeling of the first floor is progressing at a rapid rate, as fast as the space available for rent is taken up. The company moved into the second floor on February 16, while the USO was still using the main floor. The USO moved out in April.

Originally intended to be used jointly by the Cascade and Arcade hotels for storage and garage by Chris Blanas, who built it in 1928, the Commercial Arts building, as it is now called, has a varied past. In 1929, one year after it was built, Harold Wires leased it and took an agency for the Graham-Paige automobiles. The car business failed about a year and a-half later, and Blanas then contemplated using it as a brewery. Blanas later gave up the idea as "too uncertain."

Carl Kujack then leased the building for a five-year period for storage and a body and fender works. At the termination of this lease the building was let out for dead storage until the USO moved in.

The Commercial Arts company made final transactions for the building January 15, 1946. It is now being used as an office building and industrial storage unit, as well as the home of the Commercial Maintenance company.

DROPPED SOMETHING

INDIO, Calif., June 13 (AP)—F. H. Davison of Houston, Tex., vacation-bound for Los Angeles, was flagged down by sheriff's deputies here.
"Haven't you forgotten something?" they asked.
"Why, no," Davison replied. Then he looked around, found the back seat empty and headed his car back to pick up his wife and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Eunice Stevens, at Desert Center—50 miles down the road.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers believe nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or heavy passings with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Sorry - But You'll Have to Wait

THE delay in the Nation's reconversion program has resulted in an acute shortage of transformers and electrical materials—those things so necessary to bringing electricity to your home or business establishment. Increasing demand for service has depleted our reserve stocks and we must simply wait until the supply catches up with the demand. Even though power lines may be near your property it will be impossible for us to bring to you the convenience of electricity until needed materials are once again available. We are sorry that this delay is necessary; we hope it will not be long. In the meantime, we hope that you will not be inconvenienced.
