

Washington In Row Over Gila Project

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The interior and agriculture departments are feuding about the farmers on reclamation projects. The fight is in the house irrigation reclamation committee, which is considering legislation to make changes in the Gila (Ariz.) reclamation project. The bill authorizes the reclamation bureau to select the settlers, to prepare the land for its first crop and to do some other things which the agriculture department has been doing for non-reclamation farmers for many years.

Clashes between the two departments are not new. Rep. Rockwell (R-Colo.), says he sees a similarity between this argument and one that developed on the bill which created the grazing service, now an interior bureau. There also was some earlier controversy as to which department should supervise the forest service, now an agency of agriculture.

The current dispute is actually the agriculture department's second attempt this session to confine the reclamation bureau's activity to construction activities. It will be spearheaded by Assistant Agriculture Secretary Charles A. Brannin, who is to testify this week or next. His statement already is in the record.

Referring to proposed authority for the reclamation bureau to acquire lands, prepare, farm and supervise the settlement of these lands, the statement said: "The activities contemplated under those authorities are agricultural, and not engineering jobs."

Soviet Consul Attends Trial

SEATTLE, June 24 (AP)—Michael S. Vavilov, Russian consul-general, was here today from San Francisco to report to the Russian government on the espionage trial of Russian Navy Lt. Nicolai G. Redin, 38, for whom a jury panel was to be drawn in federal district court today.

Vavilov conferred with Redin and Defense Attorneys Tracy E. Griffin, Seattle, and Irvin Goodman, Portland. The Soviet purchasing commission posted the lieutenant's bail and is continuing his pay and footing trial costs. The consul said the Russian navy loaned Redin to the purchasing commission.

The U. S. government charges that Redin, while on duty here, enticed and attempted to induce Herbert Kennedy, a shipyard worker, named as principal government witness in Redin's indictment, to obtain for Redin the plans for the destroyer tender, the USS Yellowstone.

OSC Wants Change In Radio License

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP) Eleven applicants seeking new or additional radio facilities for use on the 550 kilocycle frequency today began presentation of technical engineering testimony before the communications commission.

All of the applicants except the Oregon State Agricultural college, Corvallis, want construction permits. Oregon State desires modification of its present license.
