DANNY MAHONEY

Dean of the sellers. That's Danny Mahoney, 13-year-old who keeps the newboys in line and takes care of the seller list. Danny is the circulation department's right hand seller. He has been calling out his wares on Main street for the past six years. Born in Klamath Falls, May 27, 1932, Danny is almost a pioneer. He is the son of Justice of the Peace J. A. Mahoney and Mrs. Mahoney and the family lives at 737 N. 9th. Danny hopes to work up in the circulation where he has a real job. Right now his hobby is playing marbles "for funds" and he is saving his money for scouting equipment. Danny is pretty wise on selling his afternoon papers and along with the rest of the fellows reports the pool halls as the gold mine.

(Ed. note: This is the first of a series of thumbnail sketches to acquaint The Herald and News readers with the sellers and carriers of this paper.)
