Cascade

CASCADE SUMMIT, July 3 Although Cascade Summit has not been able to boast of war work to attract people here, something more lasting than a mere temporary war job, calls people from all parts of the United States here each summer. The many lakes easily accessible from here and good fishing beckon people and the coast cities which almost doubled during the war in population have nothing on this little hamlet which more than quadruples each summer. During the war years not so many of the summer home colonists came here because of transportation troubles not to mention taking the time off to come to the lake, but this summer nearly every cabin is, has been or will be occupied at some time. In the winter months only those stay here whose work brings them here.

Fishermen dotted Odell lake Sunday. Several good sized catches were made. There have been salmon as well as other species of fish planted in the lake. Joy and sorrow both came to the James Poag family last week. A daughter was born to them in Salem, and Poag's nephew died in Salem from injuries sustained while working in a Presto-log plant. The conveyor became plugged and the young man tried to correct this. It is believed while he worked at it he lost his balance, falling into the conveyor. He died in a Salem hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pratt and Mr. and Mrs. Don Hyatt, the former of Corvallis, the latter of Portland, occupied the Pratt cottage, formerly the Jenkins' place.

Laura F. Pratt is now there, having entertained her nephew, Howard M. Pratt and his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Wright, all college students at Oregon State college, the two men being former service men. They took home a nice catch of fish from Gold lake. Miss Pratt will remain indefinitely.

Mrs. Roberta Harrigan of Albany has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Clint Purkeypille. The Purkeypilles took her home Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Purkeypille also went to Prospect over the weekend to visit Purkeypille's cousin, Bruce Grives.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Brewer of Camarillo have been visiting Brewer's father, Addison Brewer, in the latter's summer home on the lake. Mrs. Brewer is now in Portland visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Krebs. She will remain there a fortnight.

She will return here to meet her husband and they will leave for their home about July 10. On the 15th Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brewer are expected here to stay with his father. They are motoring from Wisconsin where they have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Jenkins (Virginia Brewer). George Jenkins is now connected with the U. S. weather bureau. He also teaches two classes in the University of Wisconsin meteorology school.

Alma Johnson and Vivian Youmans of Portland arrived and are spending their vacation at the Johnson summer home.

Prof. and Mrs. Caswell of Eugene are also occupying their summer home.

Among the summer home colonists who are now in their summer homes on the lake are Capt. and Mrs. Thomas M. Carmen of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Guy R. Huganin of Pendleton and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bengard of King City, California. Ben C. Dey, chief counsel for the Southern Pacific company, and his son, Franklin, are expected Tuesday.

The last few patches of snow are fast disappearing due to the warm weather here. Because so much cold weather was experienced in June the snow was late in leaving.

F. A. Moody is building an extension to his summer home here. Moody is a lumberman and contractor and builder in Eugene. They drive up here each weekend to their cabin on the south side of the lake.

Helicopter travel is estimated to cost only a fraction more than five cents a mile.

SAFEWAY'S POSITION ON FOOD PRICES

The end of OPA places every food retailer "on his own" in determining what his prices will be. We want you to know what Safeway will do.

Safeway will continue to give consumers the benefit of savings resulting from our way of doing business by pricing at the lowest point that will yield a reasonable profit. For many years Safeway's profit has averaged less than two cents on every dollar of sales.

Safeway will do no speculative hoarding. Stores will contain the largest possible supplies of foods at all times and they will be made available to all customers.

A comparison of today's and last Saturday's Safeway prices shows that some are higher and some are lower. Most are the same. Many of those that are higher are prices previously authorized by the OPA to become effective July first.

With or without government price control, there will of course be price changes in the future with some rising and others falling. Some price rises will result from removal of subsidies which have been paid from taxes. In the case of short supply commodities, such as meat and butter, in which the black market and not ceilings represented the real market prices, increases in legitimate prices will produce larger supplies for legitimate merchants and their customers and will eliminate the black market.
