Fight On Indian Budget Brings Substantial Cut

LAKEVIEW, July 6—The fight which county governments in the west, aided by taxpayer groups and stockmen's associations, made against the current budget request of the U. S. Indian Service, has resulted in a substantial victory, according to a report received here from Washington D. C., by Forrest E. Cooper, counsel for the Interstate Association of Public Land Counties.

According to Cooper, approximately $600,000 of treasury funds were slashed from the land acquisition request of the Indian bureau while a substantial reduction was made in the amount of tribal funds made available for the same purpose. In eight western states land acquisitions were barred outside existing reservation boundaries, while Senator Cordon of Oregon and Senator McCarran of Nevada inserted an amendment which prohibited the Indian Service from buying any land or water rights inside or outside of reservation boundaries in the states of Oregon and Nevada.

The Klamath and Lake county courts were successful in their fight to hold down the budget for the administration of the Klamath Indian reservation. The counties supported tribal delegate, Wade Crawford, in securing a 50 per cent slash in the budget for 1947 which is paid entirely out of tribal funds thereby saving the Indians about $106,000. The Klamath court circulated copies of its budget throughout the congress showing that the Indian Service wanted about half as much money to administer 1500 Indians as it will cost to administer local government to the 40,000 inhabitants of Klamath county as well as provide free education through public schools on the Klamath reservation.

According to Cooper, this is the first time an organization fight has been made to protect the tax structures of western counties and their school districts against federal land grabs. The results have been so successful that he predicts the fight will be extended to the next session of congress against all land acquisition requests of all government bureaus, except where they have been consented to by residents of the communities to be affected thereby.

It has been estimated that the average speed of automobiles on the open road is 41.2 miles an hour.

Need For Prophet Voiced By Speaker

VANCOUVER, July 6 (CP)—Dr. Ellis A. Fuller of Louisville, Ky., speaking to delegates to the 39th annual convention of the Baptist Union of Western Canada, said last night that "the world needs a prophet of God who knows of Him better than by hearsay."

"The world is waiting to hear a message," he told the delegation. "If we think we can maintain ourselves in dead formalism, we are mistaken. We need men with true experience with Christ—fresh and vital experience with the living God."

Dr. Fuller is president of the Southern Baptist Seminary of the United States.
