

Reception Honors Tulelake Couple

A reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fensler of Tulelake on Monday evening, July 15 following their return from their wedding trip.

They were married in a ceremony read in Reno, Nev., Sunday, June 23. Mrs. Fensler is the former Ardyce Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Brown of Tulelake, and Mr. Fensler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Fensler, also of Tulelake.

On their wedding trip, they motored up the California and Oregon coasts, visiting friends and relatives en route.

Receiving at the door at the reception, held in the Tulelake Community Presbyterian church, were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Fensler, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Fensler, parents of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Merton Brown, parents of the bride. Opening gifts were Mrs. Ward McCully, matron of honor at the new Mrs. Fensler's wedding, and Mrs. Jack Kelley.

The lace-covered refreshment table was centered with a decorated wedding cake with white tapers in crystal candelabra on either side. Mrs. Clark Fensler and Mrs. Roy Campbell poured. Assisting were Mrs. Stanley Brown and Mrs. Loren Campbell.

Behind the table was a lattice interwoven with summer blossoms and vines. Musical and vocal numbers were presented by Mrs. Ed Osborne who sang "Always," and Ty and Karen Keller, who were accompanied by Mrs. Lynn Keller.

Among the 100 guests were three out of town visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Campbell of Wapato, Wash., and Mrs. Opal McCormick of Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. Fensler will make their home in Tulelake and are residing temporarily at the Pat McGinley home there.

Beauty IS YOUR DUTY

WE have a present for you at the Hazel Beauty Salon. It's a generous size sample of Jacqueline Cochran facial oil. The Jacqueline Cochran people supplied us with the same product to help introduce this well known cosmetic line in Klamath. So please come in and help yourself.

THERE are many uses for this facial oil. Women with extremely dry skin, who have been unable to completely lubricate the skin even by following a full routine, will be delighted with it.

Use a few drops of this outstanding oil under your own night cream... you'll have the answer in the morning. And, in the morning, a few drops under your make-up will keep your skin moist all day.

HOT weather calls for hair oils to protect the hair from fading and drying in the sun. May we suggest Otilvie Sisters' Protecsun. It should be applied to the full length of the hair; either with an atomizer or, sparingly, with absorbent cotton. And... for double duty... Protecsun is just the thing to apply on the skin when sun bathing.

IN the flurry over the Fourth holidays, I didn't get around to announcing a new face at the Hazel Beauty Salon... a new member of the staff, I mean. Mary Pape has joined us, and has been assisting in the cosmetic department, and with cosmetic displays.

BE sure to come in for your free sample of the Jacqueline Cochran facial oil... whenever it's convenient.

WED IN RENO, NEV., in a June 23 ceremony were Ardyce Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Brown of Tulelake, and Jack Fensler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Fensler, also of Tulelake. The young couple received in the Tulelake Community Presbyterian church on July 15, following their return from their wedding trip.

Twinkling Stars Delineate Scorpion In Southern Sky

In affairs terrestrial, that creature with the crab-like claws and poisonous sting at the end of its long, lashing tail seldom instills affection in those who chance upon it. But when traced by means of twinkling stars on the deep blue curtain of the southern heavens, the Scorpion is loved by all sky students, and considered the finest of the summer constellations.

The Scorpion spreads over a wide area of the sky, and unlike many star groups, actually resembles the object whose name it bears. Around 9 p. m. in late July, this constellation is low in the sky almost due south, and is made conspicuous by the red flashings of the bright star near its center. This star is Antares, the Scorpion's heart, which, according to an ancient poem, "with luster of amazing forces vibrates refulgently."

Little effort is needed, even without a diagram, to trace this splendid sky figure. Look for a rather bright star a little below and to the left of Antares; and another slightly above and to the right. Still higher and to the right there appear three bright stars almost in a vertical line. We may consider the center star as the mouth of the Scorpion and the other two the upper parts of the arms which end in the large pincer claws. Groups of dim stars beyond these outline quite well the claws themselves.

Let us now start with the star directly below bright Antares and trace the long, curving tail. At a considerable distance down we find an almost upright row of three fairly conspicuous stars. Then through two more the tail turns toward the left. Then up with two it ends with two very noticeable ones placed almost horizontally. To observers north of 47 degrees latitude, the bend of the tail is always beneath the southern horizon. Even for those somewhat farther south, hills sometimes interfere.

This sky creature assumes a more reclining position as it moves westward toward its place of setting. By late October the earth's revolution around the sun will have put this fine group below the southwestern horizon by the time it is dark enough for observations. The Scorpion is preeminently a constellation of summer.
