

Hal Ogle Leads Party On Tour Of KFFA Net

By BILL JENKINS
The first lap of a two-day inspection tour of KFFA facilities was taken yesterday by eight men under the leadership of Hal Ogle, KFFA head, when the group traveled to both the new headquarters of the KFFA and to the Parker mountain lookout on the Medford-Ashland road.

The tour started at the Willard hotel, where the group met for lunch prior to leaving for the headquarters site. The new headquarters, located at the junction of the Weed-Ashland roads, is still under construction, and the date that the organization will move in is still indeterminate. However, officials showed the group through the plant. Included among buildings already up are the main office buildings, containing rooms for the supervisor, head dispatcher, clerks and file rooms; a large maintenance and storage building and the pump house.

The main offices are located at the base of the hill directly behind the junction, commanding a view of the entire basin across lower lake and down to Shasta in the south. Built of knotty pine, both inside and out, the building features specially constructed corners, bolted at the juncture with four-inch quarter round specially cut at Weyerhaeuser mill. The outside of the building is also built of quarter round, giving the appearance of a log house. Inside, the building is constructed entirely of pine, some being left clear, such as the main reception room and offices, and other rooms being stained a slightly darker brown to relieve glare and monotony.

Two-Story Structure
The maintenance shed is a two-story structure, with a hose loft built into the attic. Here there are shelves built along the entire length of the building, each with a four-inch drop on either end from the center, for drying hoses. Other features include a drive-in ramp in order that trucks may come directly into the building to unload heavy equipment and spacious storage rooms on the main floor.

The pump house, to the north of the other two buildings, contains a pump capable of pumping 35 gallons per minute, and a 500-gallon pressure tank for filling hose trucks. The well is 230 feet deep, although water was hit at 170 feet. The entire building is weather proofed.

The exact date that the KFFA will move into the buildings is not known as there is considerable construction to be finished yet, and no moves can be made at the height of the fire season, when all equipment will be needed. Radio communications for the 50 watt transmitter will have to be set up, although that will be a short job, according to Ogle. There are three towers, all of them mounted on cement blocks and bolted to heavy angle irons.

Radio Contact Maintained
Following the inspection of the quarters the party left, in two cars, for the Parker mountain lookout. Constant contact was maintained on the trip via radio in Ogle's car, and soon after leaving headquarters a fire was reported on the Casebeer ranch near Bly. Other cars were called into action by the short wave radio, and the extent of the fire was determined by the time the party had reached the lookout station high atop Parker mountain. Here again the radio was called into use to confirm the findings of the lookouts. The fire was on grazing land, which comes under the jurisdiction of the Taylor grazing service, but since there are almost no men left in Oregon under this authority and the fire might easily spread to land under KFFA jurisdiction, two men were dispatched to the scene.

Inspection of the lookout proved it to be well located, having a view from the Klamath area this side of Hogback, clear down into California and well over toward the Green Springs summit. Food supplies are brought into the lookout station once a week by Johnny Wallace, KFFA commissary chief, who sees to it that the men are well equipped, as well as well fed. The entire area under the eyes of the lookout is at present closed to the public because of extreme fire hazard, and signs are posted along the highway to this effect at every road.

Penny Springs Camp
On the way back from the Parker lookout a brief stop was made at the Penny Springs maintenance camp, where an emergency crew of three fire fighters is stationed throughout the dangerous fire season. These men are on stand-by duty at all times for use in any fire in the district. The camp is on the curve of the road halfway up Parker mountain and not far from Ellingson's mill.

Radio played the final part in the afternoon's trip, when the Casebeer fire was reported spreading and three men were dispatched from the Klamath headquarters to give aid in fighting the fire. These men were helped out in the job by a pickup, several spray tanks and a small bulldozer, and at last reports had the fire well under control.

Men who made the trip included Ernie Bubb, Nelson Reed and George Davis, well-known Klamath business men; Ernest Kolbe, of the Western Pine association; Dave Hoss, of radio station KFJL; and Clyde Martin, Bill Price and Fred Goeller, all of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company.

Flashes Of Life

Drouth Over For Campers
GLADSTONE, Ore., July 23 (P)—Eight thousand campers at the annual Seventh Day Adventist conference here were drinking their fill of water today after almost two days of thirst caused by an empty camp reservoir.

Campers yesterday were getting water from an Oregon City street sprinkling truck and cooks were unable to prepare full meals or wash dishes.

Fire trucks were pumping water from a Gladstone water main late yesterday and Camp Superintendent St. Clair Diamond said the heat-emptied reservoir was expected to be filled and kept in operation for the rest of the ten-day meeting.

The campers are from western Oregon and southwestern Washington.

Man Charging Graft Cannot Be Located
PORTLAND, July 23 (P)—The state liquor control commission reported today it has been unable to find Perry Franklyn to testify on his charge that he would have had to "pay tribute" to sell liquor to the state.

The commission yesterday accepted testimony from Moe Tonkon and Harvey Dick, both Portland, who reported there was no mention of "tribute" in their uncompleted arrangements with Franklyn to negotiate sale of South American liquor to the commission.

Franklyn's allegation was contained in a letter to the governor and other officials.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 23 (P)—"Every night at five minutes till nine, my husband turned on the news program," said Mrs. Lily Darlick, 47, of Conellsville, seeking a divorce. "That was the signal for me and the children to go to bed. We had to be in bed by the time the five-minute program was over." Judge F. John Morrow granted the divorce.

RATS, IT'S CANDY
LOS ANGELES, July 23 (P)—Four stuffed rats and pieces of stale candy were placed on exhibit in a glass case in city hall as part of an anti-disease campaign. The candy was there to illustrate what draws rats—until somebody filched it.

LOSS SUCCESS
PUEBLO, Colo., July 23 (P)—Noel Guy Morea of Denver "lost" 37 new automobiles on the highway between Clovis, N. M., and Pueblo.

He told state police he left Clovis at the head of a convoy of 34 pickup trucks and three sedans, but discovered upon arriving here that he was alone.

He said he must have lost them on a detour in New Mexico.

CIO Will Safeguard 'Bread And Butter'

PORTLAND, Ore., July 23 (P)—The CIO will safeguard the "bread and butter" of its membership if the cost of living continues to rise, James E. Fadling, president of the CIO International Woodworkers of America, said on his return from the CIO board meeting at Washington, D. C.

"If the powers that be don't see their responsibility to the people as a whole, then we must safeguard the bread and butter of our membership," Fadling declared.

Portland Man Dies In Molalla River

CANBY, July 23 (P)—George Sabin, 33, Portland business man, died apparently of a heart attack, while swimming in the Molalla river at Seven Acres camp ground near here yesterday.

State police reported Sabin dove into the water, came to the surface, then went down.

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

Thirty years ago, in Forbidden Tibet, behind the highest mountains in the world, a young Englishman named Edwin J. Dingle found the answer to this question. A great mystic opened his eyes. A great change came over him. He realized the strange Power that Knowledge gives.

That Power, he says, can transform the life of anyone. Questions, whatever they are, can be answered. The problems of health, death, poverty and wrong can be solved.

In his own case, he was brought back to splendid health. He acquired wealth, too, as well as world-wide professional recognition. Thirty years ago, he was sick as a man could be and live. Once his coffin was bought. Years of almost continuous tropical fevers, broken bones, near blindness, privation and danger had made a human wreck of him, physically and mentally.

He was about to be sent back to England to die, when a strange message came—"They are waiting for you in Tibet." He wants to tell the whole world what he learned there, under the guidance of the greatest mystic he ever encountered during his twenty-one years in the Far East. He wants everyone to experience the greater health and the Power, which there came to him.

Within ten years, he was able to retire to this country with a fortune. He had been honored by fellowships in the world's leading geographical societies for his work as a geographer. And today, 30 years later, he is still so athletic, capable of so much work, so young in appearance, it is hard to believe he has lived so long.

As a first step in their progress toward the Power that Knowledge gives, Mr. Dingle wants to send to readers of this paper a 9000-word treatise. He says the time has come for it to be released to the Western World, and offers to send it, free of cost or obligation, to sincere readers of this notice. For your free copy, address The Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept. 420-A, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free books have been printed.

Today's more powerful gasolines call for this more "powerful" motor oil

New GOLDEN SHELL

REMEMBER your first tankful of good, postwar gasoline? What an improvement it was! But that added power put new strains on your engine—gave your motor oil a tougher job.

To handle this extra lubrication load, new Golden Shell Motor Oil is fortified... made more "powerful." It has an oxidation inhibitor that fights gums, lacquers and sludge. And without these to clog oil lines and screens, your engine gets better lubrication, can last longer.

We believe the added protection New Golden Shell gives your engine, new or old, is worth while. If you think so, too, ask the man at the Shell pump for New Golden Shell, the largest selling 25¢ oil in the West.
