

Business As Usual Despite Beards

Klamath women are putting up a brave front, trying to go on with business as usual despite the mass cultivation of flowing beards from masculine chins. Nevertheless, several thousand women will probably breathe one long sigh of relief when their men are once more clean-shaven. Come to think of it, so will several thousand men!

The Herald and News got a call this week from a young lady who feels rebellion in her soul. She expressed the belief that women should do something to counteract men and their beards. When asked what she thought women should do she suggested that they go without make-up or having their hair done. Seems to us that men could grow beards to their shootops before women would get that desperate.
