

Centennial Raises Eternal Query

With Centennial time drawing nigh it looks as if the well-dressed woman will be the one in the ankle-length skirt and the sunbonnet. Women have been asked to wear garments befitting the 1846 era, which raises the age-old question of what to wear. The big problem confronts those who have no genuine old-fashioned dresses tucked away. The only course is to get dress material, if you're fortunate enough to find it, and start from scratch, or do we mean stitch?

Mrs. Bert Thomas pointed out an interesting thing the other day. She remarked that the many old period dresses she has are nearly all too small for today's women . . . and they aren't children's garments either. Women of the 1840's besides being small in stature, wore a snug-fitting corset underneath the bodice of their dresses with hooks and eyes which pulled them in so the buttons on their dresses would not pop! Maybe there's something to the theory that women are getting taller and sturdier with each generation.

Another suggestion from Mrs. Thomas: If you can't get material to make a costume, an old formal skirt of a dark color with a white blouse and a shawl will do just as well and will be in keeping with the style of that day. As for the bonnet, any broad hat brim will do if you can fit it in back along the lines of a poke bonnet. And remember, the lassies of '46 wouldn't dream of wearing decorations on the top of the brim. Flowers and feathers (and probably radishes and bailing wire because women's hats haven't changed that much) were worn inside the brim forming a frame for madame's pretty face.

So much for that. Now turn to with scissors, needle, thread and lots of imagination and see what you can do. Good luck!

Pretty enough for any bride was the wedding cake at the reception honoring Mr. and Mrs. Tony Molatore. The most delicate shades of pink and green frosting were used with white to decorate the cake, carrying out the theme set for the wedding by the bride's costume. A lattice-work bell topped the confection. And speaking of delicate shades, that soft pink suit of Donna's looked almost good enough to eat.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown of 1335 Pacific Terrace were visited last week by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Brown. Before returning to their Sacramento home they visited Yosemite park and Lake Tahoe. Richard Brown is formerly of Klamath Falls.

Mrs. Harold H. Hadley, 1530 California, entertained Mrs. Fred Fleet and Mrs. Carl Williams Monday afternoon. Tea was served.

One of the prettiest candlelight weddings was that of Natella LeVa to Wesley Guderian last Saturday. And incidentally, the crown of staphanotis adorning the bride's red curls added a lovely touch to her wedding ensemble.

Mrs. Helen Everett and daughter, Betty, of Arcata, Calif., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Addison at their home on Lakeshore drive.

To Wed Sunday

In Klamath Falls for several weeks is Mrs. W. B. Zumwalt of Portland. She is visiting the home of her niece, Mrs. Irene Foster of 1218 Crescent.

Visiting the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Henderson are Mrs. Robert Hart and children, Ann and Sara of Medford. They were here to attend the wedding of Ann Stevenson and Paul Fairclo.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made this week of the betrothal of Patricia Ann Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Brown of 615 High, to Sgt. Verre Yank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Yank, also of this city. No date has been set for the nuptials.

LEAVING FOR THEIR WEDDING TRIP are Mr. and Mrs. Victor Clemens Lundy. Before her marriage on Sunday, August 4 Mrs. Lundy was Iline Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Barr of Winterset, Ia. The ceremony was read in the First Presbyterian church. After their return by plane from the coast they will be at home here. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Clemens P. Lundy of this city. —H. Killmeyer.

Rites Solemnized Saturday Eve

Exchanging vows in a candlelight ceremony Saturday evening, August 3 were Natella LeVa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn L. Chapman of Wonder, Ore., and Wesley Guderian of this city.

The double ring service was read by the Rev. Victor Phillips in the First Methodist church. Bouquets of white gladioli and palms were placed at the altar with lighted white tapers in silver candelabra throughout the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a long gown of dainty white eyelet embroidery on blue marquisette with a sweetheart neckline and full skirt. In her hair she wore an arrangement of white staphanotis. A cluster of pink sweetheart rosebuds and staphanotis topped the white Bible she carried. For jewelry she chose pearls.

Mrs. Hugh Killmeyer, in a gown of white with silver trim, was matron of honor. She carried an arm bouquet of red roses and staphanotis with an arrangement of the same flowers in her hair.

The bride's flower girl was Sara Stewart who was also tired in white. Tiny floral bows of rosebuds and forget-me-nots were worn in her hair. She scattered pink rose petals from a ribbon-trimmed basket down the aisle before the bride.

Best man was Neal Stewart and ushers were Ernest England, Hugh Killmeyer, Ernie Bridgers and Alvin Anderson.

Before the ceremony Patricia Brown sang "Ave Maria" and "Oh Promise Me." Mrs. John O'Connor played traditional wedding music.

A reception in the Pelican party room immediately followed the ceremony. Serving the three-tiered white wedding cake after the bridal couple cut the traditional first piece was Mrs. Neal Stewart. Mrs. Hugh Killmeyer was in charge of the bride's book.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman, were present for their daughter's wedding. Soon after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Guderian left for a two-week wedding trip to Lake Louise. Upon their return they will make their home here.

Mrs. Guderian attended schools in Southgate, Calif., before moving to Oregon. Mr. Guderian is The Herald and News photographer.

Kitchen Shower
A kitchen shower was given for Ann Stevenson, bride-elect of Paul Fairclo, Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Roland Wright, 635 Alameda. After an evening of cards, Miss Stevenson opened gifts from the guests.

Hostesses were Mrs. Wright and Maryellen Wright.

Mrs. Ed Ostendorf and Jean accompanied Mr. Ostendorf to Eugene this week where he attended a state aviation conference. Mr. Ostendorf and Jean went on to Salem and Portland to visit there while he is at the conference.

Vows Exchanged In Sunday Ceremony

Wed in a candlelight ceremony in the First Presbyterian church Sunday, August 4 at half past two o'clock were Iline Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Barr of Winterset, Ia., and Victor Clemens Lundy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clemens P. Lundy of Klamath Falls. The double ring service was read by the Rev. David F. Barnett Jr., before members of the immediate families and close friends.

Palms, pink and white gladioli and white tapers in tall candelabra formed the background for the nuptials, and Mrs. E. S. Veatch played introductory organ music and the traditional marches. Carl Hagel sang "Oh Promise Me" preceding the ceremony.

The bride wore a white jersey dressmaker suit and a small veiled white hat. Her corsage was of miniature roses in pink and white, and she wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. For "something old" she carried a beautiful cobweb lace handkerchief, carried by her great grandmother at her wedding.

Mrs. James Marilees of Merrill was matron of honor, and she wore a street length dress of pink jersey with a matching net cap. Her corsage was of pink roses. Best man was Frank Hardisty of Eugene, uncle of the groom. Ushers were James Marilees and Ralph Brisbane.

Mrs. Clemens Lundy, in an afternoon dress of aqua wore a hat of ostrich tips in fuchsia with gloves and shoes to match, and her corsage was a single orchid. Mrs. J. M. Wauchope, aunt of the bride, was also in aqua.

A reception was held in the church parlors after the wedding service. The table, spread with a lace cloth, was centered with roses, and the three-tiered bride's cake, topped with miniature bride and groom, was cut by the bride and served by Mrs. Frank Hardisty of Eugene and Mrs. Edward Raymond.

Mrs. Harold Vandenburg presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Lucille Willis was in charge of the bride's book, and Mrs. Wauchope assisted about the rooms.

For her traveling costume the new Mrs. Lundy chose a smoke-grey suit with accessories of brown, and on her suit she wore an orchid in lavender. They left by plane for a honeymoon on the coast and on their return will make their home in Klamath Falls.

Others enjoying tea were Mrs. R. E. Wright, Mrs. Irene Foster, Mrs. E. P. Livingston, Mrs. Pat Ivory, Mrs. J. A. Kincaid, Mrs. Kenneth McLeod, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. L. H. Stone, Mrs. E. K. Loosley, Mrs. Fred Fleet, Mrs. D. V. Kuykendall, Mrs. J. I. Beard, Alice Walderon and Elizabeth Walderon.
