Revised Social Security Bill Signed By President

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 (AP)—The old age and survivors tax was frozen at 1 per cent today for another year, as President Truman signed legislation making broad revisions in the social security program.

More federal aid amounting to about $15,000,000 annually, is provided for needy persons in all states.

The legislation, one of the last acts of the 79th congress, maintains social security tax at 1 per cent against employees' pay and employers' pay rolls, thus preventing an automatic rise January 1 to 2.5 per cent.

Other provisions of the measure include:

1. Approximately five extra federal dollars monthly for 2,000,000 aged persons and 75,000 blinnd persons; about $3 more for 772,000 dependent children, under a new aid formula that departs slightly from the dollar-for-dollar federal-state matching system in this relief program. The increase is effective October 1.

2. Survivors insurance for the families of World War II veterans for three years without cost. Survivors of veterans who die within three years after discharge will receive the same benefits that would accrue if the veterans had been working in covered employment at $160 a month. This amounts to about $32 a month for a widow and about $16 for a child. The cost of this program is estimated at $175,000,000 to 1949.

3. Blankets 200,000 maritime workers under social security unemployment. These workers had been covered previously.

All-American Rejoins Army

EUGENE, Aug. 10 (AP)—Lt. Col. Mike Mikulak, former University of Oregon all-American fullback and all-National league selection for the Chicago Cubs, is flying to Chicago today to join the fifth army, with which he served in Italy during the war.

Mikulak, who returned here last winter to his old prewar job as varsity football backfield coach, recently was sworn into the regular army. Some Webfoot followers had hoped his orders would place him on the ROTC staff here, allowing his continuation as coach.

In the meantime, Coach Tex Oliver was reported beating the bushes in southern California for a replacement for Mikulak. Most prominently mentioned was Manny Vezie, former Notre Dame end under Knute Rockne, who was a prewar assistant here under Oliver.

The Oregon varsity grid coaching staff now numbers two—Oliver and Line Coach Vaughn Corley. The usual Pacific Coast conference coaching staff seldom numbers under four.

Mohammedan Leader Weighed In Diamonds

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika, Aug. 10 (AP)—Shouts of "Aga Khan Zindabab" (long live the Aga Khan) swelled from the throats of perhaps 70,000 East Africans today as the leader of the Ismaili Moslems was weighed in diamonds.

The ceremony duplicated an Indian observance last March of the Aga Khan's diamond jubilee. The Mohammedan leader weighs more than 240 pounds, and the diamonds placed in the scales to balance his weight were valued at $2,936,000. He will receive their cash equivalent as the gift of his followers.

Salem Names Judges For Livestock Show

SALEM, Aug. 10 (AP)—Floyd T. Fox of Silverton and Gene Hubbard of Corvallis were named Friday as judges of the sheep division of the Oregon state fair livestock show here, September 2 to 8.

J. T. Thompson of Silverton will again serve as superintendent of the sheep classifications while Ronald Hogg of Salem will be sole judge of the angora milk goat division.

ROOM FOR RELIGION

There are 10,000 villages in the United States without churches, 30,000 without resident pastors, and 30,400,000 children under 12 who are receiving no religious instruction.

Russ Threaten Austrian Move

VIENNA, Aug. 10 (AP) — A Soviet about-face on the nationalization of industry threatened today to dismember Austria, as the Russians bluntly "reserved the right" to invalidate four-power control by following a separate set of rules for their own occupation zone.

Col. Gen. L. V. Kurrasov, Soviet commander in Austria, called for a showdown by demanding an allied veto of Austrian nationalization legislation as an "unfriendly act," after having supported it on a general communist principle until discovering that it would nationalize several eastern Austrian assets in the Soviet zone which the Russians now claim as their own.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, U. S. commander in Austria, refused to comply with the Russian demand. He announced flatly that he would withhold his veto. Unless all four commanding generals veto legislation, it becomes effective by default in 31 days.

Clark said his government recognized the right of Austria to nationalize industry, including that of foreigners, provided it was done by democratic process, fairly and with equitable reimbursement to the owners.

Painting Contractors Hold Dinner Meeting

Painting problems and ways to give the public better painting service were discussed at a special dinner meeting of the Klamath Falls chapter of the Painting and Decorating Contractors of America.

Attending the dinner Thursday evening were Henry Afman, national field representative from Denver, Colo., Louis Knudson, president of the Oregon council, Albert Holmgren, secretary-treasurer of the Oregon council, and Ed Peterson, representative of the Portland chapter.

A discussion for delegates attending the Washington-Oregon conference August 17 in Centralia, Wash., was also held at the meeting.

Mata Hari's real name was Margaret Gertrude Zeller.

Joseph DiGiorgio's Career Told In Magazine Article

The life and fortunes of Joseph DiGiorgio, head of the company that owns Klamath Lumber and Box company, are told in an article in the August issue of Fortune, written by a staff author.

Joseph DiGiorgio came to this country from the town of Cefalu, Italy, 58 years ago, and stayed to work for $8 dollars a week for a paesana named Asitta, an importer of lemons and general fruit jobber in Washington market. From his humble start he borrowed $5000 from a chance taking officer of the Maryland National bank and went into the fruit business for himself in Baltimore, home of the industry at that time. He paid the loan off in short order, and at the ripe old age of 21 became head of the Maryland National.

DiGiorgio's west coast transactions started in 1910 when he purchased the Earl Fruit company, an old line California firm. His first experiment as a grower came in 1918 when he first acquired land in Florida. In 1920 he bought the Klamath Lumber and Box company, which has long been under the management of Gustave Krause, an old guard member of DiGiorgio's organization.

Perhaps the best known of the DiGiorgio holdings on the west coast lies at the southern tip of the San Joaquin valley in California, where are located the DiGiorgio farms, heart of his nationwide 26,000 acre fruit land holdings. The land lies between the towns of Arvin and DiGiorgio in the fertile valley.

In addition to his fruit farms and lumber holdings, DiGiorgio is also a threat in the wine market, having a new million and a half dollar winery under way at DiGiorgio, and controls the nations huge fruit auctioneering industry.

Says Fortune of the local industry: "An Oregon lumber and box operation has been doing pretty well in recent years."

Centennial Schedule Takes Shape

Main events of the Centennial celebration have now been scheduled with a little less than two weeks remaining until the three-day program gets under way.

Pageant ticket sales will start throughout the county Monday morning and in Klamath Falls the Centennial box office will open its doors at 739 Main at 9 a. m. for the sale of tickets to Klamath Falls residents.

To start everyone thinking in Centennial terms, an impromptu parade and a street dance will be held Wednesday evening, August 14. The parade down Main street will start at 7:30 p. m. and finish at Balsiger's in time for a street dance at 8 p. m.

One of the largest parades in the history of Klamath Falls will start from Spring and Main, August 2 at 10:30 a. m. This, the official Centennial parade, will be composed of floats and other parade entries from every community in Klamath county. Ribbon awards will be made to the two outstanding entries in each section.

The Centennial pageant will have three showings, August 22, 23 and 24 at 8:30 p. m. at the fairgrounds. The pageant depicting the development of this territory is the climax of the anniversary celebration.

Other highlights during Centennial days are a pioneer picnic, August 23 at 1 p. m. at Moore park and two contests slated for August 24. A whiskerino contest on the courthouse lawn at 3 p. m. will be preceded by a costume contest at 2 p. m.

SPIDER "EARTHQUAKES"

Spiders are one of the greatest annoyances to the men who study earthquakes. The creatures enter tightly sealed instruments and record earth tremors of astounding proportions.

Man Strangles Crying Infant

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 10 (AP)—District Attorney M. Ralph Brown said today he would file murder charges against Dick W. Smith, 31-year-old plumber who Brown said signed a statement saying he grabbed his year-old stepdaughter by the neck and "shook" her because she was crying.

The baby, Darla Jean, was strangled to death Thursday night, a coroner's jury decided yesterday. Dr. Mark Beam, a physician, told the jury the baby's body was covered with bruises. "In my opinion the child was severely punished," he testified.

Brown said Smith related in his statement that he was taking the baby in a car to visit friends and "I was mad because she was crying and reached over and grabbed her by the neck and shook her.

Smith married Darla Jean's mother two months ago.

Mystery Solved

CASCADE SUMMIT, Aug. 10—The mystery about the camp cookstove shipped here from San Diego to Globe Lumber company was solved when it was learned that the stove was intended for the Gus Lullewitz summer home here.

Lullewitz is at the head of the Globe Lumber company and through error it was shipped to that company. The stove remained unclaimed for several days here in the Southern Pacific freight station, while the men in charge of equipping the summer home prior to Lullewitz' arrival kept calling for a stove shipped to Lullewitz.

Mr. and Mrs. Lullewitz will arrive shortly from Los Angeles to spend the remainder of the summer here. Their servants have already arrived and are preparing for their arrival.
