east of Eugene, on the McKenzie river south fork has been awarded to White Bros. company, Walla Walla for $230,157, the public roads administration reported today.

It is a timber access road, W. H. Lynch, division engineer, said and was made on an informal bid when no bidders responded to a formal call.

Logging Work Under Way In State's Yawkey Tract

Logging operations are under way at present on the recently purchased Yawkey tract, lying to the west of Sun mountain, and on the mountain, with fir timber being taken out.

The tract, which was purchased by the state some three years ago, will probably be called the Yawkey State Forest, with a small area at the head of Wood river being set aside by the forestry department and called the Kimball Recreation area. This area will be developed as a picnic and camp site, with fireplaces, tables and benches being placed for the convenience of the public. Work on the Kimball tract may start some time this fall.

The Yawkey tract was purchased by bonding through the state for $21,000 in 1943. At the time of the purchase the yellow and ponderosa pine had been logged off, but there was a large tract of fir timber left. Tom Brown of Keno contracted to cut the 14,000 acre fir area, subleasing portions of it to Jim Fisher of Klamath Falls. So far the cut has amounted to some $20,000 for the state. Logging operations are expected to terminate some time this fall.

When the bonded indebtedness has been paid off 75 per cent of the income of the forest will go to the county. Funds from the forest will consist of grazing fees which will be collected for a large part of the area, and from the sale of pumice to manufacturers. Plans are already under way to sell the pumice, and several dealers are making plans for the purchase of it. Pumice from the district will be used in manufacturing building blocks. The area of the park will run from Wood river to the national forest lands on the west, over Sun mountain, and extend to the Crater lake boundary on the north. At the present time, due to extreme fire hazard, the area has been closed to all travel except those on official business. A permit must be secured to enter even on business.
