

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—President Truman today revamped the entire war emergency setup. He abolished the war mobilization and reconversion office and named John R. Steelman as assistant to the president.

The president made public at his news conference an executive order under which he named Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming as head of a new office of temporary controls, which will carry on remaining functions of OPA, OWMR, the civilian production administration, and the office of economic stabilization.

Steelman, the new assistant to the president, has been reconversion director and economic czar.

Mr. Truman at the same time named Raymond M. Foley as housing administrator and Frank R. Creedon as housing expediter, the two posts recently relinquished by Wilson W. Wyatt after a controversy with the RFC over loans for prefabricated housing.

In an executive order the president abolished the wage stabilization board as of February 24, and the economic stabilization board immediately.

The chief executive made it clear that he has no intention of abandoning rent controls.

In response to reporters' questions as to whether an immediate increase in rent ceilings was in prospect, Mr. Truman said that he had no plans to order such an increase.

He added, however, that there was a possibility that some increases might be under consideration by OPA.

The president said that he is having an over-all conference on the housing program at 3 p. m. (EST) today.

He said those to participate will include Fleming, RFC Director George E. Allen, Steelman, Creedon and the Major General Robert S. Littlejohn, war assets administrator.
