

Fire Engines Used During Bus Strike

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 13 (AP)—Street car and bus operators in this city of 250,000 failed to report for work today because of a labor dispute and city officials promptly pressed police and fire department vehicles into service to haul passengers.

Leaders of the Amalgamated Union of Street Car Operators (AFL) said there was no strike, that members had merely voted to "stay in session" after an all-night meeting at which an arbitration board's award was considered.

City Manager William Gill Jr. ordered 15 detective cars and all available police cruisers and fire department passenger cars onto the streets to pick up passengers at bus and trolley car stops.

Gill also broadcast pleas to private motorists to pick up pedestrians.

The three-man arbitration board proposed a wage boost of five cents an hour. The union had asked a boost of 20 cents an hour.

The additional five cents granted by the board would make the scale 95 cents an hour.

In addition to denial of the wage increase, the arbitration board declined to approve a closed shop.
