

Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY
A street opening celebration today was a man on a pinto horse.

It was George Wilshire, familiar figure around town in cowboy regalia which includes a huge pearl-handled pistol which we strongly suspect is a toy weapon. George wasn't introduced at the celebration; he's hard of hearing, and probably wouldn't have heard if he had been called.

EPLEY

But George Wilshire has a special significance in the history of South Sixth street. Back in the days when that thoroughfare was a series of mudholes through a swamp, George Wilshire kept a couple of horses at South Sixth, Shasta way and Division.

For a fee, he used the horses in pulling cars out of the generous-sized quagmire at that intersection. According to Hap David, South Sixth pioneer who remembers those days well, George and his horses were kept busy.

Coming in from the celebration this morning, after hearing Hap David's reminiscences, we came upon George Wilshire, cantering along the wide pavement. We stopped.

"We understand you used to pull stuck cars out of the mud along here," we shouted at George.

"I can't hear you," said the horseman. "But I know everything. We've got a fine street here now, haven't we?"

He Worked On The Street

AMONG the dignitaries who appeared on the celebration program was John Houston, president of the Klamath County chamber of commerce and former mayor.

John's personal reminiscences likewise brought up a bit of interesting South Sixth street history. His dad, the late J. V. Houston, owned an area of swampy land near South Sixth street and Washburn way, scene of this morning's ceremonies. John and his brothers used to shoot ducks on the pond where there's now extensive business and industrial development.

When John Houston was a young fellow (younger might be a better way to say it) he got a job with the contractor who laid the first paving on South Sixth street. He used to hike for a couple of miles from the Houston place to work on the street at the very spot where he delivered a speech today at ceremonies celebrating the completion of a somewhat fancier paving job than that to which he contributed Houston muscular effort a score or so years ago.

Reefers On The GN

TOM GERROW, superintendent of the Great Northern, has offered us some information on the reefer car shortage on the GN, as an aftermath of the suggestion from Malin growers the other day that the GN wasn't especially interested in providing reefers here because of the GN's short haul to Bieber where the cars are turned over to the Western Pacific.

Mr. Gerrow said that the GN is anxious to give the best service possible to shippers on its line, but it has been having plenty of trouble about refrigerator cars.

Up to November 20, the GN had plenty of reefers. In fact, it had a surplus, and when ICC agents saw cars sitting idle on the GN sidings in this area, they evidently decided to cut off the supply for a while. At any rate, the GN hasn't had any reefers since that time, except a few crimples that were on their way south for repair and were stopped here long enough for a load. According to Mr. Gerrow, the ICC controls the situation, and the GN can only appeal to the ICC, which it has been doing steadily.

He said that the GN officials in this area had been promised 15 or 20 reefers a day, beginning next week, and hopes that this promise materializes.

"We're not so shortsighted that we are going to slight the shippers here because of the short haul to Bieber," said Mr. Gerrow. "There's much more at stake than in maintaining good relations with them, and we are doing the best we can. There's simply nothing to that short-haul suspicion, however honestly it may be held."

That's the GN side of the story.

The World Today

By J. M. ROBERTS JR.

Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst
DWIN W. PAULEY'S report that Russia had "long-range strategic reasons" for stripping Manchuria of its industry seems to imply that Moscow has been contributing to the continuance of unsettled conditions in China to give the communists there a better opportunity.

It was obvious immediately after the end of the Japanese war that, if the red army was not lending direct aid to the Chinese communists, it at least was making it easy for them to arm themselves with former enemy materiel.

The United States, well aware that the Chiang Kai-shek regime was not all that it should be, nevertheless has been striving to arrange a truce between it and the communists with the idea that, once both were participating a central government of some balance would be established as a step toward compromise settlement of some of China's major woes.

Border Threat

It was not considered unnatural that the Russians should let the Chinese communists fill the vacuum created by the defeat of the Japanese and their own subsequent retirement. And while there was unhappiness among the allies that the Soviet should take as "war booty" the machinery which they were known to need, that, too, was in line with Russian policy elsewhere. So would be a China too weak to represent a threat to Russia's border and her Mongolian interests.

But now Pauley, President Truman's reparations investigator, points up the situation in a different light. "The chaos caused (in Manchuria) by the Soviets," his report says, "has produced a condition of instability both politically and economically which will take a long time to correct. It left a populace cold, hungry and full of unrest."

Those are conditions under which the world communists do their best work. It means as much to them in preparing for their ultimate harvest as do plowing and harrowing to the farmer.

Rehabilitation Point

WITH its industrial plants and natural resources, Pauley points out, Manchuria would have been the logical place to begin the rehabilitation of China. That was undoubtedly in the minds of Roosevelt and Churchill at Cairo when they promised Chiang, long before the defeat of Japan was in sight, that Manchuria would be returned to China. The area represented the nucleus of a new economic order without which all of China's plans for stable government would be terribly handicapped.

This is the objective which General Marshall has been trying to get both the Kuomintang and the communists to join in working toward. A stable China has been for several years the hope of those who seek long-term peace in the Orient. She is the logical "monitor" of Asia.

But a stable China and a China in which the communists can expand their sphere of control are two different things. Pauley's report does everything but say outright that the Russians are well aware of this.

Phone Survey To Be Made

LAKEVIEW, Dec. 14—The Lake County chamber of commerce is in receipt of a communication from the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company advising that a survey will be made within the next two weeks to determine the possibilities of installing telephone service in the area from Silver Lake northward, including Fort Rock. Such service has been requested in the form of a petition signed by a large group of Silver Lake and Fort Rock residents. The petition was sponsored by the Northern Lake County Business

Men's association and was forwarded through the chamber of commerce, together with the latter body's endorsement, to the Pacific company and to the public utilities commissioner.

Service sought includes connection between Silver Lake and Fort Rock. The latter community now has only local line service, with no outside connections. Also desired is toll line service connecting both communities directly northward with Bend and Portland via Lapine.

Ted Emery, president of the northern business group, points out that to call the attention of the Pacific company to the routing of the calls via Lakeview and Klamath Falls, Fort Rock cannot call out to any point, except via forest service telephone. The undesirability of such a situation in an emergency has been stressed by those seeking the service.

The Ross Dolan part in "I Deal in Crime" is taken by William Coran, stage and screen actor. Dolan is one of the better of the tough gumshoes in radio. One innovation that more detectives could copy from the Dolan show is the absence of a stooge. Dolan uses no Dr. Watson or smart young secretary to carry his plot along. Heard over KFLW Saturday evenings at 7:30.

ABC's "Report to the People" Sunday night will originate from KFLW between 9:15 and 9:30, to the Pacific coast only. On the program will be Ray Best of the local office of the bureau of reclamation, and one of the applicants for the Tullock homestead drawing, and his wife. All persons interested in the drawing should be listening as all phases of the event will be covered.

Sammy Kaye, the swing and sway maestro, is running out of poetry, which is fine in some people's minds, who prefer rhythmic musical rather than poetic; anyway, Sammy needs more poems for his Sunday Serenade over KFLW at 10:30 a. m. He asks the poems submitted be of a romantic nature and sincerely written. Winner of the first prize gets $500, second gets $200, and third receives $100. The next 20 each get $25 apiece. Judges are Kate Smith, Ted Malone and Vernon Pope of Pageant magazine. Contest closes at midnight, February 17. Entry blanks may be obtained from Sammy Kaye, 607 Fifth avenue, NYC.

KFJI carries three programs today on the opening of the new South Sixth street area. At 10:15 this morning, Dave Hoss and Dick Maguire broadcast the ribbon-cutting ceremonies in front of the Tower theatre. At 7:30 this evening, Dave and Dick will be on hand to air the big Christmas tree party at S. Sixth and Altamont. At 9:15 they'll bring the formal ceremony of the annexing of precinct 33 from the stage of the Tower.

Theatre Guild of the Air, KFLW, Sunday at 7 p. m., brings to its listeners "The Old Maid," starring Judith Anderson and Helen Menken, who starred in the original stage production.
