

Tacoma Doctor Shot To Death

TACOMA, Dec. 19 (AP)—Shot by an unknown assailant, the body of Dr. John R. Thompson, 78, a physician and optometrist was discovered by his daughter shortly after 9 o'clock last night in the doctor's downtown office.

No weapon was found, but police said the physician had been shot through the head and abdomen. The spent bullets were found on the ante-room floor. The daughter, Mabel Thompson, discovered the body after becoming alarmed at her father's failure to return to their home at Puyallup.

When Dr. Thompson did not answer his telephone, Miss Thompson and some friends drove to Tacoma and found the body on the office floor. There were no signs of a struggle and the doctor's money belt was intact.

Police said it was not immediately possible to determine if any of the office cabinets had been disturbed. Dr. Thompson had practiced in Tacoma for 22 years after moving here from Iowa.

Coast Guard Man Still Mum After Being Named Heir

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 19 (AP)—Lt. (jg) Donald S. Talfourd, career coast guard officer here who apparently is the long-lost heir to a $50,000 estate, still isn't talking to anyone about his pre-Christmas good fortune.

The 40-year-old bachelor declined any statement to reporters yesterday when asked about a Buffalo, N. Y., announcement by Public Administrator Samuel Sapowitch that he was "quite satisfied" Lt. Talfourd was the son of 94-year-old Alexander Talfourd.

The nonagenarian died last week, a broken-hearted man after failure to locate his only heir, who he said he deserted in Billings, Mont., more than 30 years ago.

Sapowitch reported he had telephoned Lt. Talfourd, and said, "I told him on the phone that I was quite satisfied he was the man we were searching for."

Talfourd was quoted as saying he was deserted by his father at Billings and was reared at Seattle. Sapowitch said he asked the officer to remain in Portland until legal problems were cleared up in connection with the estate.

Holiday Shoppers Gather Their Purchases

As the lights changed at a downtown intersection, this crowd of Christmas buyers walked toward The Herald and News camera. This scene was typical of Main street during shopping hours all week. (Below) out-of-town shoppers included this trio loading their purchases in the back of a pickup. Edna Farless is the girl and W. H. Amos and D. W. Holder, all of Dorris, Calif., are the others.

Nazi Doctors Face Atrocity Trial

NUERNBERG, Germany, Dec. 19 (AP)—An affidavit read at the trial of 23 German doctors today asserted that hundreds of innocent men and women were killed in concentration camps so their bodies could be used for the Strasbourg university skeleton collection and similar so-called scientific projects.

The affidavit was signed by

Joseph Kramer, former commandant of the Beisen concentration camp, who since had been hanged by the British for his crimes.

Kramer said he gassed and poisoned inmates of the Nazi-weiler concentration camp in Stutthof so their bodies could be used for medical research.

The doctors are charged with war crimes and crimes against humanity in conducting cruel experiments upon camp inmates.
