

Woman Dies in Blazing Home

ALBANY, Dec. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Velma E. Weed, 73, died yesterday in a fire blamed on an overturned oil stove in the house of her daughter, Mrs. W. R. Robnett, three miles east of Holley.

Neighbors fought the blaze until the Sweet Home fire department arrived, confining damage largely to the living room, where Mrs. Weed's body lay, indicating she succumbed while fighting the flames. Mrs. Robnett, two other daughters and two sons survive.

California Uses Oregon Produce

PORTLAND, Dec. 21 (AP)—The good neighbor policy applies with California. The chamber of commerce reported a survey showed Los Angeles bought $48,074,926 worth of Oregon goods last year—more than from any other state except California itself.

EARLY TRANSFUSION
Practical blood transfusions began about 1900, but as early as 1668 a case was reported where a lamb became a blood donor, and the patient lived.
