Police Find Chinese Dead

PORTLAND, Dec. 28 (AP)—A bald, middle-aged Chinese named Foon Lal Yee was found fatally gashed in a blood-spattered room today by police answering cries for help.

A 57-year-old tenant of a waterfront rooming house, who was found nearby with his clothes covered with blood, was held for questioning.

The Chinese had deep gashes on his face. Police said a trail of blood led through the small waterfront area apartment to a room containing lottery tickets, slot machines, brushes and ink pots.

An ambulance hurrying the Chinese to a hospital collided with a Trailways bus and the injured man was transferred to another ambulance. He died before reaching the hospital.

No one was hurt in the collision.

Stock Market Action Slow

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—Selective recoveries continued in today's stock market, although many leaders failed to shake off moderate declines.

Dealings tapered after a fairly active start and the direction was a trifle cloudy near the close with fractional variations either way predominating. Volume of around 500,000 shares was one of the smallest of the month.

Amassing by those who had registered losses of profits for income tax purposes provided a moderately bullish prop. A certain amount of bidding also was credited to persistent hopes that good reinvestment rally would eventuate by the turn of the year.

The portal-to-portal wage situation, already involving suits approaching the billion-dollar mark, remained as a bearish influence. Predictions of falling goods prices in 1947 brought some liquidation on the thought that a deflationary interlude was a possibility.

Idle Pay Causes Row

A recently launched campaign against fraud in obtaining unemployment benefits has brought about its first conviction in a case in Polk county. Silas Gaiser, SUCC administrator, announced today.

The convicted man has been unable to work recently. Sentence was suspended for six months to allow repayment of the $90 benefits received last spring while he was employed regularly.

Three additional cases are in prosecutors' hands and others are expected to be referred to the courts soon.

Investigators in the past three months have checked thousands of claims to find 114 subject to disqualification for from one to 26 weeks. Failure to report earnings, giving the wrong reason for job separation and filing a claim while attending school were most numerous causes of action. One man tried to obtain benefits while in jail.

Where veterans' readjustment allowances are involved in questionable cases, the information is turned over to those responsible for prosecution in the veterans administration. Three cases already are in the hands of federal authorities.

Wilson Wiley Gives Talk

Laws governing the acquisition of water and land rights, from early territorial days to present reclamation and homestead procedures, were outlined in a talk by Wilson Wiley to the Rotary club at the Willard hotel Friday noon.

Highlights of interest to Klamath people were the passage by congress of the reclamation act in 1902, and the start of study for the Klamath project by reclamation engineers in 1904. The two important steps that made reclamation possible here following passage of the act, Wiley said, were the ceding of rights to lake beds to the United States by the states of Oregon and California, and the building of railroads to the basin.

Haarby Bechen was introduced as a new member of the Klamath Falls Rotary club with the classification of title service. Dick Maxwell was chairman of the day.

Baruch Warning On Atomic Rules Speeds Decision Meet

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Dec. 28 (AP)—Bernard M. Baruch's sharp warning that the United States could not yield atomic bomb secrets to the world unless the veto was ruled out of any international control plan sent United Nations delegates into hotel room conferences today seeking off-the-floor agreement.

Representatives of the 12 nations on the UN atomic energy commission had until Monday morning, when the body goes into session for final decision, to settle this critical issue, which generally is regarded as the key to the basic arms reduction program laid down by the UN assembly.

Baruch's strong speech was made at a closed session of the commission last night in the midst of bitter debate over inclusion of the veto with regard to punishment of violators of a control system. The American delegate made it clear that he

Teachers End Strike On Schools

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 28 (AP)—St. Paul public school teachers last night suspended their strike after the city charter commission approved an amendment providing funds for the increased salaries and school improvements the instructors had demanded before they left their classrooms for picket lines on November 25.

Fred M. Truax, commissioner of education, said the 36,578 pupils would return to classes January 6, with the possibility of opening the city's 77 schools next Monday if a survey shows not too many teachers have left for the holidays.

Truax said time lost would be made up by continuing classes through Easter vacation and farther into June than usual.

Miss Mollie Geary, chairman of the teachers joint council, issued the statement calling off the walkout after the charter commission approved an $18 per capita annual expenditure for school purposes only. The amendment will be submitted to St. Paul voters, who must approve it by a 60 per cent majority. The city council is expected to decree a special election on the issue within a month.
