

Girl Marines Reorganizing

Technical Sergeant Raymond H. Robertson, USMC, NCO in charge of marine corps recruiting in Medford, announced today that the United States marine corps is planning on reorganizing the marine corps women's reserve.

The present plans of the women's reserve call for the formation of both an organized and a volunteer reserve, patterned on comparable components of the male reserve. Permissive legislation must be passed by congress before the organized units may be activated; however, enlistments in the volunteer reserve (inactive) may be opened at an earlier date.

At the same time Sergeant Robertson stated that any discharged women reserves in this area that are interested in events concerning the fourth anniversary of the United States marine corps women's reserve to please contact or write to Lt. Kay Found, 1318 N. E. Roselawn St., Portland, Ore. The women's reserve birthday is on February 13.
