California Legislature In Conflict

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 7 (AP)—One of the most significant legislative conflicts in recent years gripped the California assembly today and pending its outcome completion of organization of the lower house was delayed.

The controversy hinged on a rules amendment offered at the opening session by Assemblyman Albert Wollenberg (R) San Francisco, who was floor manager for Governor Warren in 1945 on several of the major administration measures including the biennial budget bill.

It would strip newly elected Assembly Speaker Sam L. Collins of the power to appoint standing committees.

Under the proposal which is supported by Assemblyman George D. Collins, San Francisco democrat, committees and their chairmen would be selected on the basis of the party membership in the house, with personnel determined in party caucuses.

There was no indication as to whether Wollenberg has the support of the Warren administration in his move but Collins declared that the new system of naming committees would enhance the prospect of enactment of "the liberal portions of Governor Warren's program and any other progressive legislation offeed at this session."

Winter Sport Planes Slated

REDDING, Jan. 7 (WNS)—Southern Oregon's snow sport areas are due for widespread publicity and advertising throughout the west this month, in conjunction with the opening of air service to the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland by Southwest Airways.

Association officials said that Sun mountain, Crater lake and the Diamond lake snow sport regions would be featured in a special series of newspaper, magazine and radio interviews throughout California and Nevada between now and January 25. Arrangements have been completed by Southwest to fly the association's attractive "Envoy Extraordinary," Miss Betty Johnson to Los Angeles, to publicize "six more months of winter sports in the Wonderland."

Klamath Gets 133 Clear Days

Folks from the valley communities who consider the Klamath county residents as braving long, hard winters, are on the wrong track and as far as the kids are concerned, the winter season of skating and coasting is all too short.

The 1946 review issued today by the United States bureau of reclamation, gave out that there were 133 clear days in the year, 131 partly cloudy, and 101 cloudy days. Total precipitation for 1946 was 11.46 inches as compared to the total for 1945 of 16.52 inches. The average yearly precipitation is 13.01 inches. Greatest amount recorded during any month occurred in November, when 2 inches was chalked up.

Maximum temperature recorded in 1946 was reported on July 21, when the mercury went to 100 degrees. The minimum for the year was on December 31, when the thermometer registered 10 degrees above zero.

The minimum was never down to zero during the year.

There were 16 days in 1946 when the maximum temperature was 32 degrees or lower. The mean yearly temperature for 1946 was 47.9 degrees, average yearly temperature computed over a 40-year period being 47.8 degrees. The average yearly temperature for 1945 was 48.9.

Available storage in the various bureau of reclamation reservoirs on January 1, 1946, and January 1, 1947, are shown here:

Reservoir	Jan. 1, 1946	Jan. 1, 1947
Upper Klamath Lake	250,040	160,880
Clear Lake	238,860	203,020
Gerber	50,260	28,350
Total	539,160	392,250

Largest Incense Cedar Found

ROSEBURG, Jan. 7 (AP)—A tree recently discovered in the Umpqua national forest has been officially designated as the largest known California incense cedar.

Forest Supervisor M. M. Nelson reported the specimen, with a diameter of 29½ feet, was discovered by Ranger Joe Elliott in Lonesome meadow in the Diamond lake district. Until recently the largest known cedar was in Yosemite National park.

Nylon Shortage Eases Here But Some Scarcities Stick

By JOY BIGGS

Barelegged gal with frost-bit nose
Didn't you forget some clo'es?
Your furs just reach your knees—Below
Goosebumpey pins brave ice and snow.
Don't you know the shops are swimmin'
With nylons, rayons, silks for wimmen?

While men are muffled from top to toe in warm clothing these nippy winter days, some of the weaker sex may be seen going stockingless. The supply of hosiery has nothing to do with it. The block-long nylon queues are a thing of the past.

A survey of local stores indicates that shelves are filled with hosiery now. While some shops only carry silk hose, many have rayons and nylons too. Cottons are rarer than any of the other types now and only one store was found to have any on hand. These are cotton lisle and cost $1.09. They are available in sizes nine to 10½. Rayons can be had at 92 cents to 95 cents, silks from $1.25 to $3.25 and nylons $1.50 to $1.95. One shop had some very sheer nylons in 51 gauge, 20 denier at $1.95 this morning.

Not many months ago men, women and children stood for hours in lines that reached for blocks, when a few pair of stockings were advertised.

The situation with soap and bathroom tissue is not so encouraging. While one market admitted having a case of tissue this morning and a shipment of soap last Thursday, no one seemed to know when the next shipment of either would be in, or how big it would be. Most of the stores received their last shipment of soap three weeks ago.

While bathroom tissue is still extremely limited several brands of cleansing tissue have been on the market lately, including new names, unheard of before.

Paper napkins and towels can be found her and there by diligent scrounging, but the days of walking into a favorite shop, asking for a certain type of merchandise and getting it, are still in the offing.

C Of C Slates New Schedule

The 1947 program of the Klamath County chamber of commerce is getting into full swing with several meetings which were disrupted during the holidays going back on regular schedule, Charles R. Stark, manager, said today.

The membership committee will go back on its regular schedule of weekly meetings Friday noon, January 10. Starting this week the board of directors will again meet at the chamber offices every Wednesday noon.

Changes in the office staff within the past few months include the placement of Kay Phair in charge of the bookkeeping. Effie Botens, KUHS, 1946 graduate is chief clerk and Thomasine Boyer is information clerk. Judith Lepley is carrying on in the top position of the office.

Jaycees Hear Guy Leonard

Communism, its infiltration into government offices and agencies was discussed at the Junior chamber of commerce meeting Monday night.

The talk was given by Guy Leonard, field secretary of the U. S. chamber of commerce, who set forth as the number one objective of the chamber in 1947, the plan to exterminate communism in the United States. He outlined the program to be followed by chamber members and distributed leaflets explaining the situation for those who wish to study the subject further.

Leonard covers the northwest territory, including Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana. He will be here until January 12, and is stopping at the Willard.

Final plans for the Founders Day banquet to be held January 27 were completed by the committee in charge. Tickets will be available through the Junior chamber. The banquet will be held at the Willard, dancing to follow. Martin Putnam is in charge of dinner arrangements.

Klamath Man Named To Honorary

LEWIS AND CLARK COLLEGE, Portland, Jan. 7—Harry H. Tindall, president of the sophomore class, was one of 31 men selected recently for charter membership in Mustangs, new men's service honorary organized by the executive council of the Associated Men Students. Members from all four classes were chosen on the basis of leadership, service and character. Honorary charter members are Dr. Charles W. Howard, dean of the college, and George Ennis, dean of men.

Duties will include serving as ushers at college functions, directing and controlling traffic on the campus, acting as hosts to groups of visitors to the college and upholding and enforcing college traditions.

Tindall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tindall, 2337 Garden avenue.
