Purebred Dogs Burned To Death

SEATTLE, Jan. 10 (AP)—Twenty-two purebred dogs burned to death early Thursday when flames of undetermined origin swept the widely known Black-briar kennels, between here and

Des Moines. The dogs, many of them brood matrons and show winners, included great dunes, scottish terriers and Chesapeake bay retrievers. They were valued at $400 and District Fire Chief G. D. Greeley estimated damage to the kennel structures at $1500. Firemen said the blaze may have started from wiring in an incubator.
