Stock Market Nosedives

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—One of the sharpest, and shortest, nosedives of the past month was experienced by the stock market today. The drop came before the release of the third presidential message of the week which, in th opinion of brokers, again brought scant response from securities.

Dealings slowed after a fairly active and steady opening. Selling orders then appeared in the second hour following weakening of a few distillers and declines of fractions to 3 points or so were widespread. Liquidation was brief, however, and the pace soon reverted to a crawl with extreme setbacks reduced in most cases at the close. Turnover of about 1,000,000 shares was the largest for January to date.

Bonds were uneven with rails in supply. Cotton, toward the finish, was down $2.00 to $4.40 a bale. At Chicago wheat ended unchanged to off 1 cent a bushel, corn ⅛ to 1¼c and oats ⅝ to ⅞c.

Grain Futures Weaken Today

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Offerings of cash corn and oats by farmers and country elevators expanded sharply today and futures contracts of those grains weakened on the Chicago board of trade.

Shortly before the close purchases of cash corn on a to-arrive basis totaled 365,000 bushels and oats 150,000 bushels. These were the officially reported bookings, but dealers said it was probable considerably larger offerings were made.

Traders said the expansion in bookings indicated increases willingness of farmers to part with grain since January 1 and the start of a new income tax year.

Deferred corn futures were down about a cent at times. The January contract was relatively steady. September oats fell below 60 cents for the first time since trading started in that delivery. Wheat resisted the decline.

Wheat closed unchanged to a cent lower, January $2.14, corn ⅛-1⅛c lower, January $1.31⅛-¾, and oats ⅛-1⅛c lower, March 74⅛-⅞c.
