

Camp Fire News

This week the Camp Fire Girls are aiding in the March of Dimes campaign. Such service is a vital part of the program of the organization, and the eagerness of the girls to participate in such a worthy cause is easily understandable. Many of the Camp Fire Girls helped in the distribution of collection cans to merchants throughout the town, and during the next few Saturdays they will set up booths in some stores with the March of Dimes displays.

Work at the Camp Fire house is continuing, with many of the guardians offering their services toward its completion. Through the generous help of some of the Camp Fire "fathers," a great deal of carpentry work has already been accomplished, and soon we hope to finish this undertaking. There is still a great deal of painting to be done, and any guardian who is interested is asked to lend her services.

Groups have recently been electing new officers for the coming year. The officers retain office for a short period each year, thereby allowing more girls to have the experience of assuming such responsibilities. The Blue Bird group of Conner school announces the following new officers: President, Adelia Kirkland; vice president, Juanita Easter; treasurer, Janice Shultz. At the Fairhaven school, the new officers in Mrs. McCann's group consist of president, Katherine McCann; vice president, Shirley McFarland, and secretary, Joan Brown.

Education Chapter To Meet Saturday

The Klamath county chapter of the Oregon Educational association will meet Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the auditorium of Fremont school, according to Harvey Denham, publicity chairman for the local chapter.

The regular business meeting of the association will be preceded by reports from the local delegates to the association delegate assembly, held in Portland last November. The two delegates to the assembly at that time were Eva Burkhalter and Paul Dellen.

All members of the O.E.A. are urged to attend the meeting, Denham said.
