Probation Break Brings Arrest

Standing on his constitutional rights apparently did Arthur Lager no good at all last night. The 42-year-old resident of Klamath annex on S. 8th is on probation from the city jail under instructions to stay out of bars and beer halls for 30 days, but about 8:30 last night he was spotted at the Mecca by a city patrolman.

There were strong indications that Lager had been ignoring the provision in his probation order, according to police report, and not the least of these was Lager's questioning of police authority. He told the patrolman he could drink if he so chose, in fact, that it was his constitutional right to drink in beer taverns.

Lager is in the city lockup today, charged with violation of probation.

Merrill Water Main Work Slated

MERRILL, Jan. 21—Increased and better water service for the people of Merrill is promised with the installation of a new water tank and water mains. Recent conferences of the city's water commission with S. C. Watkins, engineer associated with the A. D. Harvey associate engineers, Medford, indicate that work on the improvement project will get under way in the near future.

Lack of pipe of a size sufficient to handle the increased demand for water has held up the work, authorized last fall by approval of a $50,000 bond issue.

The water commission which includes Paul Lewis, T. W. Chaburn and Robert Drago expect to install a new $50,000 steel water tank and tower, probably on a new location in the rear of the community hall which the city acquired some months ago. The wooden tank has been located since it was first built at the rear of the Scoggins building now occupied by Safeway. It has a capacity of 33,000 gallons. A six inch cast iron main will be laid when fittings are available "lopping" the town and extending to the industrial area across the Great Northern tracks. Four-inch mains will be laid down the alleys.

Shut off connections will also be installed to be used in an emergency so that only a small section of the city will be out of service.

Concert To Be Held Tonight

Famed Cellist Gregor Piatigorsky will be presented at a night Tuesday, at 8 o'clock at the Pelican theatre by the Community Concert association. No seats will be reserved and only membership tickets will be honored.

Piatigorsky will be accompanied by Ralph Berkowitz at the piano.

The program will include "Divertimento," Franz Josef Haydn; "Sonata in E Minor, Op. 38," Johannes Brahms; "Introduction, Theme and Variations, Opus 82, No. 2," Franz Schubert; "Malinconia," J. e. n. Sibelius; "Allegro Appassionato, Op. 43," Camille Saint-Saens; "Nocturne in C-Sharp Minor (Op. Posthumous), Frederic Chopin; "Danse Of Terror," from "El Amor Brujo," Manuel de Falla; "March," from "Pieces for Children, Op. 65," Sergei Prokofieff; "Variations in Popular Style on a Theme of Paganini," Piatigorsky.

Knife, Fork Hears Farmer

The American farmer's propensity for "sitting and thinking" has a profound effect on the country's destiny, Willard Mayberry, Kansas farmer and businessman, told the Knife and Fork club last night in an after-dinner talk at the Willard hotel.

Mayberry, expounding a grass-roots philosophy reminiscent of the late Will Rogers, described the contribution of the American farmer to political and economic stability. Farmers, he said, are "like the town clock in the thunder storm," they go right on ticking through all the excitement of political and economic upheavals, calmly certain that in the long run things will turn out all right.

The speaker said that a farmer must be a poet, a producer and a pragmatist. Making three blades of grass grow where one grew before is fundamental in a farmer's nature, he said, a fact overlooked by Henry Wallace in advancing his unsuccessful "economy of scarcity."

Mayberry said that farmers likewise do not agree with that school of thought which believes that liberty and security are incompatible.

"We do not see any conflict there," he said. "On the farm we intend to have both."

Mayberry was introduced by Dick Henzel, Klamath farmer and member of the Knife and Fork club.

Walter Eugene Nuckolls, 337 E. Main, was arrested this morning for failure to yield the right of way at an intersection and is to be in court tomorrow.

Boy Scout Heads Here See Big Growth In Near Future

A new milestone in the Boy Scout program was indicated last week at the planning conference of the Klamath basin district Scout committee. The district ended the year with 931 boys in the Scouting program in 32 different troops, cub packs and senior Scout units.

Setting an objective for 1947 of 1110 boys in 44 different groups throughout the basin, the committee plans an activity program for the year which will surpass any previous program. Among these activities will be a district rally in March to be held in Merrill, a Camporee in April, participation in the council's Modoc Rendezvous in May, summer camp in July and August, a rally and Court of Honor in late September and the annual Boy Scout circus in early December.

District officers, named by election in December, were supplemented by men appointed by Chairman James Patterson at last week's session. Patterson named Chet Hamaker to another year as chairman of the organization and extension committee, Dr. Richard Currin as advancement chairman, Cecil Barkdoll as chairman of leadership training, M. Ernest MacBeth as health and safety chairman, and Ray Worden as chairman of camping and activities.

Heber Radcliffe as district commissioner for another year will be assisted by a staff consisting of Loy Barker, Chet Berman, Gomer Jones, Harvey Woodard, Cliff Macy, Dick Miller Jr., Paul Tanner and Mill Sessler. These men will work in direct unit contact, specializing in program assistance to Scoutmasters, Cubmasters and senior leaders.

Council President K. G. Klahn spoke in conclusion about the necessity of assuring to every boy in the Scouting program the kind of activity he expected. Klahn, having completed in two weeks a tour of the four district planning conferences including meetings in Alturas, Lakeview and Bend, expressed confidence that the goals set will be attained.

Scout Executive Bob Lamott introduced John A. Raffetto Jr., as the third professional member of the Modoc Area council staff to serve with Lamott out of the headquarters office in Klamath Falls. Raffetto will serve Lake and Modoc counties and part of Klamath county, particularly Klamath county communities outside of Klamath Falls. The other staff member serves out of Bend as a center for the Fremont district of this council.

The council closed the year with 1654 boys in 64 Scouting groups spread over an area of 40,000 square miles of southern and central Oregon and northern California country. The area covers Klamath, Lake, Deschutes, Crook and Jefferson counties in Oregon and Modoc and part of Siskiyou counties in California. The membership total at the end of 1946 is more than 500 per cent gain over 1942 and about a 10 per cent gain over 1945.

Calif. Plate Sales Slow

TULELAKE, Jan. 21—Only 20 per cent of applications for 1947 vehicle license plates on the 2000 pleasure cars and trucks, registered in the Tulelake area have been applied for, according to Gerald Wilson, California highway patrolman, for the deadline on February 4.

The Tulelake motor vehicle office is understaffed and should a run be made at the end of the and drivers are asked not to wait grace period, many drivers will be disappointed.

Car owners at Dorris also make application at this office and properly signed application slips for any number of vehicles may be presented by one individual to save mileage. There is no office operated in Dorris for the convenience of motorists.

No license plates will be issued at this time, these to be mailed out later from the Sacramento office. Temporary windshield stickers are being issued.

NO PINK MOOSE

BOSTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The eyes of Bostonians hurrying along busy Boylston street popped yesterday at the sight of a moose up in the air.

Their vision obscured by fog and rain, the pedestrians saw at a second look that it was a stuffed moose being lowered by block and tackle from the second story of the New England Museum of Natural History.

The antlered creature's ignoble descent was necessary to clear the second floor for a women's fashion shop. He was too large to negotiate the stairs.

Klamath Basin Students Honored

Klamath and Lake county youths are continuing to distinguish themselves away from home with six of them making the honor roll at SOCE, Ashland, last quarter.

Robert McLean, Delbert Yanits and James Young of Klamath Falls, Walter Foster and Warren Foster of Keno, and Paul Lerwick of Lakeview, all made the honor roll of Southern Oregon College of Education by obtaining a 3.5 grade or above, word received today stated.

The 1947 winter cauliflower crop is expected to set a new record.

Music Of Spheres Proves Old Pythagorean Belief

By J. HUGH PRUETT

The discussion of the "music of the spheres" in this column last month brought the suggestion from some readers that perhaps the Pythagorean philosophers of ancient Greece—and many astronomers of later times—were really quite near the truth when they taught that the motions of the planets produced actual musical tones. These readers feel that all celestial order and action result in a vast and majestic harmony that is closely akin to music. If we fail to sense it, the fault is with our power of perception. We may even be attuned to these universal harmonies, but still not recognize their source.

Mr. H. R. H. of Portland wonders if in "thoughts silently out of the night" there is thus "flowing the thread of a lyric being spun out of the Eternal Blue, striving for pattern and form and weaving—the Infinite Voice eager for speech and utterance."

Mrs. D. P. D., also of Portland, thus declares her faith: "Perhaps I am a Pythagorean. Why, of course there is music in the universe. Because our puny little ears can hear only certain tones doesn't prove that others are not there. That marvelous display of the aurora, which I watched from my home on a hill in the early morning hours a few years ago, was at times like a great symphony. I didn't just make up the thought; it impressed itself on my whole being, just as music that is almost too grand and exquisite to bear. I was seeing the tones and harmonies that I could not hear.

"It is my belief—not just a flight of fancy—that musical compositions that endure through the centuries were in the first place harmonies of the universe captured by the souls of the composers. I believe it was Mozart who, when asked how he created his beautiful music, insisted that he had no feeling of creating the melodies, but that he was merely the instrument through which they flowed; that when the music came, it just came and he couldn't say from where.

"One day recently in a large and busy office, someone connected a little radio, with built-in aerial, to the electric circuit. The sweetest music played. And I marveled how in the din and uproar, and within the heavy walls of the building, there that music was vibrating around us all the time—and we hadn't known it.

"Beauty of colors, music and rhythm of the universe are, I firmly believe, all parts of the same thing—which is of course beyond my comprehension."

We Are Reducing Prices of All Ford Cars

"As Much as $50 on Some Models"

Effective Immediately

A Statement by Henry Ford II

"Although more than one million of our customers are waiting for delivery of their cars at present prices, we are immediately reducing the price of every Ford car—some models as much as $50.

"This is our 'down payment' toward a continued high level of production and employment in the months ahead. We believe that the 'shock treatment' of prompt action is needed to halt the insane spiral of mounting costs and rising prices and to restore a sound base for the hopeful period of postwar production we are now entering.

"Let me review briefly the considerations which have led us to take this important step.

"The Ford Motor Company is in the mass production business. Mass production depends upon large markets. It will continue to succeed only if it can produce more and more at lower and lower cost so that more and more people can buy. Large markets begin to disappear when prices rise.

"The un-American spiral of mounting costs and rising prices has hurt everybody—some groups more than others. Many have not benefited from postwar wage increases, but have had to share the burden of resulting higher prices. Already, millions of American families are unable to buy the things which, in normal times, make up their standard of living. In the short view, we can see inflation. In the long view, there is danger of depression.

"The period since V-J Day has been an unhappy and costly period of reconversion to peacetime production. Ford Motor Company has lost millions of dollars since V-J Day, even after all tax adjustments.

"But the crisis of this wild aftermath of war seems to have been passed. Our own production, though still limited by material shortages, is now steadier. Productivity of our employes, which hit a new low during the period, seems to have started its return to normal. Ford Motor Company made a modest profit for the last three months of 1946, and we intend to continue to operate in the black.

"The American economy now stands at a turning point. Mounting costs and rising prices have warranted caution and hesitancy. There is even general fear that this dangerous, un-American cycle cannot be corrected without an economic recession. We think this fear can be dispelled by common sense and action. And among free men that becomes an individual responsibility.

"The Ford Motor Company therefore proposes to accept its losses since V-J Day as an item of the cost of a great and victorious war. We are closing our books on that phase of our production history. We have decided that now is the time for us to make an investment in the future.

"Because they must build up depleted cash reserves or because they are still losing money, many businesses may not be able to follow suit. But we hope that our suppliers, our employes, and our other economic partners will back, each to his own ability, our attempt to return to the economic pattern which has helped to make America great—the principle that higher wages and a higher standard of living for all depend upon lower costs and lower prices through increasingly efficient large-scale production.

"We hope, as we move forward, that we will be able to reduce prices further, and that we will not be forced to raise them again to compensate for cost increases."

Henry Ford II
PRESIDENT, FORD MOTOR COMPANY
