

Carnival Slated For Saturday

One of the biggest events of the year for the students of Sacred Heart academy, which is the annual spring carnival which will be given this week-end, Saturday, February 1, in the school auditorium. All proceeds will go to the academy and parents and friends are invited to attend. The party starts at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. David R. Vandenberg is general chairman of the carnival this year and was the successful chairman last year. Each room has named a room mother to handle one concession and booths will include a country store, refreshments, bingo, fortune telling, a turtle race, ring toss and a wishing well.

Much interest is centered in the lovely little doll, Mary Francis, named in honor of the Sisters of St. Francis, which is being offered to some fortunate person by Mrs. George Knoll. During the past two weeks, Mrs. Knoll has worked diligently to create for Mary Francis a delightful costume which includes an academy uniform, date dress, tea party frock, vacation suit, quilted robe and pajamas, ski outfit complete with 'knitting needles' ski poles, skis, 1970 ball gown and other wardrobe items too numerous to mention. The doll is on display at Finnigan's this week and is causing each little girl's eye to shine.

All friends of academy students are urged to come to the school auditorium Saturday night and join in the fun.

Entertain

Mrs. Mark T. Howard and Mrs. Claire Spiers entertained for Phyllis Duffy on Friday, January 24 at the Howard home, 2903 Summers lane, with a crystal shower. Games were enjoyed by the guests until a late hour when refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The bride was presented with a huge market basket containing were many packages containing crystal and miscellaneous gifts. Daffodils and acacia decked the rooms. Those honoring Miss Duffy were, Mrs. P. J. Ceremony Read Sunday At Merrill

In a 3 o'clock double ring ceremony, Sunday, January 26, Wilma Louise Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Graham of Merrill became the bride of Forrest Nelson Rockwell of Merrill. The ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents with the Rev. David Barnett of the First Presbyterian church of Klamath Falls officiating. The bride and groom stood before a fireplace banked with white carnations and palms. The bride given in marriage by her father wore a dressmaker suit of delphinium blue with a corsage of pink roses. Matron of honor was Mrs. George Chamberlain, (Catherine McCulley) cousin of the bride, who wore a gray dressmaker suit with a corsage of carnations. Best man was James Graham, brother of the bride.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Graham chose a green wool-crepe suit with a carnation corsage. Mrs. Rockwell wore a navy blue dress with pink carnation corsage. The reception was held immediately following the ceremony where the new Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell cut the first slice of the three tiered wedding cake which was mounted with a miniature bride and groom of old-fashioned design which had adorned the bride's grandparents cake on their golden wedding anniversary.

Presiding at the bride's table were Mrs. John Semorile, sister of the groom, who served the wedding cake to the guests and Mrs. L. S. Tyrrell who served from the coffee urn. The guest book was passed around by Mrs. John McCulley.

The bride who is the sister of Mrs. Alex Gooding and Mr. James Graham, attended Henley and Merrill schools and was employed in Klamath Falls prior to her marriage. The groom who is a graduate of Yreka high school is the son of Mr. and

SERGEE of California
Creates
for you who are 5-foot-4 or under

"Wonderful!" is an understatement when you're talking about this sleek Sergee creation in a brisk Heller rayon jersey print. Sergee is devoted to fashions for the 5-foot-4 and under figure exclusively, and she does it handsomely, as you can see. Note the clever self-pouch pocket she's designed into this model...it's enough to make a kangaroo envious.
