Flour Mill Destroyed By Blaze

TACAMO, Wash., Jan. 30 (AP) A spectacular fire destroyed the $1,000,000 Centennial flouring mill plant on Tacoma's waterfront today, and threatened to spread to the big Sperry flour mill nearby.

Centennial's 225 employes left the plant safely shortly after the blaze started about 7:30 a. m. Two hours later firemen gave up hope of saving the plant, and devoted efforts to keeping the blaze from the Sperry mill, situated just north of Centennial.

Firemen said the blaze was believed to have started when a motor overheated and caused an explosion in flour dust. Smoke and flames rolled spectacularly skyward in the clear, cold air, and a 12-mile wind fanned the blaze.

H. Ray De Chenne, secretary-treasurer of Cetennial in Seattle, said the Tacoma plant contained about 400,000 bushels of wheat. He said the million dollar plant, built in 1907 and expanded several times since, was fully insured. Construction of a big concrete addition was under way at time of the fire.

All available fire fighting equipment was called to the scene but the city's only fireboat broke down en route to the blaze, hindering control efforts from the water side.

The Centennial mill here was the largest of several units operated by the company, and it was one of Tacoma's largest industries.

Gilchrist Girl Hurt In Accident

GILCHRIST—Sharon Peachey, Gilchrist eighth grade student, was injured Sunday afternoon as she was walking home along the highway when a pickup driven by Mr. Palmer of Chemult skidded, struck her, and threw her into the gravel. Her left arm and left side of her face were seriously cut. She was rushed to the St. Charles hospital at Bend.

The doctors stated there is a possibility of a skull fracture. The latest report is that she is resting better.

Traditionally every junior and senior girl adopts a freshman girl as her "little sister," tries to fit into a big sister's shoes, and escorts her to the Big and Little Sister dance. All this took place today when the Girls' League club sponsored the Big and Little Sister dance in the girls' gym at 2:55. Every girl in KU was invited to attend.

Prizes were given to the tallest little sister, the shortest little sister and the best dancers. Candy and cokes were sold to those in attendance.

Radar Tried Out On Bay Ferries

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 30 (AP) A radar system for ferryboats, tugs and other craft which operate in rivers and bays was demonstrated today on the ferryboat Sacramento which operates between Oakland and San Francisco.

Described by its makers, the General Electric company, as capable of giving radar contact on objects as little as 100 yards distant, the instrument was designed for short range as well as long range work.

Plywood Controls Off March 31

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 30 (AP) Removal of civilian production administration controls on plywood is planned for March 31, Thomas B. Malarkey said he was advised in Washington.

The president of the Douglas Fir Plywood association said the industry asked for end to the controls February 1, but that CPA officials told him in a conference another month would be needed.

Three Children Die In Blaze

BELLEVUE, Neb., Jan. 30 (AP) Three children burned to death today when fire destroyed their three-room home here, one after successfully rescuing a brother and sister.

The girl, 15-yearo-ld Delores Otto, had carried two children from the blazing structure, returned to remove more of her brothers and sisters and was found dead just inside the front door.

Also burned to death were Victor Otto, 4, and Frances Otto, 3. Bodies of both were found in their beds. A Bellevue police official said they apparently suffocated.

Nips Must Have Huge Food Import

TOKYO, Jan. 30 (AP)— The importation of 1,600,000 metric tons of food will be necessary this year to avert another food crisis in Japan, allied headquarters officials said today.

Last year 700,000 metric tons were imported, mainly from the United States. Officials said the imports prevented starvation, particularly in the critical spring months.

Virginia Death Investigated

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Jan. 30 (AP)—Miss Elizabeth Sattler, 28-year-old divorcee and daughter of West Virginia's state labor commissioner, was found dying on a Charleston street at 2:05 a. m. today and police theorized she may have been slain.

Two squad car patrolmen reported the pretty brunette was doubled with pain and gasping for breath when they found her.

She was pronounced dead on arrival at General hospital and authorities said an autopsy showed several internal injuries, as if she had been run over by an automobile.

Police Chief Harold B. Cornwell said he was inclined to "view the case with suspicion, but we feel we'll soon know exactly what occurred."
