

Vets Administration Head Faces World's Worst Job

By HAL BOYLE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—The man who gets probably more mail than anyone in his story—and perhaps more squawks—is Omar Nelson Bradley.

He had the wartime satisfaction of commanding more American troops abroad in the field than any general who came before him. Now he has the dubious pleasure of untangling the affairs of more ex-soldiers than any predecessor as veterans' administrator.

There are approximately 18,000,000 living veterans of American wars, about 43 per cent of the adult male population of the United States. In the fiscal year 1946 Bradley supervised the spending of $4,772,072,218 in their behalf.

The size of his job can be further judged from the fact that in the month of December he and the officials under him throughout the country received 11,300,000 letters, 1,800,000 personal visits from veterans seeking information, and 743,000 phone calls. I spent a pleasant half hour with him the other day recalling European campaigns. His present post has no thrill like cracking the Siegfried line, but he said it wasn't without satisfaction.

"Any reward you get," he said, "is in the feeling you've done some good for veterans and have their loyalty. But it's not like in combat. It's not as tangible."

Lot of Headaches

He said there were still "a lot of headaches" in carrying out congressional provisions for veterans, particularly in speeding ironing out the insurance problems of 17,000,000 veterans who took out a total of 18,000,000 wartime government policies, but that "we're coming along in pretty good shape."

"There is still unemployment, however," he remarked. "Full employment and lots of new housing are the veterans' greatest needs."

The general—born on Abraham Lincoln's birthday—will be 52 next week, his forehead is climbing a little higher and the gray shows clearly on his temples.

But he hasn't changed otherwise. He has no political ambitions. His present task of reorganizing veterans' affairs will soon be accomplished, and his friends feel he will probably return to army duty.

Meanwhile he has left an indelible impression at the veterans' administration, where they would like him to stay forever.

"There was considerable resentment when he first came," said one old chairholder there, "but now the people here think the sun rises and sets in him."

"He makes his decisions on facts. Sometimes he has to chop off a head, but somehow there is no feeling of anger against him. People know that with him there is no personal feeling involved. He simply is doing his job."

That's the same feeling several million men overseas had about Bradley, even though sometimes he had to give orders that led them to their deaths.

Police Probe Boston Slaying

BOSTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—A 53-year-old woman was found strangled beneath a bed on which a man was sleeping in a south end rooming house early today.

Police identified the woman as Miss Ethel Mae Boston of Boston. Medical examiner Timothy Leary said she had been strangled with a tie and that she had been dead about 24 hours.

Police held the man found on the bed for questioning and began search for a second man who was reported to have been in the couple's company.

Police Sgt. Mark Fay said the man found sleeping in the room told this story:

He, another man, and the woman were on a party when he passed out. He heard no noise and when he awakened discovered the woman's body under the bed and that he had been robbed of $15.

The landlady of the rooming house told police that she had not seen Miss Boston for several days.

Concentration Camp Guards Convicted

HAMBURG, Feb. 3 (AP)—A British military court today convicted as war criminals 15 Nazi attendants at the Ravensbrück concentration camp, for women, where thousands of inmates—mostly Polish—were reported to have died as a result of brutal and inhuman treatment.

The 16th defendant, Dr. Adolf Winkelman, who was witness described as "a devil doctor" who selected prisoners for extermination, died in his cell Saturday following a heart attack. No verdict was announced in his case.

Teachers Hold Pay Talk Meeting

ROSEBURG, Feb. 3 (AP)—A statewide conference here of the classroom teachers department of the Oregon Education Association has advised teachers not to underbid others bargaining for higher contracts.

The group urged all teachers not to sign contracts for less than $400 salary and recommended a salary schedule ranging from $2400 minimum to $4500 for those with 16 years experience.

The department set its next meeting for February 22 at Eugene.
