

Doctor Routs Columnist's Wife On Cigar Question

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK, Feb. 12 (AP)—If I came home and told my wife I had just murdered a man she would reply: "I won't talk to you until you take that cigar out of your mouth."

The things she hates most in the world are cigars and toothpicks. When I try to tease her by telling her that in China the high class ladies and gents think nothing of picking their teeth in public—holding their left palm under their nose to protect innocent bystanders from richly scented witheringly: "That probably explains the shape China's in."

I don't go in for toothpicks, but I never turned a man in to the police for giving me a cigar. I learned to smoke in Germany. I tried cigars but didn't like them. Next I experimented with a Belgian clay pipe. This I gave up as inefficient; if a man really wants to drink nicotine he can do it quicker through a straw.

Then the GIs overran a German liquor and tobacco supply dump and some correspondents brought back a lot of cigar boxes, using them as wedges to keep a jeepload of cognac bottles from breaking.

We tried the cigars after the cognac. They were ersatz and about as far from Havana as a cigar can get. Probably made from the same woodpulp that produced the Wehrmacht's sausages.

Anything Free
But wartime teaches you to latch on to everything free, and the pine-flavored cheroots were there for nothing in unlimited quantities.

I came home a confirmed cigar addict—only to find Frances had given up smoking. That's marriage—seesaw, teeter-totter. Five years ago I used to groan when she lit a cigaret—she never learned to inhale—and now she sprouts for the other room when I start de-cellophaning a cigar.

I can't inhale yet either. Makes me cough if I do.
I've found cigars good for a lot of things besides smoking. If a strange big dog comes growling at me, I blow a double mouthful of smoke at him. He runs away.

Some people have quit inviting us to their homes. They're choosy people. I don't like choosy people. I'd rather stay home and smell up my own apartment.

Other advantages:
(1) If a long-winded bore corners me, I light up the foulest cigar in my armory. When his eyes begin to water, he gives up and goes back to the martini table.

(2) As long as I am pouring out clouds of cigar smoke when my boss passes the desk he thinks I am working. At least I think I am thinking I am thinking.

(3) Cigars save buying ash trays. The ashes fall on your vest. Some wives whose fathers smoked cigars are more tolerant. My wife's father didn't even smoke cubets.

She lured me with her recently to her doctor. I thought it was the usual thing—he would write her out a prescription for some pills and they'd gab for half an hour about the opera, and I'd get the bill. But no.

"I'm worried about my husband," said the asp I love. "He's been nervous lately."
"I am—" I started to deny, but Frances stopped me with a more or less tender: "Shut up, you!"

Flashes Of Life

THAT PROFESSIONAL TOUCH
YONKERS, N. Y., Feb. 13 (AP)—William Joslyn, 73, backed up to a stove to loosen an adhesive plaster on his back. When his shirttail caught fire brother George Joslyn, 70, threw a pail of water on him, and these goings-on brought policemen, firemen and ambulance attendants, who agreed he should go to a hospital. There, a nurse got the adhesive off in jig time.

HOT TIP
NEW YORK, Feb. 13 (AP)—A taxi driver, puzzled when a young man tipped him $10 at Grand Central terminal and told him to "keep your mouth shut," decided to check up. He went to the Park avenue candy shop where the passenger had made a stop, and learned the store had been robbed of $250.

"I figured something was phony when he came out of the store," the cabbie told police. "He had no candy."

The doctor probed, punched, assayed my eyeball color and wind pressure.
"I think he's been smoked—" Frances began, when the doc broke in:
"Nothing much the matter. He needs to take it easy for a while. See that he gets more rest."

He wrote me out some pills and then pulled out a big twenty-five cent cigar and handed it to me.
"Relax," he said, "You're all right."

Gilchrist HS Annual Ready

GILCHRIST, Feb. 13 — All students of Gilchrist high school had their "Sunday best" clothes on February 5 and 6 when a photographer from Klamath Falls came to take individual portraits and pictures for the school annual.

The editor of the annual, Violet Freeman, and her staff plan to have the copy completed and sent to the publisher by the 28th of this month with all details in order. The staff has been working long and hard in order that the annual material will be sent in to the publishers in plenty of time for students to receive their copies before the close of the school year, May 23.

SOUVENIR
CHENEY, Wash., Feb. 13 (AP)—The chunk of metal which rattled out of Arthur Biehl's clarinet case after an Eastern Washington College of Education practice was not an extra mouthpiece.
It was a piece of shrapnel imbedded in the wood case since the student's navy days on Saipan.

Group Psychology Authority Dies

NEWTON, Mass., Feb. 13 (AP)—Dr. Kurt Lewin, 56, director of the research center for group dynamics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and internationally known authority on group psychology, died last night. He was born in Mogilno, Germany.

HOOVER IN VIENNA
BERLIN, Feb. 13 (AP)—Herbert Hoover carried his survey of Europe's food needs today to Vienna, where he was scheduled to confer for three days before proceeding to Rome.

Veterans To Sponsor Dance

An announcement of interest to the dancing public of this community was released today by the Overseas Veterans Building commission, acting in the interests of Pelican post 1383, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Beginning Saturday night, February 15, dances will be held at the Klamath Falls armory every Saturday night from 9 to 11 under the sponsorship of the VFW and managed by the building commission. The dances which have been operated under these auspices at Danceland for the past four years have been discontinued, effective February 8. Present plans call for the establishment of a temporary club for post members at the Klamath avenue location.

Music at the armory will be supplied by the popular Dance-masters who have been playing the Danceland dances for some time. Admission prices remain the same.

Missing Man Found Alive

Another man carried on the missing list by the Klamath Memorial committee, has been cleared through a request made this week through The Herald and News, when Gale Beckham was reported "safe and sound" and living in Klamath Falls, Beckham was a prisoner for three years, held by the Japs at Manchukuo, China. He returned home in February, 1946, after leaving here in 1940. His mother, Mrs. Marie Beckham Pryor, lives at 1803 Siskiyou.
