annual Shrove Tuesday pancake supper at St. Paul's. Their daughter Margaret is now at Stevens college at Columbia, Mo., and Margaret is just as enthusiastic about flying now as she was when she made her first solo flight in Eugene quite some time ago. The Flocks left Wednesday evening.

Congratulations to three little newcomers to Klamath Falls. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ragland of Tulelake, who arrived on St. Valentine's day and making the second grandson for Mr. and Mrs. Andrew M. Collier; the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fleet, also born on Valentine's day; the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Frye—papa's with KFLW—who was no less acceptable as a Valentine even if she did arrive on February 15.

The boys around town are having a little fun with six of them taking off by air Wednesday for Old Mexico where they will have one week of hunting and fishing. Barney Barnhisel and Eugene Rugh flew in one plane, Dick Reeder and Whitey Mills in another, and a third carried Cliff Hogue and Jerry Rajnus, the latter from Malin. Expected home this week-end from a 10-day party which included fishing in southern Nevada are two athletes, Arthur Schaupp and Dayton E. Van Vactor.

Mrs. Mayme Johnson, who was a resident of the Evans apartments and with her daughter, Irma, was later domiciled at the Winema hotel, is anxiously awaiting the arrival of her son, Bob, who is due in New York March 5 from overseas. Bob brings with him his French bride, the former Susanna Fonay, whom he married early in February in Rome, Italy. The Klamath man served as a sergeant with the United States army, 6th general hospital unit, and was discharged a year ago in November while overseas. He took a position with the state department and was stationed in Milan with the American consulate. This is a vacation trip for Bob and his bride and they will return to Italy after their holiday here. The family has not been together since he went overseas three years ago. Mrs. Johnson is a first grade teacher at Mills.

Shirley Dalton, daughter of the Paul J. Daltons, flew to Eugene last week-end where she and a number of other senior students from Oregon high schools took the aptitude test for entrance to Stanford university next fall. Shirley flew back Sunday from the valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Mushen and son Robbie are taking advantage of a two-day holiday (Saturday being George Washington's birthday at the bank), and they are spending this week-end in Medford with Mrs. Mushen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gore. Home Sunday night.

A telephone call from Ed Morse, caretaker at Lake o' the Woods, in which he advises all cabin owners that they have missed a beautiful month at the lake. There has been no snow since the last week in January and the air has been sufficiently crisp to give the lake a sparkling coat. The snow rapidly melting from the cabin roofs as the warm sun bathed the area but the lake ice remains about 18 inches thick. The roads are not open, however, but Morse predicts an early season if "things keep up."

Supreme Queen To Visit Nile Club

The Klamath Falls Daughters of the Nile are looking forward to one of the spring's largest affairs at which they will play the role of hostess group when they entertain with a tea Friday, February 28, from 2 to 4 o'clock in the Pelican party room honoring their supreme queen, Grace Cost, of Sacramento, California.

Mrs. Cost is paying her official visit to the Klamath Falls club at this time. She is on a tour which includes the entire United States, Vancouver and Victoria, and her journey has embraced visits to 64 temples of which Zuleima temple is the last. The Klamath Falls chapter is affiliated with Zuleima. An impressive ceremonial in honor of Mrs. Cost is planned by Zuleima temple on March 1, in Ashland. Mrs. Cost continues from there to her home in Sacramento. Pouring at the tea table next Friday will be Mrs. Marshall E. Cornett and Mrs. Walter Brown, immediate past presidents of Daughters of the Nile. Mrs. Paul Matthews is the newly installed president. Assisting about the rooms will be past presidents of the club, including Mrs. George Hillis, Mrs. Carl Steinseifer, Mrs. Elmer H. Balsiger, Mrs. R. Parcher Ellingson Sr., Mrs. George A. Massey and Mrs. Gus Anderson. Mrs. W. E. Sherfy is also a member of the committee. Mrs. Balsiger will cut the beautifully decorated cake at the tea, the cake symbolic of the birthday anniversary of Daughters of the Nile. Mrs. George H. Adler is chairman of the party and Mrs. Dean H. Osborn is in charge of decorations. Mrs. Phillip Cole and Mrs. Leo N. Huls are arranging tea refreshments.

Library Club Tea Saturday

The Washington's birthday theme was used effectively at the benefit bridge party given this afternoon by the Klamath Falls Woman's Library club in the Willard hotel. The tea table was lovely with a centerpiece of a miniature cherry tree with red cherries tied on with green ribbon bows, flanked by red, white and blue candles in red flower pots placed on a lace tablecloth. As a very effective background, the stage held a larger white cherry tree complete with cherries and leaves.

Mrs. Ray W. Oldenburg was chairman of bridge and Mrs. Kenneth A. Moore, tea chairman, assisted by her committee of Mrs. Vern Owens, Mrs. R. C. Woodruff, Mrs. Laurence Shaw and Mrs. Louis Serruys. Mrs. Arthur Reinhart was in charge of decorations; Mrs. Frederick Farley, prizes; Mrs. Fred Wissenbach, tables; Mrs. Marvin Lucas, tables, and Mrs. R. E. Hooker and her committee, Mrs. C. J. Cox, Mrs. Percy Murray, Mrs. J. H. Carter, Mrs. George Adler and Mrs. E. H. Thompson, calling.

Following cards, with contract, auction bridge and pinocle played, 20 awards were presented to the guests. Tea was served at 4 o'clock by 10 young maids, Ruth Landry, Jean Hilton, Dorothy Collier, Connie Hunt, Ellen O'Keefe, Gwen Somers, Marilyn McLellan, Joan Bennett, Barbara Zinn and Marilyn Wethercott. Mrs. Walter Brown, president of Library club, and Mrs. D. J. Zumwalt, music chairman, poured at the tea table.

Talies and prizes were distributed by four daughters of committee members, Marcella Murray, Rosemary Murray, Joan Moore and Jean Rae Oldenburg. The Library club wishes to thank members and townspeople for donations.

Reservations for the affair were made by Mrs. Dean H. Osborn, Mrs. Harold H. Teale, Mrs. Paul Angstead, Mrs. Ed Bell, Mrs. R. O. Sprout, Mrs. Lloyd Young, Mrs. Merle H. Swansen, Mrs. Ada Sparretorn, Miss Lucille Tweed, Mrs. Ed Hickman, Mrs. W. F. Brown, Mrs. W. L. Bullard, Mrs. Paul Farrens, Mrs. Carl Steinseifer, Mrs. Charles Mack, Mrs. A. G. Goehring, Mrs. David Goehring, Mrs. M. P. Leonard, Mrs. George R. Lindcordially invited to attend the luncheon, and are asked to telephone Mrs. Roland Wright, 6755, for reservation not later than Tuesday, February 25.

ROMANTIC NEWS was told in Charleston, West Virginia, this past week when it became known that Florence Buffington Staunton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Webb Staunton of Tulelake, would wed Aubrey Josiah Peck Jr., also of Charleston, on Saturday, March 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kent and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Soran are spending several days in Los Angeles on a combined business and pleasure trip.

Shower
 Marcella Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Murray of Pacific Terrace, will entertain for a group of friends this evening honoring Barbara Dotson. Dessert will be served at 7 o'clock followed by games and a shower for Barbara.

League Meet

Mrs. Victor O'Neill has promised to give a talk on the mental health of young people in relation to education at a luncheon meeting of the League of Women Voters next Wednesday, February 26 at 12:30 at the Pelican cafe. She will draw on her experiences as a previous teacher of applied psychology at Klamath Union high school, and will discuss the plight of various types of non-adjusted young people and what can be done to help them.

Mrs. O'Neill's deep understanding of young people, her intense interest in mental health for them, and her own inimitable manner of presenting a subject offer a very fine and thought-provoking occasion.

Members of the league and all interested women of the city are
