LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 28 (AP)—A declaration by Andrei A. Gromyko on Soviet Russia's position on the bitterly-fought atomic energy control problem was postponed today when the United Nations security council cancelled its meeting set for 3 p. m. EST.

The Soviet delegate said yesterday he expected to make a "few remarks" today on the United States plan to return the atomic question to the United Nations atomic energy commission.

Red Request

However, an informed source indicated this morning the meeting today was called off at the request of Gromyko, who was said to have advised President Bernard Van Langenhove, of Belgium, he would like more time.

United Nations observers pointed out that Gromyko apparently had not obtained final instructions from Moscow.

The Soviet delegate blocked final action by the council on the United States proposal last Tuesday. The date of the next meeting is up to Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, of Brazil, who will become chairman tomorrow.

NSI Insurance Liberalized

President Truman has signed legislation further liberalizing the national service life insurance act for some 10,000,000 World War II veterans—80,000 or more in Oregon—who have permitted their term policies to lapse, the Veterans Administration announced today.

The new law gives the VA authority to determine conditions of reinstatement by administrative regulation. General Omar N. Bradley, administrator of veterans affairs, immediately announced that any NSLI term policy which has lapsed may be reinstated by payment of two months' premiums, with a signed statement that the holder's health is as good as at the time of lapse.

This liberal reinstatement provision will remain in effect until August 1, 1947, and extends an earlier deadline of February 1.

Vet Earning Reports Due

Nearly 4700 Oregon veterans who are in training under the GI bill will be required to send in four-month earnings reports by March 5, to assure continued subsistence payments from the Veterans Administration, Zeno H. Dent, VA training officer for this area, announced today.

Under a new rotation plan, the VA will ask wage reports from one-fourth of all trainees each month, completing the cycle every four months. The first fourth, with surnames starting with letters from A through G, are receiving wage report forms enclosed with their February subsistence checks, Dent stated.

Western Pine Production Up

Making Two Paper Rolls From One

This picture proves the old saw about necessity being the mother of invention. The Herald and News, harassed with a paper shortage, found it had too many big rolls and not enough small ones for proper paper conservation. So Gene Denton, pressman, shown at right in the picture, devised a method of cutting the roll in two. He rigged a razor blade in a position to slit the paper as it was unwound from one roll, and wound up on another. When the winding process was over, Gene had two small rolls. Small rolls are used to make one-page inserts in the paper. Razor blade is seen on crossbar at center.

Fort Klamath Store Holds Open House On Reopening

By MYRTLE WIMER
FORT KLAMATH, Feb. 27—Culminating two weeks' activity by a crew of workmen engaged in remodeling, redecorating and re-arranging, on Saturday, February 22, Washington's birthday, Charles J. Brisco held open house for the public for the opening of his greatly improved business establishment here. All through the day and evening, Brisco was genial host to a steady stream of friends and patrons who called and were treated to free coffee and doughnuts, with Dixie cups and pop for the children. For the opening, the rooms were decorated with vases of beautiful cut flowers brought especially from Klamath Falls for the occasion.

Brisco's business in Fort Klamath includes a restaurant, tavern, grocery store and meat market, which heretofore had all been housed in the same building. Following the work of remodeling and re-arranging, the restaurant is now separate, with the tavern adjoining in the same building, and the grocery store in the former location where a grocery store and meat market was operated for many years, first by the firm of Castel and Utter, later upon the latter's death by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred B. Castel Sr., who subsequently sold their business property to Brisco.

Brisco has been in business in Fort Klamath for the past 13 years, starting out first with a restaurant and later adding the tavern, grocery and meat market. On August 3 of this year, he will observe his 65th birthday, and despite his years is alert and active, as is shown by the ability displayed in managing his business alone, with the sole help of his daughter, Mrs. Marvin Roeder, who operates the grocery and meat market with the assistance of one clerk, Mrs. Buster Knox.

It has been several years since local people have been treated to Brisco's well-known hospitality. Before the war he was noted for his unselfish, public-spirited activities, including several benefit affairs given for various different causes. He is a well-known and familiar figure to many Klamath county residents, as well as local people, who all know well his open-handed generosity.

Gratified and pleased by the fine response to the opening of his business to the public, Brisco this week expressed his appreciation to his many friends who called and helped make the day a success. In return, the people of Fort Klamath enjoyed the gesture of hospitality reminiscent of former days.

Florida's Famous "Gold Coast" Is Thing Of Past

By HAL BOYLE
PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28 (AP)—The gilded age is slowly dying in Palm Beach, for half a century the gold coast of the American rich.

But the old guard is fighting stubbornly to keep tightly exclusive this last stronghold of entrenched wealth.

"The horror hanging over us here is the danger of becoming another Miami Beach," sighed one longtime resident.

To staid dwellers in this winter Shangri-la of fortune's favorites Miami Beach is just a raucous County Island for the nouvelles riches—people who have only had money for one generation.

The difference between the two Florida resorts is that in Miami Beach people slap each other out of the way with hundred dollar bills whereas in Palm Beach they flick dust specks off their waistcoats—pronounced "Wes-Cuts"—with $10,000 banque cheques. Or they did before the war.

Two little devices called the income tax and the inheritance tax have changed the situation so that, paradoxically, a well-to-do socialite can still afford Palm Beach while many really rich can't—at least not at their old standard.

Smart comfortably wealthy residents are fitting themselves to the changing pattern of American life by building exquisite smaller houses costing $40,000 to $100,000 and relatively inexpensive to maintain. These make up the "cottage colony."

Glorified Barns

But many of the old guard ultra-rich are still saddled with the $2,000,000 to $3,500,000 glorified Spanish barns popular in Florida's first heyday. High income taxes and falling interest rates on capital have made the upkeep on these ailing architectural elephants too heavy a drain for even a Palm Beacher's inflated income.

"You can't even give away those old Spanish homes," one lady said frankly.

As a matter of fact the late Col. Edward R. Bradley, a founder of Palm Beach, left his estate as a gift to the city, if it would undertake to keep it up. The $2,000,000 mansion of the late Mrs. Eva Stotesbury, regal social leader of the lush nineteen-twenties, was put on the market at $500,000 furnished or $350,000 unfurnished.

Presumably veterans were given preference, but there were no takers, and the furniture is now being raffled off separately. Mrs. James P. Donahue sold her baronial dwelling last spring. It is being broken up into five

Senate Vetoes Clapp For Job

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28 (AP)—The senate public works committee voted 7 to 5 today to reject the nomination of Gordon Clapp as director of the Tennessee Valley authority.

Chairman Revercomb (R-W. Va.) announced the committee's action but declined to say how individual members voted in the closed meeting.

Revercomb said, however, that he voted for the confirmation of Clapp, now general manager of the authority.

Clapp was named to succeed David E. Lilienthal, who has been nominated for chairmanship of the atomic energy commission. The nomination was opposed in prolonged hearings by Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) on ground that Clapp permitted communistic activities among TVA employes.

Clapp denied any connection whatever with the communist party or any sympathies with its principles.
