JUST to prove that some garments contributed to relief clothing drives do get to worthy recipients—despite the unfortunate incident of Mrs. Eve Benson's tan coat—we have today a pleasing little story from Yang P'AI Yuan of Senyang, Hansi province, China.

COURTROOM observers say that District Attorney Clarence Humble made an outstanding presentation of the state's successful arguments this week on a defense motion to quash the indictment of Policeman Vern Wagner.

PORTLAND Dick Neuberger in the Saturday Evening Post on the city of Portland—one of a Post series on American cities—has been received with mixed feelings in the Oregon metropolis.

The World Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

FORMER British Prime Minister Winston Churchill declares gloomily that the feeding Moslems and Hindus of India are preparing for civil war when England withdraws her troops not later than June, 1948, in accordance with the recent promise of the socialist government.

Churchill made this assertion in the house of commons during debate in which he and his conservative followers attacked the program. The past-master of colorful language termed the withdrawal "operation scuttle," and then produced this word picture with sweeping strokes:

"It is with deep grief that I have watched the clattering down of the British Empire with all its glories and all the service it has rendered mankind."

Attlee Backed
THE big socialist majority, however, stood behind Prime Minister Attlee's pledge. Sir Stafford Cripps, who has played an important role in the Indian negotiations, told commons that the only alternative to withdrawal would be to strengthen British controls and reinforce British troops.

The danger of civil war in India will always exist until the warring Moslems and Hindus bury the politico-religious hatchet. As a matter of fact the past few months have seen thousands slain and much property damage in communal fighting.

It's true that British troops have quelled many bloody outbursts in India. But supposing the situation as a whole should boil over, what have we? The Indian peninsula is about the size of all Europe, excluding Russia.

Fireworks
MOST of the fireworks are in so-called British India, which is distinct from the native states ruled by the princes. If either the Hindus or the Moslems of British India wanted John Bull to stay in the country, the situation would be far more favorable for him.

Safety Meet Ended Today

The first southern Oregon safety conference was concluded at noon today and was pronounced a success by representatives of the state industrial accident commission.

A feature of the Saturday morning program was a presentation of a typical industrial safety committee meeting. Investigation of hypothetical accidents and a plant inspection report made the session unusually interesting.

Unanimous decision of those present at the morning meeting was that more safety training be held. Representatives of Jackson and Josephine counties suggested that plans be made for such a conference there.

A dinner and broadcast over KFLW were features of the Friday night meeting.

Fort Klamath

FORT KLAMATH, Ore.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods of Fort Klamath are being congratulated on the birth of a baby daughter, their second girl, born on March 2 at the Klamath Valley hospital in Klamath Falls.

The new arrival has been named Marsha Beth, and weighed 5 pounds 12 ounces at birth. Woods is employed on the local patrol of the Oregon state highway department.

On Thursday afternoon, February 27, a group of friends honored Mrs. Woods with a shower, managing to beat the arrival of the stork by a few days. Hostesses for the affair were Mrs. Ray Prowell and Mrs. James Van Wormer, with a few of Mrs. Woods' friends being invited to the Prowell home for the afternoon to surprise Mrs. Woods.

Following the opening of the gifts, those present enjoyed refreshments and a social hour. Present were Mrs. Robert Woods, the honor guest, her mother-in-law, Mrs. T. Woods, Mrs. Weston Engle, Mrs. Ernest Strahan, Mrs. Roger Wright, Mrs. Frank Edwards, Mrs. Raymond Van Wormer and Mrs. Winifred Schroeder, both of Sand Creek, Mrs. Vernon Wimer of Chiloquin, and the hostesses, Mrs. Prowell and Mrs. Van Wormer.

Mrs. Fred Zumbun was a Klamath Falls visitor on Wednesday.

Mrs. James Van Wormer and Mrs. Raymond Van Wormer attended the home extension unit meeting in Klamath Falls on Friday, when the subject was "Grace at the Table."

Mrs. Winifred Gillen was in charge of the meeting, which was attended by women representatives from various parts of the county. The two local women represented the Civic Improvement club of Fort Klamath, and will report at the next home extension unit meeting to be held here this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Briscoe of Klamath Falls visited here Sunday with his father, Charles J. Briscoe of the Crater Lake cafe, and Briscoe's sister, Mrs. Marvin Roeder and family.

Mr. and Mrs. William Zumbun have returned to their ranch here after spending the winter months in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wimer and Mr. and Mrs. Buster Knox went to Grants Pass Wednesday and expect to return in a few days after visiting relatives there.

Mrs. Elmer Zumbun is meeting with fine success in conveying local residents and business places for the annual Red Cross membership drive now under way. A quota of $150 has been set for Fort Klamath this year.

Mrs. Henry Orth has been assisting Mrs. Zumbun in the work.

Mrs. James Aker of Lapine is visiting here for a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aker, and will return Sunday to Lapine.

Augmenting his herd of over 200 fine purebred registered Shorthorn cattle, Loren M. Streeter, well known stockman of Fort Klamath, attended the Oregon Shorthorn Breeders' association livestock show and sale the last week-end in February, and purchased a fine 23-month-old red bull at a price of $875.

Capricorn And Cancer Are Astronomer's Topic Today

By HUGH PRUETT
Astronomer, Extension Division, Oregon Higher Education System
In our grade school geography days, how familiar were the terms "tropics of Cancer and Capricorn." Their locations on our maps were well understood, but why had such queer—even repellent—names been used?

In the original languages, tropic means a turning; Cancer, a crab; and Capricorn, a horned goat. But what "earthly" connection have these parallels of latitude 23 1/2 degrees north and south of the equator with the "turnings" of crabs and horned goats? Well—the connection is not earthly.

The sun's seeming daily westward path across the sky in December is low in the south; and in June, much farther north. This solar track on the longest day of the year actually is 47 degrees farther north (twice 23 1/2) than on the shortest day. As the earth with its tilted pole revolves around the sun, we detect the motion in the sun's apparent sliding eastward a little each day along the background of stars.

We cannot of course see the stars near the sun, but it is known exactly where they are.

The ancient peoples named the various star-groups for animals and heroes. The 12 groups (constellations), among which the sun seemed to move in the course of a year, formed a band entirely around the sky known as the zodiac, or circle of animals. At the time of the astronomer Hipparchus (around 125 B.C.), the sun on the longest day, being 23 1/2 degrees north of the celestial equator, was among the stars of Cancer, the Crab. This meant that at noon on that day the sun would be directly overhead at all places 23 1/2 degrees north of the earth's equator. Accordingly, this parallel took the name tropic of Cancer. This indicated that the sun, then in the constellation of Cancer, was "turning," and from that day until the shortest day would be going farther south. In the same way, the shortest day it was "turning" north in the constellation of Capricorn, 23 1/2 degrees south of the celestial equator, so stood at noon in the zenith along all points on the parallel of latitude 23 1/2 degrees south of the terrestrial equator.

At no place on the earth is the sun overhead at noon at any time of the year excepting in the "tropics," the band extending 23 1/2 degrees on both sides of the equator. Within this band, it is in the zenith twice a year: first going north, then going south.

Due to the movement of the solstices 30 degrees westward during the past 2150 years, the sun is no longer among the stars of Cancer and Capricorn on June 22 and December 22. On these days it is now in Gemini and Sagittarius, so to be correct the tropics should be renamed for these constellations. However, the old names persist.

Deputies To Be Employed

LAKEVIEW, March 8—In a sweeping move to improve the chances of officers in Lake county to enforce laws, the grand jury this week recommended to the county court that it employ a number of salaried deputy sheriffs at various points in the county.

At present, the county is policed by Sheriff Henry Cassidy with one deputy and an expense account of $900. In outlying parts of Lake county, which is nearly 200 miles long and over 100 miles wide, the sheriff has "paper" deputies who serve without paying and, as the grand jury put it, "without serving."

The jury felt that paid deputies would accept the responsibility of the job, and would be on hand to head off many violations which now cause the sheriff to spend much county money in investigations.

George Butler, superintendent at Ivory Pine underwent a major operation at the Good Samaritan hospital in Portland on the last of February. Butler is reported doing satisfactorily but will be in the hospital for several months.
