

Today's Roundup

By MALCOLM EPLEY
AJOURNMENT about April 1 is generally believed the prospect for the Oregon legislature. Senator Marshall Cornett, president of the upper house, has mentioned March 22 as a possible adjournment date, but other observers are not quite so optimistic.

Now working without pay, and having gone through the throes of hard work that precedes the actual passage of bills, the legislators appear to be in a position to produce. But most major issues remain to be decided, and it is going to take two or three more weeks to finish.

One legislator remarked to us that if the 1947 legislature appears to be milling around a lot without getting anywhere, it can be partially attributed to the fact that this legislature is too one-sided in its general composition. He said that there is a lack of "opposition" to majority sentiment on important issues, with the result that the majority is hesitant about taking action that might prove unjust or unfair.

Junior Chamber Award

AN outstanding event in Klamath county in 1946 was the Centennial celebration, and a major contribution was made to that enterprise by Bob Walker of Merrill, who spark-plugged participation in the Centennial parade. That was no doubt a principal factor in the selection of Mr. Walker as outstanding young man in civic work in 1946 by the Klamath Junior chamber of commerce.

Mr. Walker earned the distinction by many energetic activities in behalf of his community and the Klamath basin, the Centennial effort being just one. The award is given annually to a man 35 years of age or under, as an encouragement to younger citizens to contribute to community progress.

Evans Brothers

WITHIN a few weeks of each other, M. P. and Syd Evans, brothers long active in the business life of Klamath Falls, passed from the local scene. Syd Evans died in the disastrous Evans apartment house fire and his brother, ill at the time of the fire, passed away last weekend in an Ashland hospital.

News Behind The News

By PAUL MALLON
WASHINGTON, March 10—A classic inside report on Sweden has come into my hands. It concerns the developing, covered-over economic perils in the little nation of 6 million which exists by its wits at the very tip of the cat's whisker, constantly escaping from being devoured.

We may be 'way behind the times, or maybe we're just slow catching on, but we fail to quite get the significance of the "Norah Prentiss" gags which are currently going the rounds of the radio-come circuit. It's probably a moving picture build-up much like the Mildred Pierce campaign several seasons ago.

ence," says this private analysis, "but can we elude the pressure pursuers now among us? A cabinet minister's wife said in a speech recently to an audience of university students: 'We have succeeded practically in wiping out the moneyed upper class, but a new danger must be met in a new upper class, the intellectually gifted. The norm must be set on the level of the least gifted, or we will have a new and more subtle rule of the few.'"

"Here is advocated the triumph of ignorance, the supremacy of inadequacy, revolutionary conquest by the least capable. I am glad to say she was booed by the students, but she might not have been booed if she had addressed a less educated group. She claims to be an educational expert who has gained most of her ideas in America, although her ideas bear a stamp of nationally easily discernible and not associated, as far as my experience can fathom, in any connection with any nations on the American continents.

People Crushed

THE people who have worked and taken chances to get ahead are to be squashed. There never can be one standard of living for everyone without it being the downfall of everyone. And when that is accomplished, no one will be happy.

"The younger generation almost unanimously wishes to get out of the country, which has become so socialistic it is practically living under a dictatorship. There is no chance for personal initiative any longer in this nation which has been considered as something of a model around the world in the past. Everything is so controlled that it saps ambition. And the new taxes are impoverishing private initiative.

Taxes Going Up

MY son's income is 30,000 kroner a year which would have been excellent 10 years ago. A lawyer advised us that under the tax system starting this year, we shall have to pay nearly half or 14,000 kroner in taxes. Our rentals with heating, go to about 3000. Our other son living in Stockholm costs us about 5000. Light, telephone and gas runs about 400, and I must reckon 100 kr. per person per month for food.

Russia does not need an army to conquer Sweden. All she needs is a few more Swedes like the commerce minister who will drain from the country the economic profits of the war to send to Russia and simultaneously sap and sack the country by taxation and denials of opportunity for advancement.

This desk received a notice the other day from the Boy Scout office concerning a rally at Merrill that sounds like more fun than we've had in years. It seems the kids are going to indulge in something called "Save My Child." All that's needed for this is a bunch of rope and a gunny sack (sounds like an old-fashioned Chicago gang-ride). The idea is that someone's "child" is going down for the third time, in "water" about 25 feet from the "shore." The rescuers join ropes with sheet anchors, then tie a bowline in the rope at the end. The bowline goes over the shoulder of the "lifeguard" who "swims" to the "child." Both are then dragged

SIDE GLANCES

"She's coming home, Ma—says she could make good in the movies all right, but it's impossible to find a place to live in Hollywood!"

Bogus Money Game Used

The old bogus money game of peeling a bill of larger denomination and pasting one half of the currency on the back of a $1 bill, paid off Sunday in two instances when a young woman with a close-cropped hair passed two of the bills within a few hours in Klamath Falls grocery stores.

Noel said the woman did not seem suspicious and was a stranger to him. She appeared to be in her late 20's, was about 5 feet tall and weighed around 115 pounds, had brown hair, was of small build and wore a cloth topcoat.

At 7:10 p. m. Sunday the Oregon Food store at 2410 S. 6th, advised state police that one of the clerks, Robert Nelson, 3232 Hilyard, had cashed a $10 bill for a woman who purchased two packages of cigarettes and got back $9.72 in change. As in the case of the $20 bill, the $10 was backed by a $1 piece of currency.

The clerk described the woman as about 38 with short, dark hair, cropped close at the back, of small build and wearing a long cloth coat of a yellow shade. Nelson said he would recognize the woman if he saw her although she had not been in the store previously to his knowledge. The woman left the store and stepped into a yellow pickup, thought to be a Ford, and that apparently the driver was behind the wheel as the machine left immediately. Nelson told police that he noticed the discrepancy in the bill before the car left but could not stop the machine.

on to explain that this was an educational exhibit. Quite frankly, we have pondered the announcement since and our curiosity is aroused. What is the charming girl doing in the iron lung outside of being exhibited? Will viewing her in her iron lung really add to our education and understanding? Does she stay in the iron lung all the time? Is she really charming? If she is charming, and she does get out of the iron lung occasionally, couldn't we learn just as much from her seated at a quiet corner table somewhere? We're just curious, naturally.

Found Dead
Dead Inside—Down inside you is a dead man and your throat sends out the putrid stench of the dead. You would not want any man to say this of you, but so you are to God as he looks down into your heart.—Bible. Dead as you are to him and separated from him forever by your sins, yet he offers to lift you up into life with Himself. This tells it—For God so loved you that he gave his only-born Son, that if you believe on Him, you should not perish, but have eternal life.—Bible. And said Jesus—You must be born again. Born out of death into life. Born of God who becomes your Heavenly Father.

Born Again—Receive Christ into your heart as Lord and Saviour. Stand on it that His blood cleanses from all sin. Make Christ your own. Right then and there, God gives you new birth into eternal life. Feelings or no feelings, you are born again—born of God—born from above. God said it. You believe it and that settles it. Grow Up—Prove the new life: Come sunny days or storm—good times or evil—gain or loss—in it all look utterly to Christ to see you through. He Saves—Keeps—Satisfies.
