Today's Roundup

THE name "Broadway" proposed for South Sixth street is not worthy of the originality and the genius of such guys as Cap Collier and George Conner.

Testifying to provincialism, a lot of small towns and cities have aped the metropolitans by re-designating certain streets by big town names—especially Broadway. Undistinctive, overworked, over-copied Broadway. We are certain that our friends on South Sixth can do better than that if they must re-name their booming, widened, important thoroughfare.

This country abounds in history, legend, and distinctive geographic nomenclature. Do we need to borrow from New York City and its imitators to get a moniker for one of our fine streets? Of course not.

We hope the enthusiastic South Sixth streeters reconsider, and come up with a name that means something in the Klamath country.

Balloon Sites Found THE other day, a group of American aviators, feeding around in rough country on the remote Otsu peninsula of Japan, came upon the immense layout from which the Japanese loosed their fantastic and futile balloon bomb barrage at the United States.

This elaborate setup of concrete platforms, hydrogen plants and pipelines indicated how much store the Japs put into their balloon project, and how much cash they invested in that ingenious scheme to use the prevailing winds to wait a deadly weapon in the direction of their enemy. Unofficial estimates are that $200,000,000 was sunk in the program.

It is well known to all that the sum total of damage was the tragic deaths of five children and a woman near Bly in our area. There were many other narrow misses—people who weren't aware of their danger did quite a little monkeying around with the lethal balloon mechanisms. But luck was generally with us, and not the Japs.

Despite the way it turned out, the balloon bombing was really a despicable phase of inhuman warfare. The bombs were loosed with no idea that they would strike legitimate military targets. It was a blind assault on an entire country, with the chances great that the main injury would be done to non-combatant civilians, just as it turned out.

Thoughtfulness MRS. BESSIE BLAY, well known Northern Klamath county woman, died at Bend this week of cancer. One of her last wishes was intended to do what she could to help prevent this terrible disease from taking the lives of others.

For Mrs. Blay asked that friends refrain from sending flowers to her funeral. Instead, she said, she hoped they would give to the fund of the American Cancer Society, to be used in the great campaign now getting under way to combat the cancer scourge.

Cancer's toll in the Klamath country, as in the nation, is tragically large. Mrs. Blay's death added to those unhappy statistics, but her thoughtfulness for others adds her bit to the great effort now being made to stop cancer.

Klamath people, who would respond to the implied appeal in Mrs. Blay's wish, may send their contributions to this column. We will see to it that they get to the American Cancer Society.

Readers of this column, who were mystified by the use of the word "conservation" in yesterday's piece on school budgets, are hereby informed that the word should have been "conservatism." It was a typo error that slipped by.

STATIC By KELLY ROBERTS Clyde Beatty liked the announcement work on his interview when the circus was in town last Saturday so well that he wired to Charlie McFarlan to transcribe the opening and closing of the program for use in other towns. The platters begin with a lotta circus fanfare, then switch into a loud lion's roar with an introduction following. The closing goes about the same.

Here's a letter we received in answer to a little item in the other day about there being nothing to do on Saturdays: "No wonder you can't find anything to do Saturday nights, if you only know of one dance. Of course I take it you are referring to the dance at the armory, but for your information there is a nice clean public dance very Saturday night at the KC hall and it is a very good dance, too. There is no litterbugging allowed there, so maybe that is why you don't consider it a dance.

"If you will take the trouble to look, you will see a good sized sign at the front of the place about 10:30 Saturday evenings. It is partly an old time dance, but there are a lot of nice young kids there, too." Signed: A Regular Attendant.
