

Truman Asks Congress For Health Plan

WASHINGTON, May 19 (AP)—President Truman asked congress today to give "immediate attention" to enactment of a federal health and disability insurance program.

In a special message to the legislators Mr. Truman declared such legislation is "crucial to our national welfare."

Under the type of program he asks, a worker unable to work because of injury or illness would receive government payments.

Mr. Truman told congress:

"Of the four basic risks to the security of working people and their families—unemployment, old age, death and sickness—we have provided some insurance protection against all three.

"Protection against the fourth—sickness—is the major missing element in our national social insurance program."

1. Adequate public health services, including an expanded maternal and child health program.
2. Funds for research and medical education.
3. More hospitals and doctors, especially in sparsely-settled areas.

Homesteaders Go On Air

The story of one of the new homesteading couples in the Tulelake basin will be told over station KPO, San Francisco, at 6:15 to 6:45 on Thursday, May 22.

Harry Schacht, agricultural director for KPO, came to Tulelake with the station's mobile equipment to interview Paul and Mabel Rogers who are homesteading one of the tracts granted by the bureau of reclamation to World War II veterans last December. Clark Fensler, Tulelake rancher who himself obtained a homestead in 1927 as a veteran of the first World War, still also is heard on the program.

M. V. Maxwell, farm advisor representing the agricultural extension service in Siskiyou county, arranged the interview.

Harry Schacht, a veterinarian of the European invasion with the late General Patton's 3rd army, received 113 acres in the drawing last December. He and his wife are now living in the Japanese relocation camp near Tulelake while preparing to move on their homestead.

Oil-Wealthy Osage Indians Gather For Centennial Day

By O-LAH-KAH-WAH-GREH-SEH, Alias HAL BOYLE

ST. PAUL, Kas., May 19 (AP)—Listen, palefaces to a tale of the return of the native, still wearing ritual dance feathers but carrying a hip pocket full of oil royalties.

One hundred years ago Jesuit missionaries established a mission among the Osage Indians here and they began the first permanent white settlement in Kansas.

That was in 1847. By 1865 most of the tribe had become Christians. So when soil hungry white settlers began pressing to gain the vast Osage lands, the Indians sold them peacefully to the U. S. government without hardly lifting a scalp.

They got $1.50 an acre for their lost happy hunting grounds.

Forced to migrate, the 4500 tribe members marched chiefly on foot 125 miles to the area around present day Pawnee, Oklahoma. There they bought 1,500,000 acres from the Cherokee nation. It was supposed to be good hunting land, but the shrewd Cherokees thought they knew better. They were glad to get rid of it at fifty cents an acre to their homeless redskin cousins. A plague cut the Osage tribe in half. But by one of the lucky blunders of history the worthless rockpile sold them by the Cherokees turned out to be some of the richest oil land in the country. For some years tribe members averaged $12,000 to $13,000 annually.

Centennial Anniversary
Last week this village of 800 held a four-day celebration to mark the centennial anniversary of the founding of the Jesuit mission and 100 years of Kansas growth and progress.

Distinguished visitors came from all over America. The Osages, who had helped support the mission school for decades with their sons and dollars, were invited to send a delegation.

Two dozen came. They didn't walk back from Oklahoma. They rode in their own big cars or registered seats on the Katy railroad. They didn't sleep under skin tents. They put up in good hotels at nearby Parsons.

It was a proud homecoming for 85-year-old Chief Lookout, the tribe's leader. As a small boy he had hooped it all the way to Pawnee with the other tribesmen. Later he had returned for a year to study at the mission.

Although he knows English well, Chief Lookout spoke to the centennial gathering in his own tongue, a simple language that has but 400 words.

"This is a birthday celebration to me, too," he said significantly. "The Osages have come here to show their appreciation of the training and education given our children by the Jesuit fathers."

Because of the fatigue of age, the old chief remained only one day, but before returning to his Oklahoma home he quipped, "Our royalties are declining. If you ever discover oil here, I'll be glad to come."

Native Dances
But his followers stayed and entertained the paleface audience with some native Indian dances. Some of the bucks were so short winded from fat living they could hardly go through the steps.

They took several dignitaries into the tribe. They had one blanket left, so Assistant Chief Franklin Shaw wrapped it around me and

MILL DESTROYED

PRESCOTT, May 19 (AP)—A landmark lumber mill property here and half the nearby Clark and W. Columbia river docks were destroyed by fire late Saturday.

Firemen reported the abandoned mill was leveled and thousands of feet of lumber stacked near the docks were destroyed.

Mount On Fire

ALL AFLAME—Mt. Sinal was all ablaze with fire, smoke, lightning, the crash of thunder and earthquake. Then came God down to give his tribesmen, Israel, the ten commandments. These they accepted and great blessings were to follow.

—Thou shalt not kill, steal, lie, commit adultery, profane God's name, etc. The test was on for 1500 years but no man lived up to it.

HE MADE GOOD — Then God sent his only-born Son, our Lord. Born of a woman, born under the law. He lived to the glory of God all His days and at the end, He died for us. He kept the law, took our sins and died to set us free.

WE UNBORN TEST — Shall we answer to God's love and receive Christ into our heart as our own Saviour? Do you stand saved by Christ's death for your sins? This is the sole test today. Open your heart, receive Christ, stand cleared and God gives you new life with himself for now and forever.

—When I was in Hi School I was not a Christian. One evening, Mother and I were sewing on a dress and she told me about the Lord Jesus. I saw myself a sinner in need of a Saviour and right there I invited Him to come into my heart. That changed the whole course of my life.—A Hi Grad.

Eugene Site Of Survey

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, May 19 (Special)—A study of "the fastest changing urban population in the state of Oregon" has been made by Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology and geography department here, in his "The Geography of Eugene," soon to be published.

Believed to be the first of its kind written about any city in Oregon, the study includes sections on the geological foundation, climate, general description and history, a detailed analysis, natural resources of the area, economic and industrial life, distinctive features in the cultural life of the city, and the expansion and future prospects.

The study was undertaken by D. Smith to give a geographical appraisal of the city because of the unique geographical situation and site on the banks of the Willamette river, where it has been menaced for years by serious floods.

Carried out with the collaboration of City Planning Consultant, Howard M. Bufford, the appendices include the bibliography of published material, statistics, and city organization.
