MAKING SWEET MUSIC are the handsome youngsters on this page. Their musical talent may be the pride of their parents and their own chagrin, but the labored little melodies will some day give way to the classics.

Little Nancy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Newell of Auburn street, and across the page from her is Ted Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Evans of 2161 Cary street.

The little Hunt sisters are daughters of Mrs. Patricia Hunt of 189 East Main street. Studying the violin is Florence Lampropulos, whose mother and father are Mr. and Mrs. James Lampropulos of East Main.

The smiling little Porter girls live with their mother and daddy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Porter, at 1966 Huron street, and young Thad Sprague is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Bayd F. Sprague of Logan street.

One More Thought On Longer Skirts

This department can't help adding one small thought to all the rumpus over longer skirts. As a mere casual observer, we think the brightest idea being ballyhooed to sell the American woman on the idea is the don't-be-afraid-to-try-new-things-or-you'll-find-yourself-in-a-rut school of thought. The fashion section of nearly every woman's magazine besetges its readers with pretty phrases which amount to "don't be an old stick-in-the-mud. Fear of trying something new is the first sign of A-G-E!" We personally think they're using the scare approach.

More on wardrobes . . . As we were trying on hats the other day ("hats" being a red straw sailor with a black and white bow nestled in what could easily pass for a rock garden) anyway, as we plopped this milliner's dream on our locks we were stricken with a terrifying thought. Suppose one of those fancy photographic gadgets that snap pictures without the victim knowing it were concealed behind that mirror! Later we found that a national magazine had read our mind with a pictorial feature of women trying on bonnets, taken with one of the "gadgets" we spoke of. All very fascinating, but leaving no idle flattery to turl the head of the tryer-onner.

A group of Klamath Union high school students took over The Herald and News Thursday lending services to almost every department of the paper. We had assistance with the society section from Dorothy Collier, who, after spending one hectic day in the news room, still had sufficient stamina to say she'd like to come back again.

Recital time, the agony of budding musicians and the pride of parents, is here again. And speaking of music, we didn't realize piano had captivated the young fry so completely until working on today's society page.

We can't help telling this one . . . A class of eighth graders was conducted through The Herald and News plant one day this week, and when it came time to look over radio station KFLW, the girls were far more interested in seeing one of the good looking young announcers than hearing instructive lectures on wave frequencies. When the announcer in question walked through the room, he passed through a crowd of girls grouped in the doorway. We overheard this breathless comment from one of them: "Oh-h-h-h-h-h, he SPOKE to me! He asked me if I'd please move!"

Sunday Event

An event of Sunday, May 25, at Oregon City, will be the wedding of Helen Lucile Gaston to George Brown of Portland. Both are former residents of Klamath Falls. Miss Gaston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gaston of Boise, Ida.

Vacationers

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Miller of 1941 Manzanita street are among Klamath folk who are vacation-bound these days. The Millers left several days ago for San Francisco where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Erlanson who have since returned to their home here. From the bay area they went on into Southern California and present plans call for a brief stay in Mexico. They'll be gone about two weeks.

More travelers are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Serruys of 1935 Manzanita, who are in Olympia, Wash., visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Guy Haydon. They'll be gone about 10 days.

Pretty Tea Honors KUHS Graduates

A delightful affair this afternoon was the formal tea given for the pleasure of graduating senior girls of Klamath Union high school by the Klamath Falls branch of the American Association of University Women.

Attractive arrangements of spring blooms added a lovely touch to the Laurence Shaw home on Huron street, scene of the party. The decorative color motif in green and white, senior class colors, was carried out at the tea table with white carnations forming the centerpiece.

Each of the graduates received a white carnation tied in green ribbons and a favor.

Hours were from 3 to 5 o'clock. Pouring were the incoming AAUW officers, Mrs. O. K. Puckett, president; Mrs. John Kerns, vice president; Mrs. A. L. Brandt, secretary, and Mrs. Willard Duncan, treasurer.

Retiring officers and the hostess received, Mrs. Aaron Hoffman, president; Mrs. John O'Connor, vice president; Miss Eva Burkhalter, treasurer and Mrs. Shaw, hostess.

The senior tea is an eagerly anticipated annual event given by the AAUW in honor of the young women graduates of the school and is one of the highlights of the closing weeks of their high school days.

Installation of officers of Catholic Daughters of America has been postponed until the meeting on Monday, June 2.
