Today's Roundup

THE big news today is rain. Perhaps we should give the credit to a feminine acquaintance of ours. She scheduled a tea at her home for today, planning to stage most of the festivities out-of-doors.

Viewing The Future

MEDFORD looks good. There's a great deal of building activity in our neighboring community on the west, including many business structures. People over there take seriously the theory that there is going to be a vast movement to the West, and they think Southern Oregon is going to get a generous share of the population increase.

News Behind The News

WASHINGTON, May 27—You may have noticed in the news that the steam went out of the George-Byrd-democratic move to put off the republican tax reduction. The enthusiasm behind delay rather mysteriously eased down. Even Senator

The World Today

Dowager Queen Mary's eightieth birthday party yesterday in Buckingham palace was marked by a circumstance which has its place in a tragic chapter of England's history. Her eldest and greatly beloved son Edward—now Duke of Windsor but once king-emperor—wasn't among the more than thirty members of the royal family who drank her health, although he was in London. He had visited his mother prior to the anniversary luncheon, and then had gone back to his duchess, the former Mrs. Simpson of Bath, whose name was with him in the British capital but never has been received by the royal family since Edward abdicated over ten years ago so that he might marry "the woman I love."

George, author of the proposed delay, conceded to a reporter in advance of the vote that he expected to be defeated today. This may seem strange to you because the democrats had their best issue of the season on this matter. For the first time they had the democratic party together in one fold, the Georges and Byrds aligned with Mr. Truman and his treasury secretary. They could not muster that treasury unanimity even on the tax reduction proposal itself. Furthermore the democrats had a good argument. They wanted delay until they could see how much the republicans cut the Truman budget, claiming there should be no tax reduction until the figures on economies show justification.

The inside explanation of how the steam went down I hear is this: Mr. Snyder and the treasury crowd got up some advance figures on expectations of June 15 income tax receipts. They thought such a survey would show a decline and put the republicans in a deeper hole.

Justify Veto THEY reasoned that if they, the democrats, could keep the tax reduction bill away from the White House until the second quarter tax receipts were announced, Mr. Truman could justify a veto. Unfortunately their survey showed the opposite. The treasury actuaries are supposed to have found receipts will not only be unexpectedly up, but up beyond their latest budget estimates, thus affording more opportunity than was expected for tax reduction and debt retirement.

Certain top republicans in congress found out about these figures and changed their strategy. It seems Messrs. Knudsen and Tabor, the house republican fiscal directors, decided not to attempt to go through with their plan to hold the tax bill in conference after it passes the senate. You read of their plan in this spot last week. They thought that if they held the bill in conference after it passes the senate until the fiscal year closes June 30, the treasury figures would show full justification for their reduction bill, even though they had been unable to economize as much as they expected. Senator Taft was supposed to be willing. But treasury estimators can get a fairly trustworthy line on such figures in advance. They know the state of business and individuals and can reckon at this late date (only about three weeks in advance of the second quarter payments and five weeks before the end of the fiscal year) fairly thoroughly as to what to expect.

Changed Position WHEN the republicans heard about these figures as I say, they changed position. Taft decided to press for immediate action despite his loss of Byrd and George and the so-called conservative democrats. They could see there was no need to wait. They might just as well push the thing right up to Mr. Truman any old time at their convenience. At least this is the story as I get it, and it fully explains the shenanigans you see in the news. About a veto, the republicans profess not to know. They apparently have no worthwhile information. But they do feel it will be more difficult for Mr. Truman to veto in the light of this new forthcoming statistical situation of the treasury. Most republican leaders say privately they hope he does veto because they will fail of the necessary two-thirds majority in the senate only by a small margin, if they do fail, and then, in that case Mr. Truman and a few democratic senators will have to take the public responsibility for blocking tax reduction—which would not aid their popularity with taxpayers. My information all in all indicates Mr. Truman will sign the tax reduction and veto the labor union reform bill, but it is not direct or conclusive.

Well Cave-In Kills Man

DUNSMUIR, May 27—Buried under 14 feet of earth, the body of Kenneth Lensing, proprietor of Abrams lake resort near here, was removed by the Mt. Shasta rescue squad at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon following an hour and a half of frantic digging to free the victim. Lensing was digging a well on the property when a wall caved in. The rescue squad was called at 3:30 p.m. but it was not until shortly before 5 o'clock that Lensing's body was reached. Lensing purchased the resort, half way between Mt. Shasta and Dunsmuir, a short time ago and was improving the property. The body is at Mt. Shasta.

New Discus Record Claimed

VISALIA, Calif., May 27 (P)—A 16-year-old high school junior posted his claim Monday to a new world's interscholastic discus record. Bob Mathias, 200-pound, six foot one and one-half inch Tulare student, spun the four pound, six ounce platter 150 feet, eight and three-eighths inches Saturday night as the high point of the San Joaquin valley finals. Mathias' heave—with a discus differing from the intercollegiate variety only in its rubber edging, rather than metal surpassed the 10-year-old standard of Edoen Wilbels, Wolbach, Neb., of 145 feet, nine inches.

Kermit Storli Dies In Wreck

Kermit Oscar Storli, 29-year-old navy veteran, was killed instantly about 6 o'clock Friday night on a Siskiyou county road en route to Merrill when a fire truck he was driving from San Jose, Calif., to Portland, overturned. Storli has two sisters at Merrill, Mrs. Frank Payr and Mrs. Ed Petrasek, both well-known in that vicinity, and young Storli spent one summer on the Payr place six miles east of Merrill. He was recently discharged from the navy with the rank of lieutenant commander. The young man was employed as a salesman with the Nelson Equipment company of Portland. He was driving a new type truck which was to be displayed at a fire chiefs convention in Portland this week and later delivered to the city of Walla Walla, Wash., which had purchased the machine. Storli apparently committed on the roll call, the truck went out of control, crashing into a borrow pit. Storli was thrown clear but the truck came down on his body, partially decapitating him. The accident was reported by Jim Stevenson of Macdoel, formerly of Merrill. Storli had apparently taken a short cut to Merrill from the main highway and was traveling on a Siskiyou county road in order to cut his time for a visit with his sisters. The body was moved to Upton's mortuary in Weed and final rites will be held in Portland.

Defeat of the George motion leaves the bill open to amendments, including a proposal by Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) to postpone any reduction until next January 1. But with their membership publicly committed on the roll call, the republican leaders are confident of beating off this and other amendments.

Padlocked

Dirty, weeping and hungry, Delores Diaz, 7, was removed by state police from a trash-filled, padlocked chicken coop at Charleston, W. Va., after neighbors heard her cries. State Police Captain R. T. Cummings said the child's mother, Mary Diaz, told him she frequently locked up Delores "to keep her from running away." The child was under care of social workers and her mother and father, Domingo, are in jail, charged with neglecting her.

Convention To Be Held In Klamath

The National Federation of Federal Employees has slated its annual district convention for this Saturday in Klamath Falls, highlighted with a banquet at the Willard hotel in the evening. Initial activity will be a session beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, in the recreation service recreation hall, building 61, at the municipal airport. Giving the invocation will be the Rev. Frederick C. Wassenbach of St. Paul's Episcopal church. Phil Hitchcock, president of the Klamath County chamber of commerce, and Walter H. Fleet, president of local TWA, will give welcoming addresses. Presiding over the business session will be Orville Burbot of Portland, Ore., state president of the union. Oscar Dam, sixth national vice president of Seattle, Wash., will present the main address. The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, with Burbot and Fleet presiding. Henry H. Henrichs, president of the Washington state federation, will speak. The program will include musical selections by Ronald Dimmick, winner of this year's Adlai award, and Athena Lantropoulos, one of the contestants. Al Harvey, recently returned to this country from Nicaragua, will show slides and present a travelogue. Dinner will be followed by cards and dancing. Discontinued during the war, the first postwar convention was held last year in Portland. Representatives from sections throughout the state are expected. Delegates from this area are Al Harvey, Walter Fleet, Robert Evans, W. L. Tingley and Frances Golding. Alternatives are E. L. Stephens, Allan Fletcher and Mark Taylor.

Police Hunt Truck Owner

State police are looking for the owner of a 1943 Chevrolet pick-up truck which was found destroyed by fire sometime Sunday on the McCollum mill grade of the Greensprings highway. Police sent a wrecker to bring in the "remains" now at the Balsiger Motor company. The wrecker driver stated that the truck was found on the left side of the highway, but the presence of a burned spot in the right lane of traffic indicated that the vehicle had burned there and been pushed off the road. Police reported that there were no persons at the scene of the fire, and as yet no one has come forth to claim the wreckage.

Sugar Stamp To Be Validated

WASHINGTON, May 27 (P)—The Agriculture department announced today that a third 1947 sugar rationing stamp good for 10 pounds will be validated "not later" than August 1. It announced also that spare stamp No. 12 in consumer ration books may be used immediately, instead of June 1 as announced two weeks ago. The stamp, good for 10 pounds, was originally intended to become valid July 1. The department said today's action assures household consumers of the full 35 pounds of sugar promised under the sugar control extension act of 1947. It said in a statement that if improvement in sugar supplies continues additional sugar above the 35 pounds will be made available to consumers.

Navy Officer To Assist Here

Lt. John E. Bayus, USN, of Portland, will arrive this week to assist in the navy recruiting office and Vernon Chitwood, recruiter on vacation, will be recalled to duty following the disappearance of Leonard Callier on a Saturday fishing trip at Odell lake. John Martin, naval reserve recruiter, said today that Lt. Bayus is expected in Klamath Falls Tuesday or Wednesday, as soon as he can wind up business in Portland. Efforts are also being made, Martin said, to contact Chitwood who is on leave from the office. Anyone knowing where Chitwood is at the present time is asked to contact the navy office, telephone 3431.

Auto Dealers Hold Meet In Medford

Klamath's automobile dealer fraternity moved en masse to Medford yesterday for an all-day meeting and recreation get-together of the Southern Oregon Automobile Dealers association, of which John Ashley of this city is president. M. O. Anderson, president of the National Automobile Dealers association, was a special guest speaker. He emphasized steady working toward improved employer-employee relations in the automobile retail industry. Discussing the work of the association, he said it is gaining steadily in influence and prestige, and now has 28,000 members. Anderson's home is in Seattle. Ashley, in the opening address of the session, declared that American automobile dealers had saved the public approximately $1 billion by sticking to the manufacturers' lists in prices during the war period. He declared also that the price of automobiles had not gone up commensurate with those in other lines. Ashley said that the Southern Oregon dealers group had been formed to cooperate in the solution of mutual problems, and to further the dissemination of true information about the industry. George Wallace of Portland, vice president of N.A.D.A. for the west, praised the work of Congressman Lowell Stockman and Harris Ellsworth. Catlin Wolford, president of the Oregon State Automobile Dealers association, told of the association program, and Jim Cassell, secretary of the state group, discussed legislative matters. Vernon Moore of Klamath Falls, secretary of the Southern Oregon association, gave a review of the organization's activities. The sessions were held at the Rogue Valley Country club. After the business meeting, the dealers engaged in golf and trap-shooting, and finished their gathering with a steak dinner at the country club last night. Representatives of local banking institutions and The Herald and News accompanied the Klamath group to Medford.

Italian Boy Adopted

Through the Foster Parents Plan for War Children, Helen McKettrick of route 3, box 1211, has adopted little Antonio Laconi, an eight-year-old Italian boy. Under the plan, a foster parent contributes $10 a month for support of a worthy child in a war-torn European country. At the present time the Foster Parents Plan is operating 56 children's projects in Holland, France, Belgium, Italy, Malta, England and Czechoslovakia, and is caring for youngsters of 14 different nationalities. His foster parent has received a brief history and photograph of little Antonio, who lives in Cagliari on the Italian island of Sardinia. The plan reports that he lives with his father and mother and three brothers and sisters. His father, a farm laborer, can barely make enough money to live, and the family is almost destitute. Although Antonio is far behind in schooling, he has proved eager to learn and will soon be writing letters to his foster mother. An international committee composed of the Earl of Listowel, Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, Mrs. Harry S. Truman, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Representative Clare Booth Luce, Helen Hayes and Mrs. Stephen S. Wise are sponsoring the work of the plan. American headquarters is at 55 W. 42nd street, New York 18, N. Y., and additional information may be secured through that office.
