

Nagel Record Held Clean

William Henry Nagel, the self-styled preacher from Portland who is named in a contributing to the delinquency of a minor indictment here, does not have any previous record, either with state officers or the FBI, according to reports received by the sheriff's office.

When Nagel was arrested here on May 11 for allegedly exposing himself to a 10-year-old girl, he was fingerprinted at the county jail and his print classification sent to the federal bureau of investigation.

The report back said that the man has a clean record. A previous man has been received from state police headquarters.

Nagel is free on $2500 cash bail and is due in court sometime in June. Circuit Judge Orval J. Millard of Grants Pass has been assigned to the case, but has not set a definite date for arraignment.

In a statement to the district attorney made by Nagel shortly after he was arrested he said that he had no previous record and invited officers to check up on him. They did.
