

Petition Asks End Of Reservation

Two hundred twenty-two non-Indian residents of the Klamath Indian reservation have signed a petition favoring the "emancipation" of the Klamath Indians.

Mrs. Mable Murphy, a member of the Klamath tribe who circulated the statement for signature, said it has been forwarded to Wade Crawford, tribal representative in Washington, for presentation to the proper authorities there.

She said that the statement supports the principle of 1922, which provides for the liquidation of the Klamath reservation and confers full citizenship upon the Indians. 1922 has not yet been acted upon in congress.

The statement was signed by business people, professional people, farmers and laborers. It reads as follows:

"We, the undersigned citizens of Klamath county, Oregon, who live on the Klamath Indian reservation, know the Indians intimately and feel we understand their problems. We firmly believe that the time has come for a complete emancipation of the Indians living on the Klamath Indian reservation and feel as citizens of the United States they will be a credit to our country."

New Building Pushed

Final steel riveting work was under way today on the addition to the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company building at Eighth and Pine streets. Preparations are under way for pouring of the walls of the new structure.

Manager Charles Beavey said that the telephone company has several cable crews and one heavy construction crew now at work in the community on an overall improvement program.

The telephone company sustained only minor troubles during the recent rains. There were a few isolated instances of cable trouble.

Small Boy On Long Trip With Dead Father's Body

SEATTLE, June 10 (AP)—Looking quite small for his eight years and very much alone, soberfaced little George F. Alexander Jr., sat in a daycoach of the Northern Pacific's No. 4 train today with a big suitcase beside him.

In a coffin in the baggage car was the body of his father, George F. Alexander Sr., 33-year-old baggage clerk. He died in their auto cabin court Friday of a heart attack, leaving the boy without relatives or guardians here.

George was wearing a brand new suit which O. A. Baylor, the camp manager, and Mrs. C. W. Graham, a resident there, bought from money donated by tenants and friends of the third-grader.

He also had some money and a letter written by C. A. Manthe, the station superintendent, which told all about George and his father. It was to be passed from conductor to conductor on the long trip to the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Water Stewart at Amorita, near Cherokee, Okla.

He can't go to his mother, he explained to other passengers in the car.

"She lives in Colorado some place, but my dad and she were divorced," he said.

To his small send-off party, he called out as the train left: "If I don't like it, I'm coming back here. I like everybody here. I don't want to go away."

Soft Fruit Hope Held

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—The only chance of saving the soft-fruit crop of the Pacific Northwest is through relaxation of sugar rationing to permit home canning. Rep. Horan (R-Wash.) said today after conference with the agriculture department.

Soft fruit growers in the region appealed to Horan for government help in disposing of their crops because packers and freezers notified them they would not be in the market for much fruit this year because of large packs made last year, which still is in the warehouses.

Horan said last year's pack was of low grade fruit, put up at high cost, which prevented it moving out of warehouses due to public resistance to the prices.

Horan asked the state agriculture and war departments to purchase last year's pack for foreign relief but was told it could not be done because the government could not afford to spend its relief dollars for such high priced foods.

He then appealed to the agriculture department to make a quick decision on releasing sugar so the crop can be home canned.

New Marshal At Soap Lake

SOAP LAKE, June 11 (AP)—Maggie Walthe, Soap Lake's 275-pound lady mayor and self-appointed town marshal, has decided on a new marshal.

From more than 100 applicants over the country who learned of the job when the colorful Maggie ousted former Marshal James Rigas and donned his badge herself, she picked Arthur T. Rodseth, retired Seattle police patrolman with 10 years experience.

He has been "very well recommended," she said today, and will take over the job on the 15th.

"He'll make the town a good marshal," she said. "He likes the town and he likes the climate."

At Seattle, Rodseth was enthusiastic over the appointment and promised to "try and do a good job."

"The mayor has a wonderful personality and I am sure I can cooperate with her," he said. "She wants Soap Lake's ordinances enforced, and I'll do it."
