

Work Under Way On OVS Remodeling

Carpenters, plumbers and electricians went to work Monday morning on the job of reconverting the Marine Barracks into living quarters for married students attending the Oregon Vocational school, scheduled to open its doors July 15.

Pinniger and Watkins are building contractors, Cascade Electric is handling the electrical side of the remodeling, and Waiters Plumbing company has the plumbing contract.

Work is expected to be finished in mid-July, although contracts do not call for its completion until later in the month, according to James Pinniger.

There will be 40 apartments for married students in three buildings on the base. Two barracks buildings will have 14 apartments in each, and the former dispensary will house 12 apartments.

Apartments will be in three-room units, with kitchen, living-dining room and one bedroom, with the exception of a few which will have two bedrooms. Remodeling work will amount to $70,352. Exteriors of the buildings are also being painted, re-roofed, and given a general going-over.

Single students will live in the BOQ, nurses' quarters, and other buildings which readily adapt themselves to use as dormitories.

UO Men To Aid In Pacific Study

PORTLAND, June 12 (AP)—Dr. H. O. Barnett, University of Oregon associate professor of anthropology, and Allen Murphy, Eugene, graduate student in anthropology, will help survey Pacific island customs this summer.

They will be among 22 American scientific teams investigating Micronesian anthropology on the islands mandated to Japan after World War I. Their findings will be turned

OSF Eyes Endorsements

BEND, June 12 (AP)—The Oregon State Federation of Labor turned today to the controversial problem of endorsing political candidates.

The issue was held over until today's sessions, after several speakers yesterday urged that endorsements be abandoned. They argued that endorsements have little practical effect on voters, and cause inter-union dissension.

Delegates voted support of the campaign to have congress restore cuts in western reclamation, irrigation and power projects. They rejected a proposal to provide $1000 tax exemption on homes and farms. Reduction of welfare allotments was opposed and the delegates criticized the legislature for "niggardly appropriations for this important purpose."

The referendum on the state power bill, passed by the legislature to encourage construction of an Eastern Oregon dam by a private company, was also approved.

GREGG APPOINTED
WASHINGTON, June 12 (AP)—The reappointment of John Price Gregg of Oregon as a member of the tariff commission was approved today by the senate finance committee and sent to the senate.
