Eugene Phone Building Asked
PORTLAND, June 13 (AP)—Construction approval for a $298,000 addition to its present building at Eugene is sought by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

The addition would be two stories, 39 by 100 feet with terra cotta and brick exterior over steel framework. Another application on file with the construction review committee is by the Oregon Farmers Union cooperative for a $20,000 store building at Newberg.

California golden trout grow six times as large in Wyoming as in their native state.

Baby Found In Hallway

Betty Palmer, nurse at St. Vincent's orphanage, Chicago, holds a 6-month-old baby girl that was found in an apartment building hallway near a note which read: "Her mother can't find time to take care of her because she has a boy friend to keep track of." The baby was taken to the orphanage by police after it was discovered by a resident of the building.

Disease Hits Cherry Crop

ASHLAND, Ore., June 13 (AP)—A deadly virus disease is reducing this year's cherry crop to zero and unless it is halted all this area's once-famed cherry trees will be dead, an extension service representative said today.

T. S. Wiley, Ashland mayor, once the largest local cherry grower, said the attack is not new but is reaching a point where extinction of the industry is in sight. He dug out his trees after the disease got a foothold five years ago.

The disease, known locally as buckskin, struck the cherry industry in Napa county, Calif., a few years ago. C. B. Cordy, Southern Oregon extension service agent, reported, adding there is no known means of halting it.

The Ashland area formerly produced 250 tons of cherries annually. This year's crop, Wiley said, will be so small as not to be a factor in commercial trade.

Teachers Get Special Course

SALEM, June 13 (AP)—Forty-three teachers of handicapped children will take a four-week course starting at the state school for the blind here next Monday under the sponsorship of the state department of education and state system of higher education. Walter Snyder, head of the department of education's handicapped children's division and director of the school, said today.

The purpose of the course is to help teachers understand problems of handicapped children and to enable them to remedy such difficulties as speech disorders, poor eye-slight, physical handicaps, and poor hearing. Snyder said the enrollment was limited because of the lack of facilities to teach more than 43, and that there was great demand for the course. Classes will last from 8:15 a. m. to 3 p. m. daily, with several night classes also planned.
