Fire Destroys General Store

PORTLAND, June 16 (AP)—Several firemen were injured early this morning in a spectacular fire that destroyed a large general store at Sylvan and lit up the sky on Portland's west side.

Several explosions — from explosives or gasoline — rocked the building, and a wall collapsed across the highway, temporarily blocking traffic. Electric service was disrupted in the area. Portland, Beaverton, and Multnomah fire departments fought the blaze.

Deafened Now Hear With Tiny Single Unit

Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music and friendly companionship.

Accepted by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association. This device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire, case or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 14, 1450 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. Reed President Opens Meeting

PORTLAND, Ore., June 16 (AP)—Dr. Peter Odegard, president of Reed college, opened the 13th annual Northwest Institute of International Relations last night with a lecture on America's responsibility for world peace.

Dr. Odegard said America cannot "appeal to the people of the world for allegiance and support to the principles of freedom and equality so long as we tolerate racial prejudice and religious bigotry at home."

"One South Carolina lynching can do more damage abroad than our diplomacy can repair," he declared.

Twenty-two national prominent educators and others will participate in the week long program.

YOUR NEW REGULAR ARMY WANTS YOU TO KNOW HOW VOLUNTEERS ARE SELECTED

Would it surprise you to know that only about 60 out of every 100 volunteers for the new Regular Army can measure up to today's requirements for a soldier?

Only the top 60% of American youth—mentally, morally and physically—can pass the rigid tests.

There are reasons for this which your Army wants you to know:

- The men we send overseas must represent you to millions of people who are struggling towards democracy. They must be typical of our best.
- The truly modern Army requires a far higher type of soldier than ever before. The wide use of scientific material and the broad program of research necessitate a superior man. Your Army must lead the world in the caliber of its men if it is to provide adequate defense in the atomic age.

These are reasons why Army enlistment standards today are higher than ever before—why your new Regular Army, although comparatively small in size—is performing its world-wide duties well.

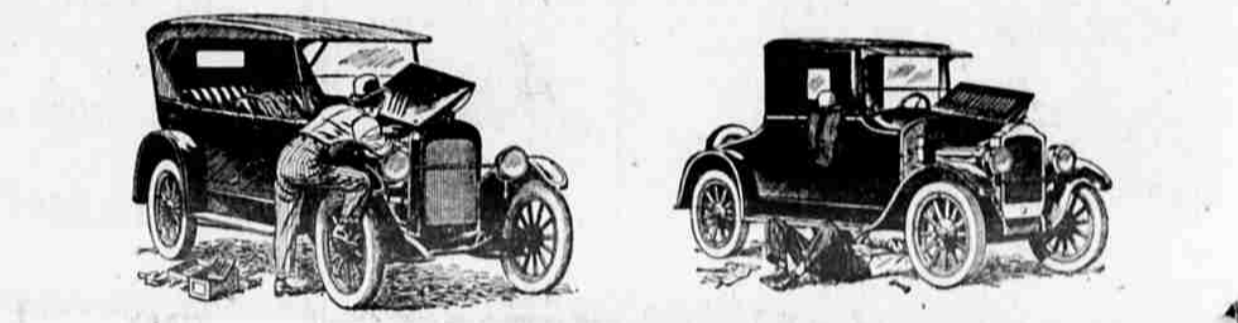

In Japan, for example, ours is the smallest occupation force per capita in world history—yet there is no record of greater achievement in such a short space of time.

If you can measure up to these standards, you will find enlistment in the new Regular Army a good career. You will live and work with friends whom you will value always. You will have opportunity for travel and high adventure, and a chance to qualify for Officer Candidate Schools and Technical Schools. Above all, you will have the deep satisfaction of doing an important job for your country.

Ask at any U. S. Army Recruiting Station about the many opportunities open to men who volunteer for three years.

This is how Dr. Jonas enjoyed the countryside in 1917. He didn't know that sludge, caused by old-fashioned oil, was making his Briscoe sluggish. Sludge is still a problem in modern motors. That's why RPM Motor Oil is compounded to keep engines clean by fighting heat and air, chief causes of power-robbing motor deposits.

The world had changed in 1924, but Dr. Jonas' view of it hadn't. Oil had stayed about the same, too—and that's why his Gray was often stalled by bearing trouble. Corrosion is the big bugaboo of modern alloy bearings—but it's no problem for RPM Motor Oil. "RPM," you see, contains an anti-corrosion compound that keeps bearings safe.

After all those years, along came "RPM" and— Dr. Jonas saw the light

Today Dr. Jonas has a happier view of things. For he's found an oil that's engineered to fit a modern motor's needs. He uses RPM Motor Oil because its added compounds keep his engine clean, guard hot spots ordinary oils leave bare, stop corrosion, rust and foaming. Try Dr. Jonas' prescription in your car—switch to premium-quality "RPM," the finest motor protection money can buy.
