

Legion Auxiliary Installs Heads

At an installation ceremony held in the parlors of the American Legion hall Tuesday evening, retiring officers of the American Legion auxiliary, Klamath unit, No. 8, passed the destiny of the unit into the keeping of a new official family.

Members of the Eight et Forty filled the chairs of the various officers and inducted each incumbent into her duties. Mrs. Carl Schubert, as installing president, instructed Mrs. R. Moteschbacher, as installing sergeant-at-arms, to present each of the new officers to her station, where she was met by the member of the Eight et Forty holding a like position in that organization and instructed in the duties of the office.

Assisting Mrs. Schubert in the ceremonies were Mrs. Fred Heilbronner, Mrs. Paul Otterbein, Mrs. Lester Finley, Mrs. Jennie Hurn, Mrs. Albert Petersteiner and Mrs. R. Moteschbacher.

Mrs. H. W. Petrick, outgoing president, presented the gavel to Mrs. Harold Ogle, the newly-installed head of the unit. Complimenting Mrs. Petrick upon a very successful year, Mrs. Albert Petersteiner presented her with the past president's pin, set with pearls, and with pendant gavel. Serving with Mrs. Ogle for the year will be Mrs. M. E. Cooper, first vice president; Mrs. Marian Barker, second vice president; Mrs. Christine Grubb, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. James Fowler, historian.

The executive committee consists of Mrs. Fred Heilbronner, Mrs. Carl Schubert and Mrs. Robert Odell. Mrs. Ogle announced the following appointments as heads of committees and requested each chairman to select an assistant to help during the coming year: Americanism, Mrs. Rosa Loomis; child welfare, Mrs. Arlene Schubert; community service, Mrs. Iris Gilson; girls' state, Mrs. Elizabeth Petersteiner; junior activities, Mrs. Ruby Pence; legislation, constitution and by-laws, Mrs. Doris Adams; membership, Mrs. Lana Moteschbacher; music, Mrs. Alice Abbott; national defense-Pan American, Mrs. Vera Petrick; national news and publicity, Mrs. Elizabeth Marek; poppy and poppy poster, Mrs. Marian Barker; radio, Mrs. Lillian Otterbein; hospital and rehabilitation, Mrs. Mildred Cooper; sick and distressed, Mrs. Jennie Hurn; finance, Mrs. Fred Heilbronner.

Preparations are being made by officers and delegates to attend the convention to be held in Portland June 26, 27 and 28. Delegates will be the new president, Mrs. Ogle, Mrs. Heilbronner, Mrs. Otterbein, Mrs. Grubb and Mrs. Hurn. Also attending are Mrs. R. Moteschbacher, Mrs. Carl Schubert, Mrs. Coleman O'Laughlin, Mrs. O. D. Matthews and Mrs. James Hunter. The retiring president, Vera Petrick, reported that the gavel-bell won by the unit for having obtained the largest percentage over quota of membership had been engraved and returned to the state organization where it will be presented to the unit earning it this year. It is hoped to bring it back to Klamath Falls after the successful membership drive made by Mrs. Moteschbacher, chairman of the membership committee, through whose efforts the unit now has a total of 202 members.

At the close of the meeting the members of the Eight et Forty, who had undertaken the entertainment and work of the evening, served refreshments to the members of the auxiliary and of the Legion.

DEAR MOOSE:

YEAH, We're having a dance this Saturday at the Moose Club.

Probably a bunch of people will come. Guess there's room for more.

The Sports Association is putting on the shin-dig. They say it'll be a big affair and they want everyone to come.

It looks like a big night for fun but if you've got something else planned . . . go ahead. Be a kill-joy. Let the Association go on the rocks. Let your officers sweat it out. Who knows, maybe the Association president will show up.

Yours usually,

ALL THE HAIR SHOPS and SHOPS

Studio of Beauty

The month of June may be wanting . . . but there's bound to be a strong whiff of orange blossoms in the air all summer . . . for concrete evidence, note social news, at any week. So if you are making plans for a wedding in the near future, heed the following:

At the Studio of Beauty you'll find the secret to the sights, murmurs, oh's and ah's which will accompany you down that middle aisle I guess you might call it a "beauty trousseau." Anyway, these are "its" four:

A luxurious facial for petal soft skin . . . An individual make-up with just the right shade of cosmetics to complement your wedding gown . . . A hairdo perfectly coordinated with the bridal headpiece you've picked out . . . And, of course, a manicure with harmonizing nail polish.

Make an appointment now at the STUDIO OF BEAUTY on the mezzanine floor of Whytal's. Fern Short or the other members of our staff—Steve, Beryl, Olive and Melva—will be glad to help you.

Remember, too, that the Studio of Beauty is air conditioned . . . so you can get yourself "beautified" in solid comfort!

Summer fur styles have adopted the charming fur cape of the Victorian era and added some 1947 dash, and one of the main reasons for its comeback is its adaptability. Mutation minks, American and Indian broadtail are highly popular.

Ready-made curtains with selvedge edge of fabric showing will hang better if the selvedge is trimmed and replaced with a narrow hem.

Pine Street Market

Food always makes an interesting topic for conversation. I think . . . On hot days such talk is especially interesting to homemakers, if in preparation or less time spent in the kitchen . . . which is exactly what the amazing selection of frozen foods at the Pine Street Market does mean.

Maybe it's a good thing that great-grandmother couldn't predict the culinary advances the mid-twentieth century would concoct . . . certainly she would have been . . . certainly she'd seen the frozen fried chicken . . . or the frozen fryers I saw this week.

In fact the Pine Street Market even has frozen Chicken a la King . . . so ideal for luncheons, if in Shortcake fans will find a mouth-watering stock of frozen strawberries . . . Besides other berries and fruits. Lots of frozen vegetables, too.

PS . . . Canned tuna fish and salmon . . . Canned on the shelves at the PINE STREET MARKET . . . corner of Pine and Seventh.

A new coating for sausage and other meat and food products is made from waste products such as citrus peel or other fruit and vegetable waste, and this film, while protective, is so tender that it dissolves on food along with meat that's fried or roasted.

Shaw's

Undoubtedly the scenic attraction residents of this area boast the loveliest and the longest about is Crater Lake . . . And rightfully so, too.

Shaw's Stationery has a display this week some beautiful tinted photographs of the lake . . . which should go a long way in convincing "disbelieving" friends in other parts of the world of the reality of our pride and joy.

An a matter of fact . . . I don't think you'll be able to part with these pictures once you've seen them!

Framed or unframed . . . the photographs are available in a wide price range.

Something else which caught my eye as I browsed around . . . (and don't miss a wonderful place to browse around in . . . were the clever Hallmark story book dolls make believe.

You really can't imagine how ingenious these cards are until you've seen them! Martha had had hard time getting a peek at them . . . A group of local moppets (and their mamas) completely enraptured the counter . . . applications of the display, too.

Mary Muffet, Little Bo-Peep, Red Riding Hood, Little Bo-Peep all come to life. My favorite, however, is Little Tommy Tucker. With a fancy feather perched in his cap, he's really a dashing boy!

Inside each card is related the story of the character it represents. Then there is a choice of small birthday or general greeting cards which can be attached to the larger cards.

These cards would gladden the heart of any member of the younger set . . . or older "collectors" for that matter!

At SHAW'S . . . 729 Main street.

Electric fans have lots of uses to speed up beauty routines, such as drying freshly polished nails, shimmored hair or pin-ups, and if the lingerer wash needs drying, just right place the fan on the floor to one side of the line so air can circulate.

Rickys Jeweler

Timely, indeed, were the things Martha saw at Rickys Jeweler on her about-town rounds yesterday. Matched wedding rings . . . no less . . . Mrs. . . . are exquisite. With double ring ceremonies becoming increasingly popular these days . . . would-be brides and grooms had best investigate this beautiful selection of rings . . .

I can't begin to mention all the matched sets I glimpsed . . . so I hope you'll be content with descriptions of these few I noticed particularly.

A stunning "Golden Knight" set . . . simulating the mail armor worn by gallant long ago in days of yore or something. But these have a modern, last minute look . . . no cobwebs traced.

Another set in yellow gold . . . with white gold inlay . . . has a novel diagonal design.

If you love tradition, there are plain, old-fashioned gold bands . . . wonderfully simple . . . always undying favorites.

Rickys is also showing an outstanding line of moderately priced sterling silver gifts . . . any one of which would be a perfect solution to a wedding gift problem, it seems to me.

RICKYS is . . . as you know . . . on the corner of Main and Seventh streets.

Homemakers who like to do their own preserving will be interested to learn that it looks as though there will be plenty of glass jars in pint and quart sizes this season. Also, more natural rubber is being made available to manufacturers of closures, so no shortage is anticipated in rubber rings or self-sealing jars.

Whytal's

Aside from fireworks, buckaroo contests, and red, white and blue parades, the Fourth of July can't be associated with excursions to nearby mountain and lake resorts. If you're contemplating a venture in the latter vein, let me tell you about the slick suits Wanda Speer showed me in Whytal's the other day.

In fact . . . no matter what you're planning for over the Fourth or any play time this summer . . . I'm sure you'll be interested in hearing about these "ensembles" . . . that's what they really are!

Some of them are so pretty, I'd hate to advocate wearing them for Joe-rolling purposes or similar activities. But they are, nevertheless, ideal apparel for lesser sports or spectating. Two or three piece outfits . . . they equal a complete wardrobe for a week-end trip.

A three piece gabardine suit . . . with black and white jacket . . . comes in several pastel shades. The jacket has the new three-quarter length push-up sleeves . . . and is belted in back. It's trimmed with amber-ash buttons and flap pockets. The tailored skirt has a stitched kick pleat.

Another three-piece . . . this time with bolero jacket, pedal pushers and skirt. The bolero jackets are "cuties"—style like the knickerbockers of the roaring twenties and buttoned at the knee.

In black, the outfit also includes a lovely crepe blouse. Cap-sleeved with a mandarin neckline. It could be worn with a dress skirt. This print also has a "Chinese" effect . . . lazily from shoulder to waist. The same motif is applied on the bolero.

The skirt buttons to the hem . . . but the buttons are covered with a flap.

Right in step with the coming radio feast is a "frontier" jacket . . . with a real western shirt, a close-fitting jerkin, and a snappy checked tie adds more zip to the "ensemble". This one comes in several different color combinations including yellow and brown, aqua and brown, and black and red.

More conservative . . . and beautifully tailored is a two piece suit . . . cream colored with a narrow white pin stripe . . .

The long jacket has a simple collar. And those slacks . . . mmm! I mustn't neglect the glamorous midriff-style slacks suits. The flat-top . . . fulsome hat . . . full sleeves . . . and a clever jet-buttoned arrangement in the middle. The blouse is splashily printed with tropical flowers . . . an effective contrast to the black strutter cloth slacks.

Guess my enthusiasm is running away with me . . . I could continue for pages . . . but instead, I hope you take a personal "look-see" at WHYTAL'S . . . corner of Main and Ninth streets.

LaPointe's

You'll discover, as Martha did this week, that LaPointe's is cotton dress haven . . . or heaven, for that matter. There are dozens of pert, crisp cottons just waiting for you. (At least they were waiting when I saw them . . . but considering how hard-to-resist Martha found them, I imagine the number is fast diminishing.)

These dresses range in price from $5.95 to $12.95 . . . and in regular sizes from 10 to 44, including half sizes.

The styles vary . . . There are one or two-piece . . . with long and short sleeves, cap sleeves, or no sleeves. Some of them are smart, peplums, semi-peplum effects. If you'd rather, there are classic shirt-waist types.

Trimmed with pique, elegant blouses and belts . . . in a multitude of colors, I know you'll agree with me when I say that they are mighty fetching.

Oh, yes, I almost forgot . . . all of these cottons are pre-shrunk . . . which is a nice thing to know.

But why don't you drop into LA-POINTE'S . . . corner of Fifth and Main . . . and see them for yourself. Then you can rave, too!

A wallpaper panel can substitute as a headboard over the bed. Paste the panel on the wall the width of a bed and headboard panel. Narrow wood moulding or a wallpaper border outlining the panel completes the illusion.

Currin's

If you've ever used a lipstick brush, you know I'm not exaggerating when I say it's an indispensable item of make-up gear. An attractive item, too . . . which it looks like the Martha Lorraine lipstick brushes I saw at Currin's this week.

These brushes are extra specially nice ones, believe me . . . Designed in Hollywood by make-up experts who have to be that way (expert that is), you may choose one of three types.

Being a "mechanical moron," I hesitate to describe the whys and wherefores of how this gadget works. Hold it upside down, press a button and the brush pops out . . . vice versa and the brush goes into hiding again. Simple . . . or do you understand?

One type has a soft, luxuriant sable brush . . . and is encased in a handsome container complete with a metal top and release and has a light colored marbled surface in between. This one is priced at $3.50.

If there are modified versions of the same selling for $1.00 and for applications of Suntan Oil for your first day out. Now I know.

Incidentally, this Suntan Oil is priced at $1.25 . . . plus federal tax, naturally.

Or, if you prefer, you can try Elizabeth Arden's Sunproof Cream. Smoothed over the skin it becomes almost invisible, leaving an imperceptible film that gives the skin a natural mat finish. It also protects the skin against the effects of undue exposure. (Remember my case!) Sunproof Cream sells for $1.00 plus tax.

You'll find other preparations for safe and sane sunbathing at Miller's . . . including Primrose House and Charles of the Ritz products.

Another "must" for the good ol' summertime . . . or any time . . . is Elizabeth Arden's "Blue Grass" codonium. It has a refreshing . . . just right scent. Priced at $1.25, plus tax.

At MILLER'S . . . 512 Main street.
