

THE FAMOUS OLD CARR RANCH in Klamath county, Oregon, and Medoc county in California, owned by William C. "Bill" Dalton, is one of the finest ranches in the basin. The beautiful Colonial house, shown elsewhere in this section, was built in 1823 and stands just over the Oregon-California line. The Dalton holdings now embrace 18,000 acres including the Carr ranch, the ranch at Dry lake and the third at Steele swamp. Founded by Jesse D. Carr who came here in the '60's, the famous Carr pitchfork brand has been placed on thousands of head of cattle. At the present time 2800 head wear the brand.

Pictures on this page depict life on the Carr ranch. 1. Mrs. Elgin Stoney and Mrs. Harrison Ingram, cooks, ring the old dinner bell which has been rung countless times to call the ranchhands in to bountiful meals. No. 2. Bill Dalton shows one of the original pitchfork branding irons. The brand was registered in 1872. 3. Every ranch has a dog and the Dalton place is no exception. "Dab" hears the clang of the dinner bell and brings his plate. 4. Billy Dalton brings up a horse for a ranch visitor to ride. 5. The old bunk house will soon be a thing of the past. Workmen are tearing down the structure which has stood for more than 25 years close in the house. A new bunk house with every modern convenience, is being completed across the lane. The Carr ranch once stretched over 40,000 acres of farm and range land. In 1907, the federal government took over land for the Clear Lake reservoir but the three holdings still remain highly important in the basin area. See for Yourself What It's Like to Cultivate with the "70"

Don't take anybody's say-so about what a great job the Oliver Row Crop "70" does with its centrally mounted cultivator. Drive the "70" and see for yourself how it has everything, does everything and is a beauty to handle as well as in looks. See the shovels working in plain sight right in front of you, as you roll straight down the row at 4 1/2 m.p.h. on rubber tires. You draw close up to the fence... a second's pause, up come the gangs as you whip the wheels around and the automatic steering brakes come into play... You're on the line, the brakes release, down come the gangs and away you go down the rows with a running start.

That's cultivating as only the Row Crop "70" cultivator does it. That's smooth, lively 6-cylinder power under finger-tip control from the comfortable driver's seat—automotive steering with steering-braking on turns—the Oliver Variable Speed Governor Control that enables you to use only the fuel needed to do the work—speed that gets cultivating done when it will do the most good. The "70" is built in two fuel types: the "70" HC with high compression engine for gasoline and the "70" KD with engine designed for kerosene or distillate. Pick your fuel and your "70" and get modern low-cost tractor power. See us about a demonstration today.
