WASHINGTON, July 7.—A new high in political intimidation was scored when an electrical international field representative organized the picketing of the wedding of a young son of Senator Taft because of Taft's legislative views.

"Mother says I'm not a very good cook, darling, but I'll make up for that and give you loads and loads of food!"

MADRID, July 7 (AP)—Unofficial returns indicated today that Spanish voters had ratified yesterday by a margin of approximately 10 to 1 a law confirming Generalissimo Francisco Franco as chief of state and giving him the right to propose his successor, who would become regent.

Results tabulated by the Associated Press from 12,018 out of 21,342 polling places showed 5,664,904 affirmative votes to 330,477 opposed and 16,185,000 blank. Approximately 16,185,000 persons were eligible to vote in the elections—the first to be held in Spain in 11 years.

Big Majority An official announcement of the outcome was expected later in the day. Meanwhile government comment was limited to a statement by Interior Minister Blas Perez that the succession law had been approved by an "overwhelming majority."

National security police said the voting was generally orderly and that an accidental death at a polling place in a Galiano town constituted the only casualty.

It appeared, however, that the eagerness of Spanish citizens to go to the polls after 11 years, plus a tendency to underestimate the strength of the regime and its propaganda, had upset the calculations of many prognosticators who had foreseen a comparatively light vote.

Today's Roundup

The flying saucer business has started the experts off on expressions of great concern over the state of mind of the American people.

Personally, we, too, are skeptical. We haven't seen any flying saucers, although we have spent a good deal of time looking at the sky the last few days.

There are birds in the Klamath country which skim very high and at seemingly great speed. An observer with his imagination properly conditioned for it can make of those birds. We have done it.

But these two suggested explanations of some of the things people have seen will not be accepted by them. Those who have seen the discs have seen them. Those who have not seen them are merely offering uninformed opinion.

Good Show

KLAMATH'S rodeo proved as smooth running as any shows of this nature we have ever witnessed. There was a minimum of time loss between events, and those dragging periods which have marked some of the shows of the past were pleasantly missing.

This could be attributed, of course, to good planning and arena management. Contributing factors were the good work of the announcer, Cy Tallion, and the presence of that steel fence which separates the arena from the track.

Briefs From The Pocket File

HIGHLIGHT of the Sunday rodeo for us was the horse which fell and lay like dead, the rope taut, until the rider had made his tie in the team roping contest. . . . The Yawkey tract in the Fort Klamath country, bought by the state for $21,000 and made into a state forest, has yielded $45,000 in timber sales. . . . The county gets 75 per cent of the sales from this forest, after the original $21,000 cost price is liquidated. . . . Klamath's kids contributed one of the best features of the Fourth of July parade. . . . Those who have seen the junior parade at the Portland rose festival will agree that kids can do a better job at parades than adults. . . . It would be a good idea to encourage the youngsters to make a full dress affair out of their parade here each Fourth of July.

Immediate Significance

THE immediate significance of this picketing involves the question how far the unions are going in opposition to a law enacted by more than two-thirds of congress. One small Ohio manufacturer, who has never had serious labor trouble (no strikes), says privately his men have turned against their leaders in the past week, are growing restless, and he fears the result. Indeed the trend has gone so far an AFL official issued public assurance against revolutionary activities such as a general strike. But private reports from certain eastern factories disclose the communists have found meat to their liking in the situation, and are going whole hog at it, intending to goad the unions to the utmost.

My own reports are meagre and largely personal, but do not bear out these fearful suspicions. Or rather, the most trustworthy objective reports, while inadequate, show none of these political disasters is actually possible. American union leaders, and rank and file, agree on not wanting socialism. They get higher wages now, than British socialism will ever provide. They want freedom of negotiation and contract. The communists and socialists will ride union coat tails, and perhaps foment or do the dirtiest of the campaigning job against the law, but they are not likely to convert American union leadership to their cause.

Small Turnout

NEWS account of the picketing of the church at the Taft son wedding says the field organizer had planned for several thousands of his members to stage their picket protest, but only 150 showed. This kind of stuff was apparently too much even for most of the electrical workers. The whole union leadership, however, does not seem to realize in its campaign that it has failed to swing public opinion. The campaign is emotional, purely. The unions act outraged. They do not point to anything anyone has done to them yet, under the bill, which contravenes justice. They say the law is unjust, but they only offer their own interpretations of it and say these possibilities are unjust. They have made no cause celebre to convince anyone. They have only shown the law is against their wishes. They need to demonstrate their cause more clearly, but they cannot do this by agitation and they may hurt their cause before the public by extreme activities.

In case you have been wondering what Jane Adams, the assistant dartsmaster on the "Darts for Dough" show, looks like, here is the answer. Unlike our friend Gerald Mohr, the cameraman didn't fool Jane one bit. She knows he's there, and isn't even trying to fool us into thinking she doesn't.

Incidentally, yesterday I listened to a show which reaches a new high in something, only it's not too good. The title of the program escapes me, but it consisted of several members of the audience attempting to solve a fictitious crime in a certain length of time.

They did this, or were in the process when I turned my radio off, with the aid of a Don Ameche—telephone to you. For minute after boring minute these poor selected detectives of the air talked to fictitious characters over a fictitious phone attempting to solve a fictitious crime. It is my guess that before the program was half over they

USS Iowa To Visit Hawaii

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 7 (CP)—The largest warship afloat, 53,000-ton USS Iowa, slipped from Burrard inlet at high tide here today, having played host to 10,000 visitors during her five-day visit.

The masts of the grey leviathan barely cleared 200-foot Lions Gate bridge as the Iowa pointed her knife-like bow southward for a 90-day visit to the Hawaiian Islands. Thousands of persons, many of them previously turned away from Ballantyne pier where the vessel was docked, broke through police lines Sunday and swarmed to the pier's edge. Two women fainted and ambulances, called to assist them, were unable to push through the milling mobs. The near-riot was finally broken up by the U. S. shore patrol.

For the serious listener, Tuesday night from 9 to 10 p. m. will mark an hour of superb listening pleasure. It is the second Esplanade concert of the summer season, coming to you, of course, from the banks of the Charles. Conductor will again be Arthur Fiedler and the guest soloist will be Luise Voserghian. Miss Voserghian is a pianist and will lend her talents to what should be a memorable rendition of Liszt's "First Piano Concerto."

Delfel Trial In Multnomah County

SALEM, July 7 (AP)—Charles Delfel, Portland real estate operator who is charged in Multnomah and Marion counties with embezzlement, will be tried in Multnomah county first, District Attorney Miller B. Hayden announced today.

Hayden said Delfel has been turned over to Multnomah county authorities because "most of the evidence is in Multnomah county." Delfel was arrested here last Thursday after he was sought for almost a month. Multnomah County Deputy District Attorney John D. Logan said complaints have been signed against Delfel accusing him of taking more than $40,000 in clients' funds.

WHY WE SAY

"PADDLE YOUR OWN CANOE"

Indians often built canoes large enough only to accommodate one person. Therefore if a man could not paddle he could not use the canoe—the phrase thus derived the meaning of self-reliance.

The World Today

By DeWITT MacKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The battle of the isms between the Russian bid and the western democracies is intensifying as the result of Moscow's curt refusal to join in a unified program for the economic rehabilitation of stricken Europe—a refusal generally accepted in the western world as significant Soviet intentions to push the campaign for the communication of all the continent, and other lands.

That's a disconcerting development, though not unexpected. It likely means an ideological fight to a finish. However, it strikes me we shall make a mistake if we adopt the pessimistic viewpoint being advanced by some that this ideological warfare necessarily means combat with bombs and guns.

Clash at Arms Of course we should be foolish not to recognize that the battle of isms might grow into a clash at arms, and we certainly must be prepared for all contingencies. But the real danger of war lies in permitting aggressive communism to expand and gain power by using strong arm methods on helpless countries, when such expansion is halted now, the

Timber Bids Open July 15

Bids will be opened on July 15 at the Klamath Forest Protective association offices on purchase of a stand of fir timber within the boundaries of Klamath Indian reservation, but now owned by the state in connection with the state forest at the old Yawkey tract near Fort Klamath.

C. C. Williams, representative of the state forestry department here, said that about 750,000 feet of timber lies in the stand.

Klamath county acquired this particular tract of timber some years ago by tax title. The county court decided the tract to the state and 90 per cent of the proceeds of the sale will go to Klamath county, the state retaining 10 per cent for management purposes.

The bids will be opened at 10:30 a. m.

trate heavily on France and Italy in an effort to hamstring them. Both these war-shattered countries had large communist representation in their cabinets until recently when the red ministers were ousted by the premiers. However, both governments remain shaky and the situation is one which Moscow is likely to try to exploit.

Kimball Recreation Area Improvement Slated Soon

Work will start within a short time on making improvements at the Jackson Kimball recreation area in the state forest at the head of Wood river, according to C. C. Williams, local representative of the state forestry department.

A man from the state forestry office will come here this week to look over the area and outline the work to be done. This will include cleaning up brush, snags and debris, and making the area ready for eventual construction of fireplaces and picnic facilities.

When the state purchased the Yawkey tract some years ago, it set aside the area around the head of Wood river for a recreation area and named it after the late Jack Kimball, long-time Klamath timber mill owner.

The recreation area was the center of logging operations some years ago, and there is considerable down timber and debris there.

Wood river has its beginnings in the area, coming as a full river from large springs.

Dewey Support Said Doubtful

ST. LOUIS, July 7 (AP)—E. W. Bronsch, treasurer of the Missouri republican committee, said today he disagreed with Barak T. Mattingly's prediction that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York would get this state's 23 votes for the presidential nomination at the national convention next June.

Mattingly, national committee man from Missouri, was quoted as saying he had assured the governor of the state's support during Dewey's brief stop here Saturday.

Bronsch told reporters, "in contacting republican leaders throughout the state I have found considerable support for former Minnesota Governor Harold E. Stassen. Many of us feel that he would be an excellent candidate because of his outstanding record as governor, his service in the navy and his frankness in meeting issues squarely and openly."

Snell Endorses Williams Candidacy

SALEM, July 7 (AP)—Governor Earl Snell said today he has endorsed the candidacy of Harry E. Williams, Portland, for junior vice commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Williams is being sponsored by the Oregon department at the national convention to be held in Kansas City, Mo., August 24. Oregon never has had a national commander of the organization, the governor said.

California has more motor trucks than any other state with 431,500 registered.
